Two Sides Sign 'Firm Truce' To Halt Dominican Civil War

4 Provisions In Agreement

(Times News Services)

SANTO DOMINGO—The Organization of American States announced today that both sides had signed a "firm truce" in the civil war that cost more than 1,000 dead and brought U.S. armed intervention.

Before the announcement, troops of the U.S. 92nd Airborne Division opened fire on a 350-foot rebel trawler in the Ozama River touching off a tremendous ammunition explosion that cast a black pall over the city.

The trawler apparently was bringing in rebel arms from abroad.

Several hundred more American troops landed today as the OAS officials met at the loyalist stronghold of San Isidro Airbase.

The U.S. defence department announced there now are 18,363 U.S. troops in the Dominican.

Junta leaders and rebel provisional "president" Francisco Caamano Deno signed the truce.

The agreement called the "Act of Santo Domingo" had four provisions:

- Formalizes the ceasefire already shakily in effect.
- Demarcates an enlargement of the security zone carved out by U.S. marines and paratroopers to include all foreign embassies.
- Provides for evacuation of persons who have taken asylum in various embassies and of refugees caught up in the fighting.
- Provides for distribution of food, medicine and medical equipment to both sides regardless of political beliefs.

OPENED FIRE

The trawler of unknown nationality first opened fire on the U.S. paratroopers who returned the fire and the explosion followed.

The ship did not sink but was lying disabled in the river which bisects Santo Domingo. Fate of its crew was not known.

The rebels have announced the election of Caamano as "provisional president" but so far the Americans have shown little interest in him.

Though officially neutral they have worked through junta leader Col. Pedro B. Benoit whose forces hold the airport where American troops and supplies have landed.

Military sources said eight American servicemen have been killed.

Some public services resumed operation in Santo Domingo today and emergency food and medical supplies poured in. The revolt broke out 11 days ago.

52 Climbers Killed In Japan Blizzards

TOKYO (Reuters)—The death toll of holiday mountaineers soared to a record 52 today as blizzards battered Japanese mountain areas.

Police said the mountain death toll was Japan's worst for its annual Golden Week holiday period which began with Emperor Hirohito's birthday April 29. The previous high toll was 20 in 1962.

It was estimated that 3,000 persons had mountaineered during the holiday period despite warnings of rough weather.

Police reported many climbers were rescued after having been stranded by fierce snowstorms caused by unusual atmospheric depressions.

Eighteen climbers were badly injured in falls.

KLANSMAN COLLIE WILKINS JR. hurries past photographers as he enters court for third day of his trial at Hayneville. An FBI undercover agent testified Wilkins fired the shots that killed a white civil rights worker.

'WILKINS' KILLER'

Klansman Shot Rights Worker Says FBI Spy

(Times News Services)

HAYNEVILLE, Ala.—A defence lawyer sought today to portray an FBI undercover man as a troublemaker and a member of the Ku Klux Klan who violated a sworn oath against betraying secrets of the white- supremist order.

Matt H. Murphy Jr., general counsel for United Klans of America Inc., dug into the background of Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., the FBI informer, in an attempt to discredit the undercover man's testimony.

Rowe testified Tuesday that Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, was the killer of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, following a Negro - organized civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery March 25.

Rowe, answering Murphy's questions in a calm, deliberate voice, admitted receiving periodic payments from the FBI in return for information about Klan activities.

He said he had been paid $800 in one month, last January, but that most months the figure was much smaller.

Murphy drew a rebuke from circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard when the lawyer asked Rowe whether he had been paid any money by "Castro or the Communist government."

"Mr. Murphy," the judge said, "I think you know better than to ask a question like that."

Wilkins, of Fairfield, Ala., is the first of three Klansmen brought to trial on first-degree murder indictments.

After Rowe left the stand Tuesday, Murphy commented angrily to reporters that Rowe had "told a G—d— lie and I'll prove it tomorrow."

Mrs. Liuzzo, 39-year-old mother of five and the wfie of a Teamsters' Union official, was shot to death while shuttling other marchers back to Selma following the civil rights march to Montgomery in which she, too, had taken part. A young Negro, Leroy Moton, riding in the front seat with her escaped injury.

Row told the all-white 12-man jury Eugene Thomas, 42, of Bessemer, drove the Klan car and that seated next to Thomas was 41-year-old William Orville Eaton, also of Bessemer. Thomas and Eaton are the other Klansmen under murder indictment and awaiting trial.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD, Gary Thomas Rowe Jr. (centre) walks to court room in Hayneville, Ala., where he testified he saw Klansman Collie Wilkins Jr. shoot white civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Luizzo.

Undercover Agent for 5 Years

Rowe said he had been a paid undercover agent for the FBI for five years.

Rowe told the court Tuesday he was riding with the accused trio the night Mrs. Liuzzo was killed.

He said the car in which he was riding followed the Liuzzo vehicle on U.S. Highway 80. He said Thomas, the driver, pulled out and drove parallel to the Liuzzo automobile.

Rowe told the court Wilkins leaned out of the car window and fired two bullets almost point blank at the woman just as she turned and "looked straight at us."

Rowe said Wilkins exclaimed "they're dead now and in hell."

After the killing, Rowe testified "Gene Thomas said, 'Let's go by the dragon's house,' —that's Robert Creel, the Grand Dragon of the state of Alabama —'and tell him what a good job we did'."

Moton testified Mrs. Liuzzo was humming "We Shall Overcome," the anthem of the civil rights movement, when the shots rang out.

"Did you smell whisky on her breath before the car went off the road?" Murphy asked.

Moton said he did not.

Murphy asked: "Did you do anything to her?"

"No I didn't," Moton replied.

"Did you fire those shots in the window?" Murphy roared at Moton.

"Wasn't there lots of money in her pocketbook and you took it?"

Moton denied both questions.

"You're trying to pin something on me, that's what," Moton said.

Murphy asked Moton if he had relations with Mrs. Liuzzo but the question was ordered struck by the judge.

"You don't know where those shots came from, do you?" Murphy asked.

"I don't know where they came from," Moton replied.

SEATO MINISTERS:

Defensive Action 'Must Continue'

LONDON (Reuters) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization ministerial council in a communique issued here tonight said that until Communist aggression in South Viet Nam was brought to an end resolute defensive action must be continued.

The council also expressed grave concern at the situation arising from Indonesia's confrontation of Malaysia as constituting a serious threat to peace in the Southeast Asia area.

The Pakistani delegation made a special observation in the communique on the passages dealing with the Viet Nam conflict.

It expressed to the council its special concern over the consequences of the continuance of armed conflict in Viet Nam and expressed the hope that determined efforts would also be made to restore peace in that area through negotiations on the basis of the existing Geneva agreements.

The council—at the end of its three-day meeting — expressed the hope that "an honorable and secure settlement would be arrived at on a basis acceptable

36,000 U.S. TROOPS IN VIET NAM

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines killed eight Viet Cong guerrillas south of Da Nang Tuesday in their most successful combat patrol of the war. Two marines were wounded.

Transport planes landed 1,200 U.S. paratroopers today, bringing army ground combat units to Viet Nam for the first time. About 2,300 more men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, based in Okinawa, were expected soon, probably this week.

The movement of the paratroop brigade will bring U.S. armed forces in Viet Nam to about 36,000.

Police Charge Crowd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police on foot and on motorcycles charged a crowd of civil rights demonstrators and bystanders Tuesday night at all-white Gerard College. They were reported to have injured two girls. Six persons, all Negroes, were arrested in the action, which took place after the anti-segregation picketing of the school.

French Press, Radio Silenced by Saigon

SAIGON (Reuters)—South Viet Nam today ordered the expulsion of the chief correspondent of Agence France-Presse, halted all French broadcasts and warned that further diplomatic measures might be taken against France.

The government announced it had taken these steps because of the French government's stand at the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference in London.

Tuesday France said it would officially dissociate itself from any joint action by SEATO and any of its conclusions on the Viet Nam crisis.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the nightly two-hour broadcasts over Saigon radio of programs supplied by the French cultural mission to South Viet Nam would cease as from tonight.

The expelled correspondent was Jean Ageorges, chief of AFP's Saigon bureau.

U.S. RESISTS ATTACKS

Pressure Grows To Leave Island

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States toady faced growing pressure in the United Nations for a speedy withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to reply in the Security Council this afternoon to a sharp attack by Uruguay and to a French call for a rapid end to U.S. military intervention in the Latin American country.

But Stevenson made clear Tuesday that the United States intends to maintain its forces there until the Organization of American States has worked out plans to guarantee order under a constitutional government.

Cuban delegate Fernando Alavarez Tabio commented that this was a formula for indefinite U.S. intervention.

One of the hardest blows for the U.S. was the toughness of a denunciation by Uruguay delegate Carlos Maria Valazquez, who declared that what he called the new "Johnson doctrine" was contrary to the traditional inter-American policy of non-intervention.

BOLIVIA BACKS U.S.

Uruguay is one of the two Latin American members of the 11-nation council. The other is Bolivia, which backed the U.S. view that the Dominican problem should be handled by the OAS and not by the UN.

Bolivian delegate Fernando Ortiz Sanz, suggested, however, that Security Council President Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia be authorized to appeal to the Dominican factions to take all possible measures to obtain a ceasefire.

The British lined up solidly behind the United States and the OAS.

"It is to the Organization of American States that we should look to find a settlement," Lord Caradon told the council, "and then to facilitate a rapid return to normal conditions, and then to leave the way open to the establishment of a free government based on the wishes of the Dominican people."

DR. SAMUEL SHEPPARD

Wife Killer's Freedom Ends

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) —The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today set aside a lower court order freeing Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard and ordered him returned to prison for the bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife.

There was no immediate indication when Sheppard might be returned to Ohio penitentiary in Columbus but it was expected his attorneys would ask the court to leave Dr. Sheppard free on bond while an appeal is taken to the supreme court.

The court's decision overturned an order issued last July by federal district Judge Carl Weinman at Dayton who said Sheppard did not receive a fair trial at Cleveland and ordered him released.

Protest Rejected

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China has formally protested to Russia against the Soviet expulsion of four Chinese students from Russian Universities, the New China Agency said tonight. The Kremlin rejected the protest by returning the note, the agency said.

U.S. REFUSES TO GRANT RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today withheld recognition of the rebel Dominican "provisional government" former under Col. Francisco Caamano Deno.

A department spokesman said "in our view there is no effective government at the present time" in the Dominican Republic.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey also said that the United States had "no candidate" to head a Dominican regime.

McCloskey said an effective Dominican government "would have to demonstrate that it was in control of the country, and that has yet to be demonstrated."

Labor Group Rebuffs Tri-U Fund

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The Alberni and District Labour Council has refused to support the Three Universities Capital Fund.

The council Tuesday night rejected a request by Victoria representatives of the fund for a campaign covering union members.

Council president Dan Connell said financing for the universities should be derived from the same source at that for general education—the general tax structure. He added: "It should not be collected through tin cup methods."

The fund is currently attempting to raise $28,000,000 for capital projects at the University of B.C., the University of Victoria, and Simon Fraser University.

The Chamber of Commerce, business and other groups in the Albernis last week gave their support to fund representatives.

Johnson Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives overwhelmingly backed up President Johnson's Viet Nam and Dominican Republic policies today by sending to the Senate an emergency $700,000,000.

German Capitulation Marked by Canadians

DEVENTER (Reuters)—Canadian troops again marched through The Netherlands today, 20 years after their fighting led to the German capitulation in Holland at Wageningen May 5, 1945.

A march-past in this Dutch town of Canadian NATO troops stationed in West Germany was reviewed this afternoon by Gen. Charles Foulkes, who commanded the Canadian 1st Army Corps in Holland during the war and Canadian Ambassador W. F. Bull.

Prior to the parade the Canadian party, including Brig. T. Graeme Gibson, wartime commander of the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, was scheduled to attend a commemoration service at the Canadian Military Cemetery at Holten in Overijssel province.

About 200 relatives of soldiers buried there came here for the commemoration.

Flags were out all over Holland today, a national holiday, and church bells rang to celebrate the liberation.

From 47 Dutch municipalities nearly 400 relay - race-runners early today lighted their Liberty Torches in front of the Wageningen Hotel De Wereld where the capitulation was signed 20 years ago in the presence of Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands

The village of Zwartsluis in Overijssel celebrated liberation day in its own special way: A public meal was served consisting of meat and vegetables.

This was served by the cooks of the Canadian troops in the first days after Holland was liberated. Nearly the whole village took part in the meal.

TRAFFIC NOISE WILL BE CUT BY BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new transport minister announced plans today to muffle motorcycles, scooters, automobiles and trucks.

In a letter to the Noise Abatement Society, Tom Fraser said motor vehicles will be limited to 85 decibels before the end of the year.

The minister said vehicles exceeding the decibel limit will be ordered off the streets and roads. He said enforcement details would be announced later.

REBELS CONTROL TEEMING DOWNTOWN SECTION

Barbed Wire, Marines Separate Armed Camps

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Eleven days of rebellion have divided the Dominican Republic's ancient capital into two armed camps separated by U.S. marine barricades and barbed wire.

The marines occupy most of the well-to-do residential area while rebels hold the teeming downtown section.

People pass freely through the barricades, but marines frisk them for arms.

Marine headquarters is the luxury hotel El Embajador, where families waiting to be evacuated sleep on the Victorian furniture in the lobby.

The marines have turned a polo field into a supply depot and helicopter landing strip. The tropical shrubbery and lawns have been scarred by tanks, amphibious trucks and foxholes.

Water is a luxury, available for only two or three hours each day, usually in the morning. Electricity is beginning to be restored, but food is scarce. Many Dominicans gratefully accept rations from the marines.

In the residential area, few venture far from their homes. Virtually none of the well-to-do go to their offices.

A rebel army is in control of the downtown section. Thousands of men and women, most of them armed, support the rebels. Estimates of their number vary from 15,000 to 47,000.

Some people have come from the countryside to support the rebels in the city, moving in with relatives and friends.

In a garage, 40 officers of the riot police, taken prisoner when the rebels seized their headquarters, share food and beer with their guards. At night they sleep in cars. The garage door is not locked.

During an interview, they got into a discussion with the guards over details of a battle in which 13 were killed and 400 taken prisoner.

The garage owner had the last word. Leaning on the hood of a car, he declared: "The Yankees are responsible for this entire crisis."

Armed rebels are everywhere downtown, lounging in doorways on the streets and leaning out of windows.

There are occasional skirmishes, but firing a block away usually does not halt the flow of people through the checkpoints.

There is no official death toll of Dominicans, but doctors in two downtown hospitals estimate that more than 1,000 have died since the fighting started April 24. Many were women and children, struck by shrapnel, bomb fragments and stray bullets.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

It was cold in British Columbia Tuesday night. Temperatures in the interior were in the 20s with Penticton reporting a chilly 24 degrees at 4 a.m. Coastal areas did not entirely escape the freeze. Nanaimo recorded an overnight low of 29 and the minimum at Patricia Bay was 31 degrees. Although today was sunny in most areas, clear skies tonight will allow rapid cooling again over the province and frost is expected in many areas. Some relief is expected Thursday, however, as a weather system from the Pacific brings rain to the north coast, cloud and a moderating trend in temperatures to the rest of the province.

Killer Frost Brings Dividend

By HILDA BEASTALL

When a benefit develops from a seeming disaster, we are inclined to forget the disaster, which is all to the good, I suppose.

Hilda

Camellias are an example this year. Back in March, I saw many of these evergreen shrubs with the flower buds blackened, and even leaves so badly scorched that the owners were wondering if the shrubs would survive.

This week a number of these same camellias are showing several new shoots out of each branch tip where the blackened buds were situated.

In most cases, they were given generous treatment during March in an effort to help them overcome the effects of winter.

They were watered during the period of low humidity in March, given a feeding of special acid fertilizer, and a two-inch layer of dampened peat moss over the root area.

The amount of new growth being produced this early in spring is most likely due to the fact that no flowers materialized.

Normally, the new growth does not appear on the flowering shoots until after the flowers fade and drop, but this year with no bloom to take care of, the shrubs are putting up a phenomenal amount of new growth.

Next spring should see masses of flowers if they are cared for during this summer.

The same thing seems to be happening to rhododendrons which normally bloom in early May.

Those which have no flowers are already showing four and five strong new growths at each branch tip.

It is not too late to give a final feeding to these acid-loving shrubs. Be sure to use only the special acid fertilizer prepared for them, and use according to directions.

Uvic Officials Defend Policy

University of Victoria officials today stood by the principle of citizen donations to varsity building campaigns.

The reaction followed a statement by Uvic Prof. Tony Emery, at a Monday night panel discussion, that governments only will support universities fully with tax dollars if private citizens refuse to make donations.

University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor was informed of the statement in Montreal where he is on a trip.

His assistant, Dr. William Scargill, said the president still stood by his statement March 8 when he kicked off the current Three Universities Building Fund Campaign.

At that time, he said:

"So great is the task of our universities that it is clearly a joint private-public responsibility. So important is community involvement in higher education that we cannot rely on government funds alone."

SPEAKING IN ABSTRACT

Administration Dean Robert Wallace commented that although he was not present at the discussion, he understood that Prof. Emery was speaking in the abstract and not attacking the current citizen drive.

"To the best of my knowledge and understanding, Mr. Emery was speaking about the principle of university financing and he was not referring in any way to the current Three Universities campaign," said Dean Wallace.

"In point of fact, Mr. Emery has been a very active worker for the campaign since it began and I'm sure he did not intend to suggest that citizens, who have a vital interest in the growth and development of our universities, should not support the fund."

William Armstrong, chairman of the fund's Vancouver Island division, commented:

"Im disappointed at Prof. Emery's announcement but as far as I'm concerned that is a university matter, particularly because it concerns one of their own professors and possible long-term university policy.

"As a matter of interest, Prof. Emery has contributed both in time and money to this university fund drive and I feel sure would not intentionally do anything harmful."

Publishers Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of Daily Newspaper Publishers asked Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday to drop the government's proposed legislation to guard against foreign take-overs of Canadian newspapers. They said the measure involves "a fundamental violation of long established press freedom in Canada" and, as such, is against the best interests of both the country and its newspapers.

to the Asian nations concerned."

The Pakistan delegation again made a reservation.

It expressed concern at the continuance of the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute and expressed the view that it could be resolved by peaceful means, that efforts should be pursued toward that end and that nothing should be done further to aggravate the existing conflict.

The French observer at the conference said his government did not consider itself to be committed by the communique since he had not taken part in preparing it.

President de Gaulle only sent an observer to the conference mainly because of his disagreement with the United States over its Viet Nam policy.

Countries fully adhering to the communique were Australia, Britain, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and the United States.

Earlier, informed sources said Pakistan had joined France in disagreeing with U.S. policy on Viet Nam, causing difficulty in drafting the final communique.

BORN IN TURMOIL

Revolt-Torn Island Lives With Violence

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The lid blew off the Dominican Republic May 30, 1961, with the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo. Four years later, the pieces are still falling.

Trujillo's death at 69 ended 31 years of repressive police-state rule. It also marked the start of continual turmoil culminating in the current civil fighting and American intervention.

Turmoil is nothing new for Hispaniola, the lush, mountainous island shared by the Dominican Republic and Haiti. It began almost as soon as Columbus set foot there in 1492.

The Dominican capital, Santo Domingo, was established in 1496 as the first white city of the hemisphere. Relics of Spanish rule still remain, including battlements built in 1537 for defence against the Caribbean pirates and the French and English.

A negro revolt in the western third of the island ended French rule in 1804 and established the republic of Haiti.

The eastern end endured Spanish, French and Haitian domination, mixed with attempts at independence. until the Spanish were finally ejected in 1865.

The country, almost as big as Nova Scotia, degenerated into poverty, wracked by repeated revolts.

U.S. TAKES OVER

In 1916, during one governmental breakdown, the United States occupied the country, handing it back after eight years to elected President Horacio Vasquez.

During the American occupation Trujillo, son of a farmer, rose to prominence as head of the constabulary.

Six years after the marines left, revolt broke out against Vasquez and the constabulary failed to back the government.

Trujillo ran in presidential elections and won easily after opposition candidates, subjected to violent attacks, pulled out.

For the next three decades he ruled like a Caesar, keeping a food-taster and a rifle nearby and controlling the country through terror tactics and an efficient spy network.

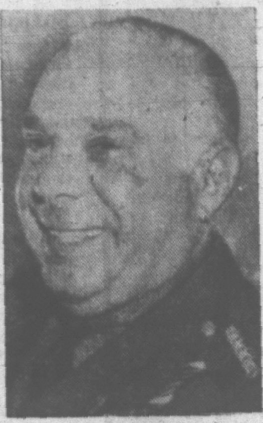
Trujillo and his family eventually controlled some 500,000 acres and the best industries.

Some estimates of the fortune put it as high as $400,000,000.

Even his severest critics, however, conceded that Trujillo brought order and relative prosperity to the country.

Santo Domingo, shattered by a hurricane, was rebuilt into a gracious city with magnificent public buildings.

The sugar, coffee and cocoa growing areas were run efficiently by big monopolies, many American.



TRUJILLO

RAFAEL JR.
. . . unsuccessful bid

BALAGUER

BOSCH
. . . social reforms

But by the late 1950s, rumblings of dissatisfaction increased over American support for Trujillo.

The dictator's favorite son, Rafael Jr. (Ramfis)—who was made an honorary colonel at the age of 3 and a brigadier-general at 9—was cutting a high-living swath through the United States and drawing criticism from congressmen.

By 1960, the Dominican Roman Catholic clergy was branding Trujillo's rule "repressive." Outside, the Organization of American States blamed him for an assassination attempt on Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt and imposed tough sanctions against his regime.

The country was ripe for explosion.

Nevertheless, many of the country's 3,200,000 people wept at Trujillo's death and his hand-picked president, Joaquin Balaguer, retained power with Ramfis as chief of the armed forces.

Balaguer proved too democratically minded for the Trujillo family, however, and two of the dictator's brothers tried to regain power in November, 1961.

The attempt fizzled while U.S. warships stood offshore. The whole Trujillo family fled into luxurious exile and Santo Domingo descended into two months of rioting.

REGAIN POWER

Balaguer set up a seven-man state council in Jan. 1, 1962. Ousted later in the month by a military junta, it regained power within two days under Rafael Bonnelly.

Juan Bosch, a leading Socialist intellectual who had denounced Trujillo from exile, returned and in December, 1962, handily won the first democratic elections since the marines' departure.

Lyndon Johnson, then U.S. vice-president, attended Bosch's inauguration and said he had come "to celebrate with you the rebirth of an authentic democracy."

But falling sugar prices hurt the economy and unemployment was widespread. Right-wing elements protested Bosch's social reforms and charged he was "soft on communism."

In September, 1963, a military coup ousted Bosch and set up a three-man junta, in turn toppled by Bosch supporters in the fighting that broke out April 24.

'LBJ Acted On Erroneous Information'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Juan Bosch, wife of the exiled Dominican president, said Tuesday that President Johnson's actions in the Dominican crisis were based on erroneous reports from U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett.

Mrs. Bosch told a news conference that the "only possible solution" to the fighting would be recognition of a regime headed by Col. Francisco Caamano, a leader of rebel forces.

She said the "real tragedy" was that Johnson acted "on the basis of incorrect information" supplied by Bennett, the U.S. envoy to Santo Domingo. This, she said, was "the beginning of the tragedy."

She said Bennett preferred to talk with Dominican aristocrats who equate "anything remotely resembling democracy or liberalism" with Communism. Bennett, she said, became the "dupe" of backers of the assassinated dictator, Rafael Trujillo.

'Communists to Gain' By Island Invasion

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Former Dominican president Juan Bosch said Tuesday night that the presence of U.S. marines and paratroopers in Santo Domingo represented the "most serious mistake" by the United States in Latin American affairs in 50 years.

As a result, he said, "more than 100,000 young Latin Americans might turn to communism."

Bosch, ousted as president 19 months ago, gave his views in a television interview here.

Although his return to power in the Dominican Republic is supported by rebels, Bosch denied he was a communist and that the rebel movement was in control of Communists.

"I believe that the United States is misinformed on what is going on in the Dominican Republic," he said. "The intervention of the United States in Dominican affairs has hurt the Organization of American States and is an obstacle to the freedom of the Dominican political forces."

Peace Corpsmen 'Heartbroken'; U.S. Image Set Back 50 Years

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—The landing of American marines and paratroopers in the Dominican Republic has brought heartbreak to young members of the U.S. Peace Corps here.

"It has set back the image of the United States that we were trying to build by 50 years," said 26-year-old Alice Meehan, a nurse whose hometown is Belmar, N.J.

Miss Meehan and Virginia Pearson, 25, of Portsmouth, Va., also a registered nurse, are among the dozens of peace corp volunteers who have stayed in rebel areas in the midst of bloodshed and bombing ever since the uprising began.

They came out briefly for "rest and relaxation" and headed back Tuesday for the hospital in the rebel zone where they have been tending the wounded.

Miss Pearson, a dark-haired, vivacious girl, described the scene in their hospital on the Monday after the uprising began when peace corps director in Santo Domingo, Robert Satin, ordered them to leave.

"We said we wanted to stay," she recalled. "We went to another hospital and finally the peace corps said, 'All right stay.' We were gone only about half an hour and when we came back the doctors kissed us and the four nuns kissed us and patients got up and embraced us. The hospital was jammed with wounded, all of them rebels.

"Many of them had been shot inside the grounds of the hospital where they had fled from government troops and they were carried directly into the hospital.

CHILDREN INJURED

"There were a number of small children brought in," Miss Pearson said. "They had been hit by stray bullets or bomb fragments."

They have no fear whatsoever of wandering around in the rebel areas and none of them has been harmed.

"These are our people," says Miss Pearson.

But she and Miss Meehan and others admit they have received word that Communists have been trying to take over the uprising and they acknowledge, regretfully that it is probably so.

"But we think if the United States pushes them so hard, they will go Communist," said Miss Meehan.

She told of treating an 18-year-old Dominican youth. When she had bound up a wound and told him he could leave, he turned to her and said:

"It is very strange. You care for us so we can go out and shoot your people."

There are some 120 peace corpsmen in the Dominican Republic with about 34 stationed in Santo Domingo. Their feeling is they will just go on helping the Dominican people as much as they can.

An Uneasy Feeling

IN TIME OF WAR A DEGREE of press censorship is accepted as a justifiable measure in the interest of military security. Extension of press censorship from the military to the political, however, is a dangerous procedure and this is just what many people fear is happening in the handling of news from South Viet Nam.

Charges that reporters in South Viet Nam are being prevented from telling the whole truth about the progress of the war have been heard with increasing frequency in recent weeks. American military authorities in Saigon, for instance, have recently made it plain that any correspondent whose despatches do not meet the approval of the censors will be turned out of the country forthwith. The authorities are quite clear that they refer not only to matters of military security—that is movements of troops and supplies—but also to general reporting of the progress of the war and the manner in which it is being conducted.

This is a very risky business and American news executives have very properly protested against this mingling of military and political security censorship on the traditional grounds that an informed public is essential to the workings of democracy.

Efforts to "manage" the news inevitably have a deleterious effect in that once the efforts become known, all the news becomes suspect. Sir Denis Brogan, writing in the Manchester Guardian Weekly after a month-long visit to the United States, notes that already there exists among Americans with whom he talked a growing scepticism toward news reporting from South Viet Nam. "The American public," he stated, "is in effect feeling its way along a very dark corridor of impotence, and many fear it may suddenly find itself outside—and perhaps over the edge."

He adds: "Then there is a scepticism that reaches backwards. Perhaps all the official stories of the past ten or fifteen years were evasive if not downright mendacious . . . What are the democratic values, etc, etc., that the United States is defending in Saigon or in the air over North Viet Nam? Has all this picture of the 'freedom-loving nations' rallying to the cause of the 'Four Freedoms of Civilization,' the 'American Way of Life,' the 'Free World' been a paint job, more worthy of Madison Avenue than the Pentagon—or is the Pentagon already going the way of Madison Avenue?"

Sir Denis emphasizes that the expressions of doubt he heard during his American visit were not from "leftists" but from such solidly conservative people as corporation lawyers, high-ranking military men and officials of the state department.

The American people, Sir Denis believes, "are bewildered, bothered and are beginning to fear that they may have been bewitched." If it turns out that they have also been deceived by military censorship of events in South Viet Nam which they had a right to know about, they will undoubtedly be very angry.

An Enlightened Approach

THE MUNICIPALITY OF SAANICH is to be commended for its action in approving a half-mill levy each year for regional park development under a regional board. By this move, in conjunction with Victoria, Oak Bay, and Central Saanich, the whole concept is virtually assured. It is to be hoped that Esquimalt will complete the circle and make possible a regional program for acquisition and development of parklands.

Each year the available sites are depleted by subdivision and commercial development; yet each year the need of more green areas for recreation becomes more obvious. Viewed against the inevitable future requirements of a population twice as large as that of today, the necessity for a program to purchase seaside and hilltop parklands becomes very clear.

The current movement of the city and municipalities is most promising; it indicates that at last the councils have awakened to the need, and that the public likewise has recognized that action must be taken soon if it is to be taken at all.

Saanich has a second parks question before it—the proposed purchase of Rithet's Swamp, a low-lying area of peat bog near Royal Oak which is described by naturalists as a unique treasure-house of plant and animal life. Because of its three-fold importance — as a green area which will become progressively valuable as the district builds up, as a pleasant parkland area for the recreation of young and old, and as a very useful adjunct to the nature studies of the university and local schools — the swamp and its drainage slopes should be preserved for the people.

Saanich council has a responsibility to take action in this case; it will be performing a very creditable service to the whole region if it successfully negotiates the purchase of the acreage.

To Help the Helpers

THE SALVATION ARMY, which reaches out a helping hand to those who need assistance, this month is inviting the community to make the same gesture.

In its annual campaign to raise the funds required to carry on local services, the Army seeks $60,000 from the people of Greater Victoria. The objective is slightly above that of last year's drive.

The story of the Salvation Army's many benefactions scarcely requires repetition here. The work of Harbor Light, where alcoholics receive care and treatment; of Matson Lodge, where the elderly are comfortably housed at costs made moderate by the organization's subsidy; and the various services to ease, physically, mentally and spiritually, the distress of the unfortunate—these are familiar to the public.

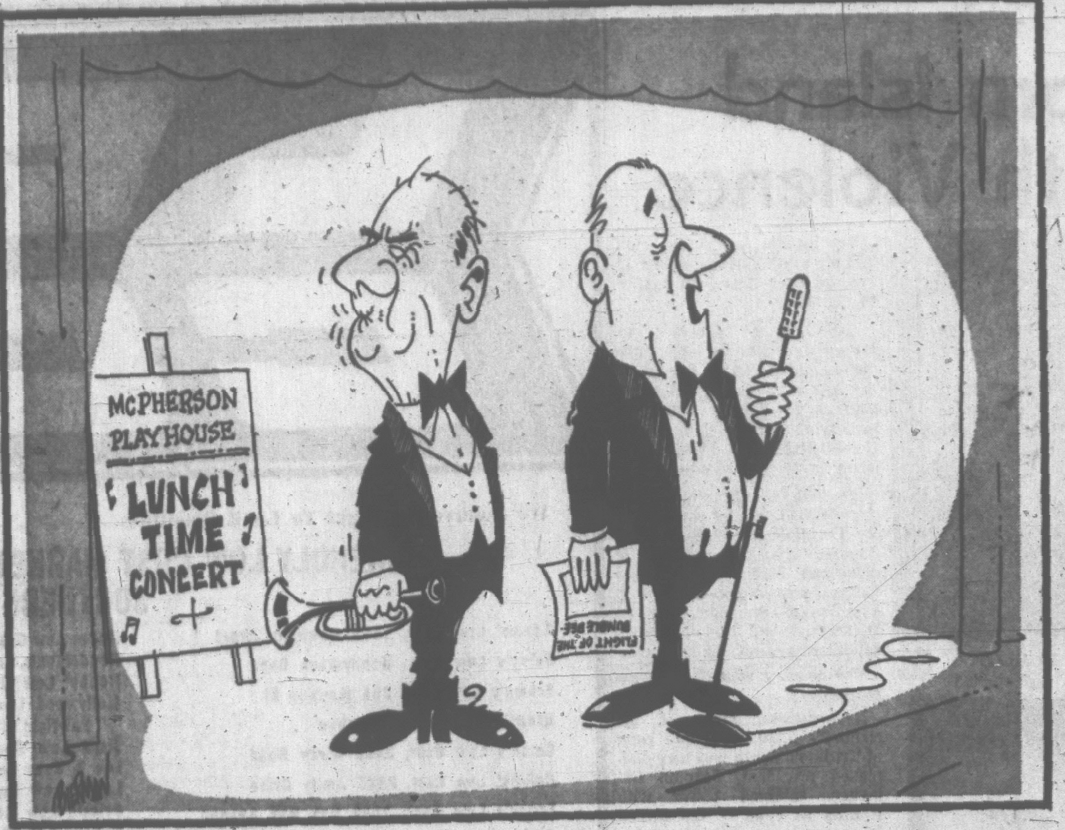
This year, on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Salvation Army, Greater Victorians are asked to be generous in their response to the appeal. It is one way of honoring a fine agency on its centenary, and showing appreciation for services which help to make Greater Victoria a better place in which to live.

Complimentary, But Un-French

THE ST. JEAN BAPTISTE Society of Nicolet, Quebec, has taken Mr. Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, to task for his failure to speak French when he was presenting the Stanley Cup to Montreal Canadiens.

Mr. Campbell, who is subject to frequent criticism but who does not back away from a fight when he believes his position right, has offered an apology. The humility of it should appease the highly nationalistic St. Jean Baptiste Society. Mr. Campbell says he cannot speak French well enough to use it on such occasions and that "there's nothing I would like to be more able to do . . ."

Those of us English-speaking Canadians who suffer Mr. Campbell's disability, might profitably note the NHL president's words —and might go a little further by extending to M. Jean Beliveau a vote of congratulations and appreciation not merely for winning the award for the most outstanding player in the series, but also for accepting the trophy with a gracious little speech in both French, his own tongue, and English.



—Herman, Victoria Daily Times.

The Crux of Treaty-Making Powers

Western

IN the course of the protracted exchanges last week over the treaty-making controversy, there occurred a quiet colloquy between Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Martin which seems to have been almost completely ignored in public discussion. This is unfortunate because the argument which did attract attention leads nowhere in particular, whereas the Baldwin-Martin exchange illuminates the heart of the matter.

It was entirely legitimate for the Conservatives to question Mr. Martin closely about the claims which Mr. Gerin-Lajoie has based upon the recent educational agreement between Quebec and France. If there is anything, however, to the Conservative suspicion that the procedures followed in this particular case were irregular, the reasonable conclusion is that an otherwise invalid agreement has been made binding through the approval of the Canadian government. It cannot, therefore, be pretended that a precedent has been set for independent action by a province on the international plane.

Hansard reports the question and answer as follows:

Mr. G. W. Baldwin: "Would the minister not agree that any so-called international agreement made by a province must in virtually all cases be subject to federal acquiescence because of the paramount constitutional right to the national government to prohibit, regulate and control entry to and exit from Canada of persons and goods?"

Mr. Martin: "Mr. Speaker, My Hon. Friend has obviously studied the statement I made on Saturday carefully and his assessment is the correct one."

This is important for an understanding of the problem involved because section 132 of the British North America act, which mentions treaties, is anything but explicit — as Mr. Gerin-Lajoie has been understandably quick to note. In the first place, it does not deal with treaty-making but with "powers necessary or proper for performing the obligations of Canada." Secondly, it refers specifically to obligations "arising under treaties between the empire and . . . . foreign countries." It reflects, of course, the conditions of 1867 when Canada did not possess sovereignty in international relations.

Despite the apparent limitations of section 132, the fact is that for nearly half a century the federal government has exercised an exclusive right in this field. It is remarkable that this was asserted at a time when the provinces, through favorable privy council decisions, had reached a high water mark in the assertion of their own powers. If the federal right was dubious, why was it not successfully challenged?

Impractical Challenge

The answer is apparent from the dialogue between Mr. Baldwin, an eminent constitutional lawyer who was once the partner of Mr. J. E. Brownlee, and Mr. Martin, also a lawyer, the most experienced of ministers and the dean of the House. A challenge by the provinces would have been utterly impractical and remains impractical today.

The powers of the provinces are set out in section 92 of the British North America act. (There are also two so-called concurrent powers in section 95 but the provincial right in agriculture and immigration exists only in so far as it is not repugnant to that of Canada.) It is difficult to imagine any agreement of consequence with a foreign country relating to fields of provincial jurisdiction which would not involve the passage of persons or goods into or out of Canada. Even an exchange of professors requires federal sanction.

We have only recently been reminded of this by the case of Mr. Sibley which raised a question of the government's judgment but certainly not of its constitutional right.

No Power

A foreign government obviously would have no interest in entering into an agreement which the other contracting party had no power to implement. It would be hard pressed to discern such a power in a province, given the paramount right of the federal government in anything involving the passage of persons or goods.

It is of interest that there was a federal-provincial controversy over this very point in the mid-1950s. Mr. Bennett of British Columbia, frustrated in his attempts to sell power to the United States, attempted instead through a deal with the Kaiser interests, to sell the equivalent in Columbia waters.

The federal government promptly stepped in with the international rivers act. British Columbia's constitutional objections, based either on property and civil rights or upon the local works and undertakings clause of section 92, were effectively disposed of by the then Minister of Northern Affairs, now premier of Quebec, Mr. Jean Lesage.

FROM WASHINGTON

By CHARLES BARTLETT

Reasons for Liberal Silence

MUCH of the liberal instinct to protest the American intervention in the Dominican Republic is being stifled by an awareness that President Johnson had no sound alternatives to the course he followed.

The authentic leading South American liberals are largely silent in the chorus of protest. Mr. Johnson has taken great pains to make them understand that on the evening of April 27, the Dominican Republic was a power vacuum in which many lives were imperilled and many efficient, purposeful, and guerrilla-trained communists were at work.

One proof of this vacuum will be found in the efforts of the coming days to piece together new leadership for the country. Even after the dust settles, this necessary leadership will be hard to find. An almost total lack of the calibre of men who make leaders is one tragic consequence of 31 years of brutal dictatorship.

Unfounded Charges

Charges that the United States has resisted the return of Juan Bosch, the poet liberal whose incompetence as an administrator permitted his deposition in 1962, are unfounded. Bosch himself, through timidity or indecision, chose to stay in Puerto Rico instead of asserting himself in the chaos that his followers had created. His failure to take command will not strengthen his cause in the new era.

The Dominican generals, including Elias Wessin y Wessin, proved in the testing moments to have the clay feet of men who matured in a corrupt society. Since none of them rose to the occasion, some suspect the Dominicans may turn toward Joaquin Balaguer, the old man who remained as president immediately after the Trujillo assassination in 1961. He represents a compromise between the new taste for democracy and the old reliance on authority.

If there was no leader in Santo Domingo to whom Mr. Johnson could look confidently on the evening of April 27, there were several on whom he could look with concern. The postmortem debate on whether the Communists could have captured the government if the Marines had not landed has already begun. Fortunately the intelligence readings were excellent and they indicated in advance that the potential was there.

Trained Guerrillas

The ominous Communist asset was the training in guerrilla tactics that had been imparted in Cuba to at least 18 of the insurgents. In the fluid situation which prevailed in Santo Domingo, these para-military experts, led by a resourceful Spanish communist named Manuel Gonzalez Gonzalez, had a splendid chance to prevail.

Criticisms of Mr. Johnson for resorting to gunboat diplomacy in these circumstances must be weighed against the private laments of many South American liberals in 1961 that President Kennedy did not snatch triumph from disaster at the Bay of Pigs by dispatching American soldiers to finish off Fidel Castro. Critics must also ponder the presumption of responsible Venezuelans and Bolivians that American troops will arrive, if all other hope is lost in chaos, to save their governments from the communists.

The criticisms must be further weighed against the gratitude of Juan Bosch in mid-November of 1961 after American naval forces frustrated the return to the Dominican Republic of the wicked Trujillo uncles. Bosch hailed this fleet intervention, which stopped just short of Marine landings, as an act "that could save many lives and many troubles in the near future."

Dogged Efforts

The little-known record of dogged efforts by the United States since 1961 to implant democracy in the barren Dominican soil is one pledge of Washington's virtuous intentions. From the moment that Trujillo was killed, leading Dominicans have leaned heavily upon American guidance in the tricky transition from dictatorship. All the leverage of Washington's good offices has been applied to encourage constitutional government.

The break with the habits and attitudes of 31 years does not come easily. Henry Wells, a political scientist who helped to construct the machinery for the 1962 election, observed after the voting to a Dominican official that everything had gone smoothly. "These people are very well disciplined," the man responded.

The future will be no easier than the past in the Dominican Republic. One American policy-maker said the decision to send Marines into Santo Domingo was "like arresting your mother." As the communists try to make the most of the tender days ahead, this country's composure will rest upon its case that the decision was unavoidable.

IN MODERATION

School rules are necessary, but how depressing if the young either became too spineless to break them or cultivated chips on their shoulders when punished for being caught.

Looking Back

From The Times of May 5, 1890:

Ottawa: J. Rykert, member of Parliament for Lincoln, has resigned his seat. He walked out of the House of Commons amid an uproar. He was charged by the opposition with receiving $90,000 for using his political influence with the government to secure Cypress Hills, the timber limit in Northwest Territories. The government was paid $5,000 for the timber stand which was subsequently sold for $180,000. Mr. Rykert said he was not treated fairly by the government or the investigating committee.

Disappointment

The public, perhaps, has not been taken into the confidence of the Victoria Daily Times regarding the experience and qualifications which Mr. Robin Skelton may possess in the field of art criticism. From his own words, however, Mr. Skelton reveals his attitudes to the visual arts to be personal rather than critical.

If the function of the critic is to explore with his readers the values inherent in a work of art then the series of articles published in the Victoria Daily Times entitled "Looking Around at Art" is a disappointment.

There is a commercial flavor in his art reviews: an impression of salesmanship that is but heightened by the suggestion (Times, Jan. 2, 1965) that he hopes that in 1965 the Victoria Art Gallery "will add to its holdings of work by local painters and ensure that a representative selection of these is always on show, rather than devote too much attention and money to the enlarging of its already impressive Oriental collection."—A Patron of the Arts.

French in Schools

In a recent issue of the Victoria Times, I read an item that aroused my interest. Apparently a group of French-speaking citizens of Saskatchewan, petitioned the government to replace English with French in the public schools situated in that area.

As English is the predominant and official language in all of Western Canada—that is West of Quebec—I cannot understand that the taxpayers should be assessed to support a foreign tongue. A large portion of the population in Saskatchewan is from various parts of Europe but you never hear requests for special favors in the field of education.

May I remind those intensely patriotic people that English is a worldwide language and if this substitution is allowed they are doing their children a great disservice.

French and other languages are taught in our schools but as secondary subjects. And that is as it should be.—H. A. MacLeod, 9488 Lochside Drive.

Ironic Criticism

When the minister of finance announced in his budget speech a 10 per cent cut in our income tax, most Canadians were thankful. Not so our B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who didn't think very much of it. His first remark was "They should have done more for the poor." How inconsistent can a person be? If Mr. Bennett is so concerned about the poor why did he allow bus fares to be raised almost double for our old age pensioners? And why doesn't he lower or cut out entirely the provincial sales tax so that we poor people can save a few dollars on purchases we badly need?—Old Age Pensioner.

Earthquakes

Would it be of interest to the public to ascertain if earthquakes are more frequent now than was the case 50 or 75 years ago?

One point I would like to suggest is that in this mechanical age power is provided extensively by oil. When the oil is pumped out of the ground, is it not reasonable to suppose that some cave-ins should take place?—Harry Wyer, 1170 Chapman.

Need for Patience

New York Times

PRESIDENT Sukarno of Indonesia is on a rampage—which is a normal state of affairs for him. He has now completed the seizure of all foreign properties in Indonesia. His militant nationalism is still being exercised against Malaysia, the number one target, and also against the United States, Great Britain and every Western country linked to the former era of colonialism and "imperialism."

President Johnson's able and experienced special envoy Ellsworth Bunker obviously got nowhere. Now even the Peace Corps is being withdrawn. The United States has almost nothing left in Indonesia. Some comfort can be taken from the fact that the second "Bandung" conference—held this time in Jakarta—was a failure for Mr. Sukarno and for those lined up with Communist China.

The hardest problem for the United States in dealing with Indonesia, as with Viet Nam and all the new nations in Asia, is to cope with ideas, however distorted they may be. In fact, the more Sukarno distorts the catchwords—imperialism, colonialism, neutralism—the more difficult he makes it for those who would like to be his friends. A man whose ambition is exceeded only by his self-indulgence, Sukarno sees himself as the leader of Southeast Asia. He aligns the West with every bad policy. He views Malaysia as an outpost of Britain and, jealous of its strength, he wants to destroy it. No Communist himself, he is playing Communist China's dangerous game.

So long as he entertains such ideas, he cannot be non-aligned and certainly he cannot find a modus vivendi with the West. Yet the United States would have nothing to gain by a complete diplomatic and trade break. As of today, economic aid is neither desired nor desirable; but if Indonesian policies change—for instance, if a "Maphilindo" confederation of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines were to be formed—a multilateral aid program might become advisable.

The Japanese ambassador to Kuala Lumpur said last week that President Sukarno had been invited to a meeting in Tokyo with Prime Minister Abdul Rahman of Malaysia. Mr. Sukarno has refused to go, but even if he had gone, there would be little hope of an amicable settlement. The Japanese effort, however, is a laudable one.

Although patience is not a policy, it is always a virtue. The United States, while encouraging Japan and other Asians to mediate the Indonesia-Malaysia conflict, will probably need all the patience it can muster in that part of the world for a long time to come.

Britain Fights 'Battle of the Beaches'

By IVOR BROWN

LONDON — Next Tuesday the Duke of Edinburgh will attend a lunch given by the Lord Mayor of London and speak to an assembly of important guests who will be expected to be subscribers to a good cause. The Duke has been a combat sailor, and the subject of his appeal is suitable to his career. It is the defence of the British coast.

The invaders are not foreign foes. Indeed, they are not foes at all. They have a perfect right to swarm on to their native shores. They are the Britons who are occupying Britain, some seeking a permanent home with a sea view, far more pursuing a seaside vacation. The National Trust, now 70 years old and ever more active in its preservation of British history in building and of British beauty in landscape, has made a survey of a coastline which is being lost to housing, holiday camps, and caravan sites. The trust is not trying to keep people away from visiting and enjoying their sands of pleasure: it wants to make sure that the shore, when reached, will still be enjoyable.

Control Needed

This must be done by sensible control, and without restrictive prohibitions of entry. It has been decided that 900 miles of the coastline still not yet over-run have a particular quality which must not be lost, and that purchase by the Trust will ensure a beneficent ownership and tutelage of cliffs, coves and beaches which might otherwise be spoiled beyond recovery.

The matter is urgent because the British are not only increasingly numerous but have longer leisure and are continually more mobile. They are at once handicapped by the smallness of their island, and blessed with proximity to the sea-shore which provide the best of family holidays: "I do like to be beside the seaside" was a music hall song written half-a-century ago; it has been popular ever since, not only because it has a cheerful, catchy tune, but because it states a national truth.

Facts Plain

The statistical facts are plain, but not always realized. How many people, for example, are aware that nobody in the British Isles lives more than 90 miles from a seashore? This means that all those with motor transport available can, even with a slow start in a crowded area, reach the sea in a few hours. Already the roads carry more cars per mile than any other country in Europe, and the number of vehicles pile up. So does the number of people.

According to the census of 1961, the population of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland was then 52,500,000. With a steady flow of immigration and a rising birthrate it is probably well over 53,000,000 by now. It is expected to reach 70 million by the end of the century.

It has been calculated that, with the Age of Affluence becoming ever more affluent, the number of cars may then have been multiplied enormously, perhaps even four times. The creation of new roads will have to be extremely rapid to meet such a volume of traffic, and every new road, with its consequent building of wayside petrol stations, cafes and motels eats up more of the country.

That seems inevitable; what can be avoided is the spoilation of the seaside when reached. Much of it has already become covered with housing estates, especially in the south along the English Channel. No county, for example, has been more beloved by those who care for the country than Sussex. Hilaire Belloc praised in his verse "the line of the Downs, so noble and so bare." The Downs were no less dear to a man of very different opinions and philosophy, Rudyard Kipling, whose affection for the shire rings out in every popular and class room anthology of modern poetry. Kipling was devoted "to the turf on the white cliff-edge as when the Romans came."

The marine fringe of his adored territory has become more a conurbation than a coast. The line of the Down summits has, for the most part, retained its naked nobility. But the shores of Sussex have been so thoroughly "developed" that when a survey was made seven years ago it was discovered that close on 50 per cent of them had become built-up areas.

Sussex Worst

Sussex, combining its attractiveness of scene with its nearness to London, has been the greatest sufferer. Denbigh in North Wales, easily reached from Manchester and Liverpool, has had its coast covered with houses to the extent of 37 per cent. Kent in the south and Lancashire in the north have seen more than a quarter of their coastlines occupied for habitations.

Pensioned folk like to retire to these areas and make a permanent settlement. The holiday crowds want temporary accommodation. In the last 14 years the membership of the Camping Club has increased sevenfold. In 1963 the output of caravans for holiday dwellings in Britain was 33,000 a year, and it is going up.

Not Universal

A craving for serenity and solitude is not universal. It is obvious that the majority of holiday-makers would rather crowd on to the beaches and into the sea at Blackpool or Brighton than wander lonely on rocks and bathe among secluded waters. But the minority with a taste for empty sands or a wilderness of cliff scenery is of considerable size and importance. It has as much right to roam as others to swarm.

Moreover, if Britain is to maintain its flow of foreign visitors and their welcome currency, it must maintain the charm of places where nature has been most kind and man has not yet been callous and destructive. A swelling population must have both more buildings for residence and more of the holiday towns known as resorts. But the growth can and must be channelled and disciplined. And there should still be some emptiness somewhere, "as when the Romans came."

If the National Trust, which has so splendidly saved much of the Lake District in north-west England, can raise funds (and £2 million are suggested) sufficient to purchase those miles where a beach is still a beach and not yet a brickyard, it will be a precious victory indeed.

Its campaign is called Operation Neptune, and the word operation suggests a battle. To say that this is another Battle of Britain would be to use unfairly a name attached to an historic triumph in the air. But the peaceful fight to keep a peaceful and a tranquil coast is one in which defeat will be a disaster.

Johnson Using Force As Key to U.S. Policy

By CHALMERS M. ROBERTS
The Washington Post

PRESIDENT JOHNSON
. . . a new doctrine for Latin America

WASHINGTON—President Johnson has plunged into Latin America in a way no other president has dared to do for three decades. This time there is no question that the United States is involved in a civil war, cease-fire or not.

The Johnson rationale is humanitarian but the marine and army intervention was made without any concession to Latin sensitivity. No effort was made, as far as the public record shows, even to explain in advance what the U.S. intended to do.

Charges Fly

Charges of Communist participation in the civil war have been flying about but it is far from clear that the forces backing ousted President Juan Bosch, whose inauguration Mr. Johnson himself attended, were or are Communist dominated.

The Latin reaction was predictable: the democratic leaders tended to see the president's action as a revival of American gunboat diplomacy regardless of Mr. Johnson's motivation.

Coming on top of the war in Viet Nam, the action in the Dominican Republic will further reduce support abroad for American foreign policy. Indeed, it probably will add converts to the De Gaulle thesis that the U.S. wants to dominate everything and everybody.

Mr. Johnson, of course, did not start the civil war in Santo Domingo. Maybe he is just caught up in a new cycle of History. But what he does also influences that cycle.

The world now is at the end of the second of two 20-year cycles of relative peace. The first lasted from the end of the First World War to the outbreak of the Second World War. The second has lasted from 1945 to 1965, strained but not really broken by the Korean conflict.

There is as yet no sign of a new world-wide conflict unless Viet Nam gets out of hand. So far Washington, Moscow and Peking have avoided steps leading to that on the theory that big wars are simply too dangerous with modern weapons. The lessons of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis are still vivid in the major capitals.

Part of Pattern

If so, then this is the age of civil wars, whether simply internal struggles or Communist-fomented "wars of national liberation." The Indo-Pakistan border fighting and the Turkish-Greek struggle over Cyprus fit such a pattern. Perhaps it is true that the nuclear balance of terror on an international scale has provided an impetus for these local conflicts of one kind or another.

American weapons are being used in each of these conflicts by one side or both. American diplomats, under presidential direction, are likewise involved in one way or another.

An 'Illusion'

To some, these far-flung American involvements illustrate what Sir Denis Brogan once called "the illusion of American omnipotence." To others these involvements are simply the inescapable agonies of a great power, the only great power in the free world.

In his televised statement, President Johnson stressed the humanitarian aspect of his action. But his implications of a Communist threat made it evident that the massive size of the American force sent to the island reflected a determination to show that the U.S. will not permit another Cuba in the Caribbean.

The inescapable effect, in either case, is to create the belief that the U.S. is now headed by a man determined to use military force anywhere and everywhere to halt a suspected growth of Communism.

The war in Viet Nam he inherited and the steps he has taken there have followed logically the legacy he received from Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy.

The Dominican intervention, however, was his own. The Johnson administration already had been charged with veering away from the Kennedy support for democratic regimes. The new move will reinforce that view and further the imprint around the world of a tough president to whom force seems to be a key element in the use of great power.

Citizenship And Atheists In Canada

United Church Observer

Most responsible church people will agree that worthy immigrants who qualify in other erspects should not be denied citizenship because they are atheists. Immigration Minister John R. Nicholson agrees. There is little doubt that the Dutch couple who profess to be atheists will eventually become citizens, even if the law has to be changed.

Just for the record, let us remind Observer readers that Christian churches in this country, more than any other institutions, have tried to persuade successive governments to open their doors wider to immigrants. We pleaded with the immigration department to help empty the postwar refugee camps of Europe. We have begged both Liberal and Conservative administrations to relax regulations against the Chinese and provide a home for homeless people from Hong Kong.

The churches have kept their workers at the ports for years, and have organized congregations to sponsor and welcome new families from abroad, provide them with homes and jobs. We have publicly criticized Christians who seemed more interested in helping people of their own communion to immigrate than just people in need.

We have never known any suggestion that immigrants should be screened out because they were not Christian or did not believe in God. In their welfare work among the needy of Africa and Asia—while the Christians always seek to witness to the faith that is within them — Christian missionaries help believers and non-believers alike.

A Promise

Our welcome to homeless people arriving at our ports of entry has implicit within it the promise that they may in time, if ready to abide by our laws, become full citizens.

All human beings are children of God whether they believe in him or deny him. That means they should be treated with respect as persons by all who do believe in God. To deny God is one of the rights they enjoy in a land which respects freedom of conscience and religion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma, in our opinion, ought not to be denied citizenship because they are atheists. If the act has been correctly interpreted by the Cayuga County Court and the Ontario Supreme Court, then the act ought to be changed.

Beating Around the Bush

OTTAWA — If Finance Minister Gordon wants to prevent foreigners from buying or starting newspapers and magazines in Canada, why doesn't he simply ask Parliament to pass a law barring foreigners from the publishing field?

For anyone who isn't inured to the devious ways of government that would seem to be the proper procedure: direct, to the point, no beating around the bush.

But the government probably doesn't dare take strong, direct action because of the repercussions it could expect. A law prohibiting foreign ownership would be viewed abroad as a first step in the closing of Canada to foreign investment funds, presaging perhaps the eventual takeover of foreign properties in Canada. The effect could be disastrous, for Canada needs continued large-scale foreign investment.

Moreover, if foreign ownership of publications were made illegal, the government could scarcely allow the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest to continue under foreign ownership.

So instead of making foreign ownership illegal, Mr. Gordon proposes to make any new foreign ownership unprofitable. He will ask Parliament to amend the Income Tax Act to disallow as a tax-free business expense the money that advertisers may spend on ads in newspapers and magazines published in Canada that henceforth come under foreign ownership.

* * *

On the face of it this plan appears to be monumental stupidity. It purports to be a scheme to aid hard-pressed Canadian magazines like Maclean's and Saturday Night by removing the threat of further foreign competition. But it is likely to be of only marginal benefit because the government specifically exempts Time and Digest from the advertising restriction—and these two magazines get about half of all advertising placed in magazines published in Canada.

So far as newspapers are concerned, Mr. Gordon admitted the measure is only "preventive." Of all Canadian daily newspapers (109 at last count), apparently only one is foreign-owned. The Red Deer Advocate is owned by the Liverpool, Eng., Post & Echo.

If Mr. Gordon knew how tough it is to make a buck in the newspaper publishing business, he wouldn't be concerned about U.S. investment taking over our papers. U.S. capital can grow a lot faster in oil, mining, timber, manufacturing, or you name it. But maybe he does know; maybe he has concocted this preventive medicine for quite another and hidden purpose.

The other day the anti-trust branch of the justice department reported it had not been able to find any diminution of competition or any injury to the public interest in the Thomson chain's acquisition in 1962 of The Fort William Times-Journal. With this purchase Thomson Newspapers Ltd. owns or controls 25 of the 109 dailies.

When Canadian publisher Roy Thomson became Baron Thomson of Fleet last year despite the ban on titles for Canadians, Prime Minister Pearson said Thomson is no longer Canadian.

Mr. Gordon has said that "no existing commercial interests will be affected" by the income tax change.

But if this British lord buys another Canadian paper, won't it become foreign-owned, and ads in it non-deductible as a business expense?

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

A friend of mine who has a very exacting position that keeps her on call morning, noon, and sometimes night, decided recently that she must have a hideaway for her off hours, with no telephone to pinpoint her whereabouts.

She found it in a rather weather-beaten cabin on the edge of a gentle slope of grassland and ancient apple trees, far out in the Saanich Peninsula. Immediately, she rented it for the summer months.

We were playing cards the night she told us what she had done. "We'll all enjoy it," she promised, "once it's had a good scrubbing and a bit of paint."

Ignorant of the over-all needs but anxious to be of some use, we offered to help with the paint job. Just as quickly, our offer was accepted.

A day was set. We donned slacks, old shirts and sneakers, armed ourselves with every size of paint brush you can imagine, and set off for the cabin.

* * *

It had been scrubbed thoroughly by the time we found it. The paint was mixed and ready for use. Our friend lined us up in pairs and assigned us to various positions.

There was the snug little glassed-in porch to paint a soft grey-blue; the tiny bedroom with its tiered bunks to be done in pale yellow, and the kitchen, where an old-fashioned stove took up one corner, a deep cream with orange trim.

My friend, Mary, and I were escorted to what passed as a back verandah, where various pieces of furniture were waiting to be done over in cream-toned paint.

We rolled up our sleeves, clutched our brushes, dunked them in the paint cans and started to work on a cupboard.

It was soon evident that we were not experts at the job. We got paint on the floor. We got paint on ourselves. Finally we did succeed in getting paint on the cupboard.

Eventually we managed to get all the pieces of furniture painted, except a large table. Before we started it, we decided to see what was going on inside the cabin.

The bedroom crew was the most efficient. They had their job completed. In the kitchen, one amateur artist was still putting dots of orange paint on everything she could find, including the centres of the daisies that decorated a bread box.

On the glassed-in porch a twosome had painted the walls first and by then were struggling to do the ceiling without splatching everything around them.

"Should have done the ceiling first," said Mary, as we went back to our table.

Don't laugh! We started on the top, painted everything that was in sight, then remembered there was an under side to do.

Now we couldn't turn the table upside-down without spoiling the top. So, we had to sit on the floor and work from underneath.

The verandah was not very large. We hadn't been smart enough to properly arrange all the furniture before we painted it. So, we were cramped into a small space, under the table.

It was well on to dusk before all the various jobs were finished and we had cleaned the worst of the mess from our hands and arms.

Then we were called into the kitchen where one of the good cooks in our group had prepared an Irish stew.

We ate it with hot buns and coffee as we sat beside the old-fashioned cook stove.

Relaxed and warm, we decided it had been a good day. And we agreed with our friend who rented the cabin, that we would all enjoy her hideaway during the summer months. After all—we had a stake in it now!

Union Nationale is Showing Signs of a Spirited Revival

By GERALD ALARIE

MONTREAL — The Union Nationale party is showing signs of a united and spirited revival for the first time since the death in 1959 of its founder, Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Party popularity has been at a low ebb following its defeat at the polls in 1960 after 16 unbroken years in power, subsequent royal commission investigations of patronage under the Union Nationale, and another election defeat in 1962.

When Daniel Johnson was elected leader at the Union Nationale's first general congress in 1961—the fifth man to assume the leadership since Mr. Duplessis' death—it was by a margin so narrow that many observers predicted a split in the party.

But now it is evident that Mr. Johnson has won the full support of his former opponents within the party and has evoked fresh enthusiasm from party followers.

At the Union Nationale's second general congress, held here in late March, Mr. Johnson received a standing ovation from about 3,000 delegates who came to Montreal from all 95 ridings in the province.

Show of Unity

The open show of confidence came at the request of Jean-Jacques Bertrand, the man Mr. Johnson defeated by 94 votes in the 1961 leadership convention who since has been designated "first lieutenant" of the party leader.

Later, when Mr. Johnson appealed for funds at a convention dinner delegates subscribed more than $10,000 in an hour.

They also participated with vigor when policy resolutions came up for consideration.

It was a far cry from the 1961 convention, where internal strife was evident and some expressed dissatisfaction with the way proceedings were conducted.

Delegates then were not given an opportunity to vote against policy resolutions, and one man who tried to propose an amendment from the floor was shouted down.

This year, grass-roots participation reached a high point. And in the group were representatives of student organizations and persons obviously in sympathy with the demands of nationalist and separatist movements.

A resolution calling on the party to work for Quebec's independence was debated and then radically changed through an amendment proposed by a 21-year-old University of Montreal co-ed.

The amendment proposed by law student Danielle Mathieu recognized Quebec's "right to self-determination" but said the method of achieving it should be determined by the people in a referendum.

The convention also dealt with a resolution stating that Quebec should declare itself a unilingual French-speaking province. The convention recommended that the question of unilingualism be referred to the Union Nationale members on the bi-partisan constitutional committee of the legislature and that they put pressure on the committee to examine all aspects of the issue.

It also recommended that the question be referred to the political committee of the party with the aim of getting opinion on the matter from local Union Nationale associations.

Fair Deal

Mr. Johnson said the action on the resolution did not constitute a "first-class burial" for it.

He said that in a situation where students educated in French are being forced to earn their living in English, politicians must not be afraid to take "even radical measures."

He qualified this with the pledge that the Union Nationale will never be guilty of "the same injustices toward the English-speaking minority in Quebec as are suffered by French-speaking minorities in the other provinces."

Resolutions approved by the convention suggested a need for new Quebec government departments of recreation, economic planning and immigration.

Delegates also voted for free education at all levels, including university, and full health insurance coverage for all Quebecers.

MANY CITY FANS PLAN TO SEE ENGLISH CLUBS

Victoria soccer fans will be well represented at Vancouver's Empire Stadium Sunday, when a pair of first division English League clubs tangle in an exhibition match.

There has been a brisk demand in the city for tickets to the tussle between Sheffield United and Blackpool. Tickets will remain on sale at the White Heather Gift Shop until Friday.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines will run buses to and from the game, which starts at 2:30.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH

(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—Until the day comes when Jack Nicklaus's name appears in the record books as many times as Arnold Palmer's does, Palmer will be considered the greater golfer.

At least, that is the opinion of Gary Player, who ought to know.

Player dicussed his "two good friends" at a luncheon here with a dozen or so admiring duffers digesting his every word.

The manufacturer of golf sticks which Player pushes brought the little South African to town for a series of personal appearances.

Player was asked how he would compare Nicklaus, winner of the masters last month with Palmer and his earth-shattering feats.

"I like to go by the book," Player said. "I remember when it was predicted Julius Boros and Bob Nichols would rewrite records after they won major titles, but it didn't happen.

★ ★ ★

Player explained he was not underestimating Nicklaus's almost unlimited potential.

"At his age, 25, Nicklaus is a veritable superman," Player said, "and far ahead of Palmer's position at a comparable time in his career."

Most golf fans talk about Nicklaus's tremendous power but Player has been equally impressed with the Nicklaus personality.

"The public hasn't taken to Jack as much as it has to Arnold," Player said, "but I'll tell you something about big Nick that isn't generally known. He is the greatest loser I ever knew."

Then Player described how Nicklaus unfailingly hunts out the winner of a tournament, looks him straight in the eye, gives him a firm handshake, accompanied by a warm, boyish smile.

"The particular reason Nicklaus is invincible in the Masters is that most of the greens at Augusta are slightly elevated, and his high shots work perfectly," Player said.

★ ★ ★

Day in and day out, no other golfer has come along who could ever stay up with Ben Hogan in National Open play because of Hogan's pin-point accuracy, and Nicklaus may go on dominating the Masters of a course that is perfectly suited to his game.

Player volunteered a bit of information about Nicklaus and Palmer which shocked some of his listeners.

"I'll tell you a weakness that both of them have; they can't use the wedge as well as other clubs."

Player, normally handy with an explanation about almost anything, was at a loss as to why Nicklaus and Palmer are below par with a wedge, but Deane Beman, Washington's fine amateur champion, came up with a plausible reason.

"It's because they don't take as much pride in the wedge, or other short shots, as they do in their long games," said Beman, a master of the wedge. "You play best that club which you spend a lot of time on."

★ ★ ★

Player will be back in July, along with Nicklaus and Palmer, for the national challenge matches at Lakewood Country Club.

"I've played with Jack and Arnold twice in similar matches, once in the World Series of Golf and then in Waukegan, Ill., but those were only 36-hole affairs."

The matches here will "be like a major event," Player said, with a format of 72 holes over four days.

"Don't worry about the rivalry when we walk out to the first tee. Nobody in golf is ever blase with 50,000 dollars at stake. I haven't forgotten when I used to give playing lessons for 50 cents a nine back in Johannesburg."

Pro Leagues Adopt Hands-Off Policy

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The two major professional football leagues have agreed to specific hands-off rules governing the signing of college players, Jim Corbett, chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's college-pro relations committe, has announced.

The National Football League prescribed stiff penalties for violating the new rules including possible loss by a club of its entire draft rights, Corbett said.

The American Football League has agreed to adopt the same measures, he added.

NCAA members were up in arms last fall after it was disclosed that a number of players had signed pro contracts and continued to play college football.

Corbett said the pros had agreed to disclose any and all signings of fifth-year players before Sept. 1 of the athlete's final season of eligibility.

Navy Pair Named To B.C. Mitt Team

VANCOUVER — Two Victoria boxers have been named to the British Columbia team which will compete in the Canadian championships.

The national tournament will be held in Calgary May 14 and 15.

Sid Greenwood, chairman of the B.C. Boxing Commission, said Fred Desroisiers and Wayne Powell have been selected to the team. Both fighters are members of the Navy Boxing Club.

Desrosiers represented Canada in the 1964 Olympic Games.

Greenwood said B.C. hopes to have representatives entered in each of the 10 weight divisions at the national finals.

"The size of the team will depend on the amount of money we can raise," he added.

O.C. CRICKET

LONDON (Reuters)—Results of cricket matches ending Tuesday:

At Oxford: Match abandoned, rain. Oxford University, 149 for seven; versus Middlesex.

At Birmingham: Match abandoned, rain. Scotland 289; Warwickshire 276 for nine.

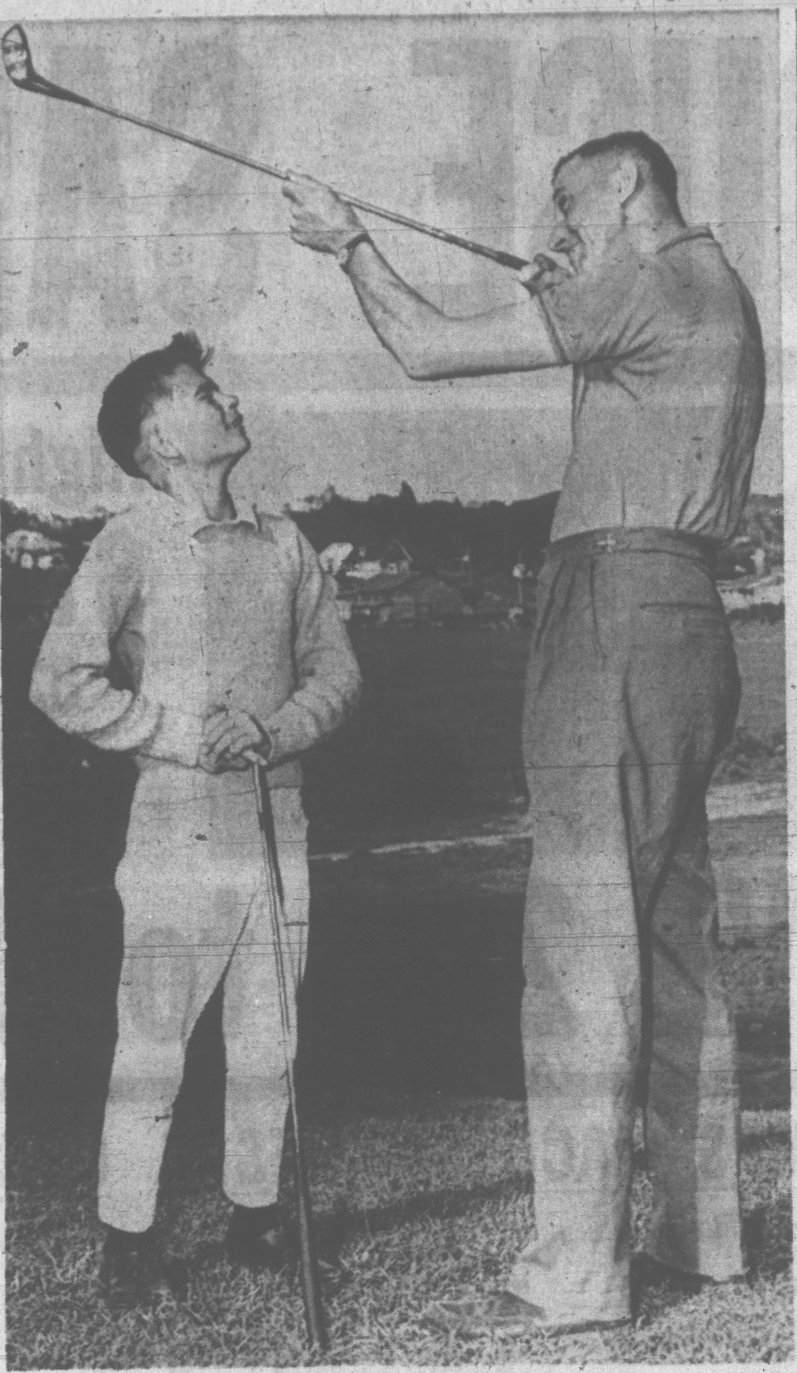
At Lords: Match abandoned, rain. MCC 163; Surrey 83 for five wickets.

Pilots Moan After Kings Lose Opener

EDMONTON (CP)—A war of strategy went on in the dressing rooms Tuesday night as rival coaches expressed displeasure with their clubs after Niagara Falls Flyers tripped Edmonton Oil Kings 3-2 in the first game of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final.

Niagara Falls coach Bill Long said his club would have finished in the basement of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League if it had played as badly all season as it did Tuesday. But he added he does not plan any lineup changes.

Edmonton coach Harry Allen said he figured Long was putting up a smokescreen and then added that the Oil Kings also played far below their ability. But Allen said he doesn't plan any lineup changes either.



WHO GETS STROKES?

There will be a big difference in weight and muscle when 14-year-old Brian Gandy and Allan Kay meet in the final round of the Cedar Hill Golf Club handicap championship. Gandy can stretch four feet, nine inches while Kay, 38, towers to six-three. However, it could be quite a battle because of the handicap system. And it's Gandy who will be starting on the short end of the handicap slate. The little swinger has to give away two strokes to his tall rival. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Joan, Nita Find Groove In Time for Title Race

If qualifying scores are an indication, Joan Luscombe and Nita Moody should be favored to collect the women's tenpin title when the Times Bowler-of-the Year rolloffs go on the boards Sunday afternoon.

JOAN LUSCOMBE
. . . top qualifier

Both Joan and Nita were late qualifiers for the rolloffs for Times Trophies and cash prizes. And both made it with impressive scores, which suggests they have their games in the groove for the title scramble.

Mrs. Luscombe qualified by winning the women's tenpin award in the 27th week of the 28-week Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest, rolling 646 three-game series, highest qualifying score in that division.

Mrs. Moody crashed the rolloff circle only week earlier and, at 645, was only one pin away from Mrs. Luscombe's leading effort.

FOUR DIVISIONS

Bowlers competed in four division—men's and women's tenpins, men's and women's fivepins—during the Times contest. The roller who registered the top score in league play each week earned a Bowler-of-the-Week award and a berth in the rolloffs.

Three other distaff trundlers topped the "600" plateau during the regular competition. Lorna Pollock notched 602 in the seventh week, Peggy Trickett matched that score in the 14th week, and Evelyn Donaldson hit 610 in the 21st week.

All bowlers who won weekly awards are eligible for Sunday's rolloffs, in which the winner of each division will receive a Times Trophy. Any rolloff winner who is a Times subscriber will also receive a bonus prize of $100.

Here are the times and locations of Sunday's rolloffs:

Women's tenpins — Aurora Lanes, 3:30 p.m.

Men's tenpins — Mayfair Lanes, 3:30 p.m.

Women's fivepins — Capital City Bowladrome, 2 p.m.

Men's fivepins — Esquimalt Bowladrome, 2 p.m.

Only charge to finalists will be regular bowling fees set by lanes operators.

All finalists are requested to report 15 minutes ahead of the starting time for assignment to lanes.

This year's open at the suburban Mississaugua club here July 14-17 originally was to have been played at Shaughnessy, but the only available dates conflicted with the Ryder Cup matches.

Carlings Crush Morrisons 9-1

Carlings had that sharp taste, that extra zing Tuesday night.

They blasted Morrisions 9-1 in Senior Men's Softball League action at Heywood Park.

Carlings scored an unearned run in the first inning, added five in the third on a blend of base blows and Morrison miscues.

Bob Holness was the big man with the bat, blasting a home run and two singles. Jim Moody scored three runs.

George Barker won his first start, holding Morrisons to four hits.

Newsteads and McLarens meet tonight at Heywood at 6:45.

Victoria Shooters Win Again

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association shooters are continuing their domination over Island trigger rivals.

Victoria's "A" squad won this season's second Vancouver Island Shooting League trap shoot on the weekend. The squad, composed of L. Watts, S. Rutherford, B. Handyside, R. Edwards and D. Evans, scored 292 against Nanaimo's 287.

Individually, however, Nanaimo shooters excelled. Nanaimo Fish and Game Club marksmen F. Denton, W. Pendergast and R. Mrus took A, C and D honors, leaving only B kudos to Victoria's G. Lamont.

Nanaimo will hold a pistol tournament at its Harewood Road grounds Saturday at 9 a.m. Competitors are expected from Nanaimo, Salt Spring and Victoria.

MARILYN, JAMIE . . . . . . SET TO SPLASH

Swim Duo Seeks Marks

Two young Victoria swimmers, Jamie Stelck and Marilyn Horne, will attempt to shatter Canadian swimming records Thursday at 9:30 p.m. in the Crystal Garden pool.

Jamie hopes to set a new national 50-yard backstroke mark for boys 10 years and under. Marilyn will try to lower the standard in the 50-yard backstroke event for girls in the same age bracket.

Stelck will also join Brian Dowell, Buddy Flett and Thad Newman in an attempt to erase an age-group record for the 200-yard medley relay event.

The record attempts have been arranged in conjunction with the B.C. recreation and sports conference, currently being held in the city.

McNeill Hesitated —And Rocks Lost

Chapman Gets Call Too Late

By ERNIE FEDORUK

KERRISDALE — Freshman Jim McNeill, being new to the business, may be a trifle short of coaching idioms.

But he learns quickly.

He picked up an old favorite out of the coaching manual after watching his Victoria Shamrocks drop a 14-10 duke to Vancouver's Inter-City Lacrosse League team. To wit:

"He who hesitates is lost . . ."

The 23-year-old Victoria pilot acknowledged he hesitated Tuesday night. Shamrocks lost and Gentleman Jim now is one day older and one idiom richer.

THE DIFFERENCE

Hesitation delayed a goaltending switch, and you'll have a hard time convincing the 1,000-or-so mainland customers that this wasn't the turning point of Tuesday's game in Kerrisdale Arena.

McNeill started with reserve goalie Alf Shuker. Three quarters and 13 Vancouver goals later he introduced Skip Chapman, whose main claim to fame is the fact that he happened to be the best goalie and most valuable player in the Inter-City circuit last season.

Chapman allowed one goal, that on a power play, and created some obvious conclusions. One of them is that the Skipper will be on duty tonight when the same Vancouver and Victoria teams play a return engagement in Memorial Arena. (Starting at 8, if you're interested.)

ROCKS CAME BACK

It is true that Alfie was no ball of fire. But he did have a few good moments, and that's what created all the hesitancy.

Vancouver scored two goals on their first two shots. Before nine minutes elapsed, it was four-to-zip, advantage Vancouver. It was 7-7 at the half and 13-10 after three quarters.

The hesitation came at the half.

"I was aware Shuker started slowly," McNeill said in his post-mortem. "But it was 7-7 at the half, and I thought he might settle down."

SHUKER LIFTED

Beaten for six goals in the third quarter, Shuker asked McNeill to send in Chapman.

The obvious thing to do is to point a finger at McNeill and another at Shuker. But that wouldn't be fair. At least one finger must be pointed at Victoria's attackers.

Still very much in the running in the final quarter, the Shamrocks changed shooting tactics. That explains why Victoria's goal-scorers were blanked by Norm Nestman in the final 15 minutes.

The Rocks, when they shot, enjoyed good success against Nestman with bounce shots and high ones. Nestman didn't look like a world-beater in the first three quarters.

LOW DRIVES EASY

Then the Rocks started shooting low and Nestman looked like a champion.

After successive losses to New Westminster and Vancouver, manager Hec McNeill offered some consolation to Shamrocks customers.

"I still haven't seen a team that we can't beat," said Hector.

Believe it because Vancouver, the defending Mann Cup champion, doesn't seem to be the powerhouse it was last year.

Lew's Juniors Follow Orders

They may be juniors, but they are old enough to pay attention when the headmaster speaks.

By doing what coach Lew Landess requested, Victoria Shamrocks dumped the defending champion New Westminster Salmonbellies 9-7 in the 1965 Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League inaugural Tuesday night at Memorial Arena.

Landess wanted his Rocks to play a controlled, methodical game. This calls for rigid personal discipline in which the individual fuses his efforts into a unified team drill.

To their credit, Rocks followed Lew's instructions fully.

Refusing to come apart after a disastrous first-period onslaught (they were behind 4-1), Rocks steadily chipped away, tied the score and then drove steadily on to victory.

RANJIT DILLON

Ken Alexander was Rocks' most prolific shooter, scoring three goals. Two came in the second period when Rocks outscored Westminster 3-0.

Ranjit Dillon, one goal and two assists, and Tej Dhillon, one-and-one, were particularly effective. Single goals came from Ron Zilkie, John Lauvaas, Tom Churchill and Vern Black.

Westminster received three goals from Wayne Bellwood, two from Ken Henry and one each from John Shmyr and Ray Niemi.

Victoria travels to Vancouver Sunday for a game with South Vancouver Legion. The Rocks host Legion here next Monday.

VICTORIANS SIGN

B.C. Executives Fear Boxla Raids

MONTREAL — Four British Columbia junior lacrosse players, including a pair from Victoria, have signed with a Quebec National League team and created an uneasy feeling among West Coast executives.

The B.C. officials fear "wholesale raiding" by Quebec teams.

Signed by Verdun Lions were Al McLean, 20, and Johnny Allen, 21, both of Victoria; George Gregg of Trail, and Ken Street of New Westminster.

McLean and Allen showed up unexpectedly at Verdun workouts after reading about the league, reported to be "an independent semi-pro circuit."

Doug Fletcher of Victoria, a B.C. Lacrosse Association executive, was checking into the Quebec League. If the league is affiliated with the Canadian Association, the Verdun team would be required to pay B.C. teams $500 transfer fees for each west coast player signed.

It is understood, however, that the league is not affiliated with the CLA, a situation which would leave the door open to wholesale raiding of B.C. talent.

Aussie Swim Ban Episode Revived

PERTH (AP)—The decision to ban Australian women swimmers following incidents at the Tokyo Olympics was dramatically revived this week.

At its annual meeting, the West Australian Amateur Swimming Association carried a resolution disagreeing with the disqualifications imposed by the Australian Swimming Union—the first state body to take this action.

Dawn Fraser, Linda McGill, Nan Duncan and Marlene Dayman were expelled for periods of three to 10 years.

The association's resolution, passed by a substantial majority of delegates, will be forwarded to the ASU.

Senior Buttons Finally Change

The string of success finally snapped on Moke Morgan and Clare Mitchell.

The Gorge Vale combination, holders of the senior buttons for seven weeks, gave up the lapel decorations to Larry McCooey and Ray Johnson of Colwood Golf Club.

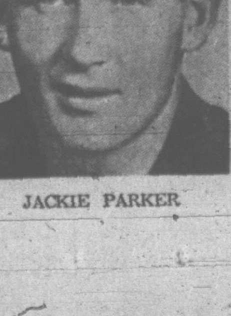
The new holders will make their first defence against John Martens and Jack Betts of Uplands.

PACT SQUELCHES . . . . . . ASSORTED RUMORS

Argos Sign Parker

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Parker, the quarterback Toronto Argonauts signed two years ago for an estimated $27,500 annually in salary and bonuses, has signed his 1965 contract with the Eastern Football Conference club.

His signing squelched rumors the 33-year-old veteran planned to retire or that he would not be invited to the Argo camp this year. There was no estimate on the terms of Parker's contract but it was reported devoid of no-cut clauses and guaranteed special bonuses.



JACKIE PARKER

At the same time, Argonauts announced two front-office moves.

Bob Moir, a Winnipeg radio-television commentator, has been hired to handle publicity and promotion. He replaces John Walsh, who resigned earlier this season.

Argo coach Bob Shaw also acquired Bob Agler, a former player with Los Angeles Rams of the U.S. National Football League and now coach at Otterbein College in Ohio, to assist him during training camp.

Agler has assisted at the last two Saskatchewan Roughrider training camps under Shaw, who joined Argos after the 1964 season.

Berra Grabs the Mitt, Delights Fans, Stengel

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra came back Tuesday night and New York Mets' fans loved it.

With his 40th birthday coming up next Wednesday, the old boy grabbed the mitt and caught the full nine innings in the Mets' 2-1 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

Hitless in spring training and in one pinch-hitting try last Saturday, Yogi came through with two hits and trundled home from second base on a hopper through the infield.

The man who was fired as manager of New York Yankees last fall after winning the pennant and losing the World Series in seven games, now is a playing coach with the Mets.

Berra said he had asked manager Casey Stengel to let him catch. "I might as well find out if I can do it," he said. "I haven't played nine innings since I don't know when." (Actually it was Sept. 21, 1963).

'TREMENDOUS HELP'

Stengel was aglow with pride in his old catcher. "He did a very good job catching that fella (Al Jackson)."

"We haven't got him here to break the world record catching," said Stengel. "No, he won't catch tomorrow. Not two days in a row. I'll catch him the next time Warren Spahn pitches after this turn. That probably will be next Monday."

Jackson, who set a Met record by striking out 11 Phils, said Berra was "a tremendous help to me. Once I shook him off but he demanded his pitch, Later he told me why and he was right."

In other NL games Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews combined for three home runs as Milwaukee whipped Houston 9-3; San Francisco ripped St. Louis Cardinals 9-2; Los Angeles edged Cincinatti 8-6, and Pittsburgh bombed Chicago 6-3.

TOOTHSOME TWOSOME

The Phillies, who failed by one game to win a pennant in the National League last year, now are fighting for another vicariously in the American League.

They're doing it through Los Angeles Angels, who whipped Boston Red Sox 7-1 for their sixth victory in eight games.

Sparking the triumph were two former Phillies — pitcher Marcelino Lopez and first-baseman Costen Shockley. Lopez hurled a six-hitter and had a shutout until Lenny Green homered in the eighth inning while Shockley smashed a grand-slam homer in the fifth.

Lopez went to Los Angeles in the deal that sent Vic Power to the Phillies for their pennant battle late last season.

Shockley and pitcher Rudy May became Angels when Bo Belinsky moved to Philadelphia.

FIREFIGHTERS COOLED BY FAVORED MEXICANS

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — The Mexican National "B" team beat defending champion Vancouver Firefighters 2-0 Tuesday night to take a commanding position going into today's final round of International Kennedy Cup soccer tournament.

San Francisco All-Stars defeated the Baja California All-Stars, 5-3, in an earlier game.

Alvaro Del Prado and Carlos Hernandez scored the goals for the Mexican team after a scoreless first half.

The Mexicans lead with five points and are favored to win when they meet Baja California.

THEN HE'LL RETIRE

Dutch Grand-Daddy Wants Torchy's Mark

TORONTO (CP) — Rik Van Steenbergen is going to retire but not before he breaks that record.

Van Steenbergen, who hails from Antwerp and his partner, Emile Severeyns, also of Belgium, hold down third place in the six-day bicycle race here.

The 41-year-old grand-daddy of racing, who actually is a grandfather, said he now wants only to break the record of 38 six-day wins piled up by Torchy Peden, formerly of Victoria, B.C., and now of Northbrook, Ill.

Van Steenbergen and Severeyns are just one lap behind the Italian and German teams after 741 miles, but they were away ahead on sprint points, used to break any ties at the end of the race.

HAS 21 WINS

Leandro Faggin and Mini De Rossi of Italy, in first place in laps completed, have 192 points.

But Van Steenbergen, and Severeyns have piled up 262 sprint points, more than any team in the race.

And they have done this mainly on the strength of 21 wins by the powerful Van Steenbergen in the 140 sprints held to date. Severeyns has won eight.

If Van Steenbergen and Severeyns win this race, Peden's record will be equalled. The win after that for Van Steenbergen will be his last.

"I don't know when I'll break the record," Van Steenbergen said Tuesday night between sprints. "When I beat the record I quit. I don't have many kilometres left."

If he ties the record this Saturday when the race winds up, Peden will be on hand to congratulate him. The two men, each unequalled in his time, had never met until last weekend.

"Had I heard of him? All my life," Van Steenbergen said.

If Braves to Die, Let 'em—In Peace!

MILWAUKEE (CP) — Milwaukee Braves, whose National League franchise shifts to Atlanta next season, received justice but no mercy Tuesday from a county court judge.

Judge Chris T. Seraphim convicted Myron Jansen, 56, of peddling tickets to Braves baseball games, fined him $5 and told him:

"If the Braves are going to die—and I think they are—I don't want you selling tickets out there."

Jansen was no scalper. He had sold a grandstand seat to a vice squad officer for 30 cents less than its face value. He was convicted under a new county ordinance, passed at the Braves' request, outlawing ticket hawking.

A few hours later, the Braves played Houston Astros before a crowd of 913, the lowest attendance in Milwaukee's 13 years in the league.

THRILL DRUG PUSHERS ARRESTED IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE (AP)—Three young men, one of them a University of Washington freshman, were arrested by police and federal narcotics agents Tuesday night in raids that climaxed months of undercover work.

The three were booked at the city jail on suspicion of supplying "thrill" drugs to upwards of 250 young persons in the city's University District. Police said about half of them were university students.

Narcotics detail detectives said charges would be filed later today against the trio, aged 18, 22 and 28.

Two of the suspects were arrested at a residence where a Nazi flag was seen flying from a flagpole nearby.

Police said the "thrill" group used marijuana, the stimulant drug peyote derived from cacti, methedrine crystals and the hallucinatory drugs LSD-25 and DMT.

. . . KLANSMAN TRIAL

This brought a gasp from spectators.

Moton's testimony that Mrs. Liuzzo was humming "We Shall Overcome" brought guffaws from white spectators in the half-filled courtroom.

"Would you repeat that?" Judge T. Werth Thagard asked the young Negro.

"She was humming 'We Shall Overcome'," Moton repeated.

At one point Murphy, scratching his head in apparent exasperation, said: "You mean she just kept singing 'We shall overcome, We shall overcome, We shall overcome.

"What are you trying to overcome?" Murphy asked. The courtroom rang with laughter.

Sewer Bylaw Goes to Vote

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Property owners in the San Juan and Arrow areas of Saanich will vote May 29 on a $204,000 extension of sewer services to their homes.

A 60 per cent yes vote is needed to approve the extension of the Gordon Head sewer area.

There are 138 homes in the two areas encompassing such streets as San Juan, Chartwell, Penshurst, Arrow, Wende and Athlone.

All property owners soon will be formally notified by mail.

The entire area, when fully subdivided, will provide 419 homes.

ALL MUST SHARE

If the extension is approved, all property owners must share in the cost which is calculated on frontage.

A man with a 65-foot property frontage will pay $100, but this amount will decline as more houses are built.

When the area is fully subdivided, the cost would drop to $66.

The extension would be the fourth for the Gordon Head system established in 1961 and now serving 1,600 homes.

The sewage is chlorinated and discharged into Haro Strait in 40 feet of water by a 1,300-foot pipe approved by the health department.

Polling places in the election will be at Gordon Head Elementary School and Mount Douglas High School.

He was also a member of the Knights of the Round Table, Victoria, and Knox United Church, Calgary.

He is survived by two sons, Donald J. S., Ottawa, and Robert, Duncan, Dauphin, Man.; three grandchildren, one sister, Miss Minnie C. Gow, Dutton, Ont., and one brother, J. A. Gow, Lethbridge, Alta.

World Federalists Call for UN Action

The U.S. military action in the Dominican Republic is deplored by the World Federalists of Canada, Royal Roads military college Professor C. S. Burchill said Tuesday.

Prof. Burchill, president of the WFC, urged Canadians to bombard the House of Commons with letters calling for a strengthening of the United Nations.

He said this would provide an international agency for intercession in all international crises and obviate unilateral action.

"Law and order should be enforced between nations by the UN as it now is within a nation by the individual government."

Glaucoma Found

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian National Institute for the Blind reported today that 572 suspected cases of glaucoma were found in a month-long survey of 17,833 men and women in suburban Scarborough. Glaucoma is the leading cause of blindness.

Probe of BCHIS Asked By Labor

VANCOUVER (CP)— Vancouver and District Labor Council voted Tuesday to support a demand for a public hearing into the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

All aspects of the hospital service, including chronic hospitals, financing and ambulance service, would be dealt with in the hearing.

Support was given after the council heard John Hayward of the Amalgamated Transit Union charge that private hospitals make fabulous profits out of the chronically ill.

VERY UNPLEASANT: MP

Secret Imprisonment 'Disturbing' British

LONDON (CP)—Many Britons are surprised and disturbed to learn that in certain circumstances anyone can be imprisoned in secret in their country.

The fact was uncovered when a high court judge, pressed by two domestic news agencies, revealed Tuesday he had committed a man to prison last week for contempt in a ward of court case.

The man, believed serving 10 days in Brixton Prison, was sentenced after a hearing behind doors closed to the press and public in the Chancery Court of 60-year-old Mr. Justice Stamp.

Liberal MP Eric Lubbock has tabled a question on the secret jailings addressed to Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice. Lubbock is seeking details of similar cases during the last year.

Labor MP David Ensor, a former lawyer, said: "This smacks to my mind of something very unpleasant."

Legal experts say there are in fact four situations in which applications for an order to commit to prison for contempt of court can be heard in camera.

The first is where, as in this case, the proceedings relate to wards, adoptions or guardianship of a person under 21. The others are where cases involve a mentally disordered person, where a secret scientific process or invention is at issue and where a question of national security is at stake.

However, in most cases where the hearings have been in camera the courts have either been opened to the press for the final judgment or lawyers have been authorized to tell reporters the result of the case.

In his statement Mr. Justice Stamp said "the court must have regard to the interests of the ward" and added the jailed man had a right to appeal and could apply for stay of execution pending the appeal or ask for release on bail.

CONFERENCE RECREATION

All facets of recreation will be explored at the four-day annual convention of the B.C. Recreation Association and Sports Conference opening in Victoria tonight.

Sessions and seminars will be held at the Empress Hotel and City Hall.

Guest speakers will include Dr. A. R. MacKinnon, dean of education, Simon Fraser University; Geoffrey Dyson, Canadian Legion sports director, and L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

ANGLICAN SYNOD

Ban on Clergy Draws Protest

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

Church ministers of all denominations should be eligible as school trustees and school teachers.

A resolution to this effect was passed by the 63rd annual Aglican synod (parliament) of the diocese of British Columbia meeting here Tuesday afternoon.

The synod protested Section 62 of the Public Schools Act which rules that no clergyman of any denomination is eligible for the position of superintendent of education, or district superintendent of schools, or teacher, or trustee.

Several delegates said this section discriminated against church ministers and robbed communities of the services of men who, by education, training and experience, could be of "great value" to them.

The synod asked the B.C. government to amend Section 62 of the Public Schools Act to remove this discrimination against church ministers.

Archbishop Harold Sexton spoke of the controversy now raging in England concerning infant baptism.

"The question is being asked whether it is right to commit helpless infants to the Christian way of life. The answer to this must be an authoritative statement and not merely the opinion of individual clergy."

Archbishop Sexton said the sacrament of initiation is far too lightly regarded.

It was estimated that of 27,000,000 people baptized into the Anglican Church in England, only 9,000,000 stayed with it long enough to be confirmed, and only 3,000,000 continued in active association with the church.

"It seems to me," the archbishop said, "that this is the inevitable result of the indiscriminate administration of Holy Baptism, and the almost total disregard for the disciplines and safeguards provided in our Book of Common Prayer.

"In too many of our churches, the administration of baptism has drifted into the dimensions of a scandal.

"The sacrament is approached too often with such slender understanding of the solemn promises involved, and such scanty safeguards for the child's future education in Christian faith and life as to endager the whole significance and potency of the sacrament itself—and subvert the divine purpose it was meant to serve."

"Generally speaking," the archbishop said, "our general state of laxity must end—particularly if the church is to meet the calls which a crumbling society makes upon her today."

Archdeacon Appointed To Brentwood

Archdeacon E. H. Maddocks, general secretary of the Anglican general synod, has been appointed overseer of Brentwood Memorial Chapel District, it was announced Tuesday.

Other appointments, announced at the 63rd session of the Synod of British Columbia, were:

Rev. S. J. Leech of Salt Spring Island to All Saints, Alberni; Archdeacon R. B. Horsfield, Cowichan Lake District to Salt Spring Island; Rev. D. B. Rogers of Montreal to Alert Bay.

Rev. John Sandys-Wunsch of Ucluelet and Tofino to St. John's Anglican Church, Victoria, as assistant priest; Rev. R. G. Matthews, assistant priest at Kelowna to Lake Cowichan.

Rev. E. W. Scott, chaplain of Shawnigan Lake School, has been licensed as incumbent of All Saints, Shawnigan Lake.

Resignations were received from:

Rev. J. G. Frith from All Saints, Alberni, on his transfer to the Diocese of New Westminster. Rev. D. A. Hatfield from Colwood and Langford to chaplain in the Royal Canadian Navy. Rev. S. H. F. Jarvis from St. John's, Cobble Hill, because of ill health.

Efficiency Cuts Costs, Says Officer

Vancouver Island hospital officials have been told management engineering could reduce their costs.

Lt.-Cmdr. Carl Hortie, an RCN management engineer, told a meeting in Royal Jubilee Hospital recently that efficiency studies could save money in the laundry, food services, maintenance, clerical and other operations.

"The modern management engineer brings to his job not only pure engineering skill but also a grasp of social science, which helps him to integrate human beings into the systems he devises," he said.

RCAF Team Arrives In Tanzania

DAR ES SALAAM (Reuters)—An RCAF survey team, here to study Tanzania's needs in training its air force was received Tuesday by President Julius Nyerere.

The seven-man team has completed its two-week mission following Canada's agreement to help train Tanzania's air wing.

Informed sources said the survey team's recommendations will provide a basis for a formal agreement between the two countries and include proposals to train Tanzanian pilots in Canada.

Most members of the team will leave for Ottawa Thursday. Their leader, Col. H. E. C. Price, will remain as commander of Canada's military advisory and training group assisting training of Tanzania's ground forces.

Vatican Widens Scope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul has created a new Moslem section in the Vatican's secretariat for non-Christian religions, and named a French priest to direct it, the Vatican announced Tuesday. Rev. Joseph Cuoq, a member of the African missionary order called the White Fathers and an expert in Islamic matters, was appointed undersecretary of the secretariat and put in charge of the new section "for relations between Moslems and Christians."

Arson Threat Sent to Nuns At Shelter

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Security patrols have been stepped up at the Good Shepherd Shelter following threats of arson.

Mother Cecilia Mary, the shelter's founder, said she heard from three or four persons there have been threats of fire.

"They told me they heard the place would be burned down if it was not closed," she said.

For the last few months, a security patrol company has made twice-nightly checks of the 24-acre property in Metchosin.

Tuesday, for the first time, there were patrols during the daytime and throughout the night.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the first peace talks were held between Mother Cecilia, Mother Superior Ursula of St. Mary's Priory, Bishop Remi de Roo of Victoria and church investigator Rev. Andrew Keber of Mission City.

The meeting agreed to a cooling-off period of a few days until negotiations for a satisfactory settlement have progressed further.

Said Mother Cecilia this morning:

"I have a feeling we have won the battle. We won't know for a few months.

"The bishop said the order to close the shelter (effective Tuesday) would be held in abeyance and in the interim he would appeal to Rome on our behalf if necessary."

She said if the bishop doesn't appeal the closure to Rome, she will do so.

★ ★ ★

"I'm relieved and a little tired after it all," said the 75-year-old nun who has declared she will never close the shelter which cares for more than 100 abandoned cats, dogs and goats.

"But I'm not quite satisfied yet, not until everything is completely in order. I think it will be. Public reaction has been so strong."

Bishop de Roo said Father Keber has been assigned "an extremely difficult task" and this was why a period of calm for a few days was agreed to.

He declined to comment on Tuesday's meeting except to reiterate the church's position:

"The church favors human concern for animals but not at the expense of the immortal souls of men or the destruction of man's human character."

Individual meetings between the principals in the controversy are expected to be held today and Thursday before Father Keber returns home.

Man Offers Double Fine To Court

Bill Scott, Victoria's lighthouse philosopher, offered to make a deal with Magistrate William Ostler in court today.

Charged with failing to file a '63 income tax return, Scott said: "I'm willing to pay double the fine if the money will be used for education and not national defence."

But Magistrate Ostler was having none of it.

Fining Scott $25, he said: "This is not a proper forum to air your views.

"How this money is applied on the national scene has nothing to do with me."

So ended a verbal tit-for-tat which began with Scott stating: "How sweet are the uses of adversity."

To which the magistrate replied: "That may very well be but I want to hear your plea to the charge."

The plea was guilty.

Theatre System Under Fire After Manager Resignation

Official Reason: Clash of Opinion

By AB KENT
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria city council's handling of McPherson Playhouse operation was criticized today following the resignation of its first manager Robert Ellison.

ROBERT ELLISON
. . . he quits

ALLAN PURDY
. . . system wrong

Critics Allan Purdy, Festival Theatre Society administrator and Carl Hare, Uvic drama division director let fly after a secret meeting of council accepted Mr. Ellison's resignation late Tuesday.

They expressed surprise and called the move a fatal error.

Reasons for the resignation of the 31-year-old theatre manager were officially "differences of opinion."

Council also advised that Jack Morgan, Memorial Arena manager, would become responsible for the theatre as well, on June 1.

Allan Purdy was surprised the theatre will be put under direction of the arena manager.

Mr. Purdy said:

"I had always considered it an error that the city considered Mr. Ellison as a business manager. The city can do the books and the dollars and cents of the operation.

"What was needed was a director to operate the theatre and promote some of the work within the framework of the theatre, such as how to fill the theatre.

Mr. Purdy said a directorate, "principally and solely responsible to see that it truly becomes a community theatre" may be the best way to operate McPherson Playhouse.

Carl Hare called the resignation acceptance a "fatal error."

Mr. Hare said there should be a theatre manager "given as much freedom as permissible." He should have "full power to run the theatre" without having to deal with other operations.

There's a Fault In Operation

"There's a fault in the operation," Mr. Hare said. "We have no knowledge of how far he (Mr. Ellison) has been supported at the policy level.

"The city is running a theatre for the first time and Mr. Ellison has had to learn about the town in a very short time. There have been growing pains.

"I would have liked to see how he would have modified the situation. Anyone would burn their fingers in the first few months of operation.

Recreation and community services committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone said a major difference of opinion occurred between Mr. Ellison's and the committee's concept of performance guarantees.

Ald. Toone said the theatre manager "came through a very trying period. But the total picture today is not gloomy by any means."

He pointed to gross box office receipts in the nine weeks Feb. 26-April 30 of $42,858 or $4,726 per week excluding ticket sales by sponsoring groups;

Gross attendance of about 19,000 or 441 persons per day of theatre use;

Occupancy on 43 of 56 available days;

Future bookings on 165 of a total 210 available days excluding Sundays up to Dec. 31;

Successful attendance (50 per cent or larger audiences) for 14 of 18 productions.

Touring Shows Are Expensive

Bringing touring companies to the playhouse cost the city more than $8,000, not counting opening week events.

"We regret this has to take place," said Ald. Toone, "but in the total circumstances the committee accepts the theatre manager's resignation in the best interests of the citizens of the city of Victoria.

John Graeme, president of Victoria School of Music, said, "Anything that can be done to improve the operation of McPherson Playhouse is a step for the good."

There has been comment to the effect that city hall interferes with the theatre operation and that there are "too many cooks stirring the pot."

Mayor Wilson said the theatre had gone through a "growing pain period, but the future looks bright."

One of the few professional theatre managers in Canada Mr. Ellison was selected for the $8,400 post by city council recreation and community services committee as best of 37 applicants from across the country.

He was assistant business manager of the Manitoba Theatre Centre and sales and promotion manager for Crest Theatre Foundation, Toronto, before coming here June 1, 1964.

Mr. Ellison said, "Certainly there were differences, good honest differences that occur between different people.

"I have honest respect for Ald. Toone. My relations with most of the committee were always on a good, friendly plane."

A prepared statement from Mr. Ellison said he regretted leaving, but his decision was based "on a number of factors, the most important one being the opportunity of self advancement.

"The past 11 months in Victoria will undoubtedly be one of the most valuable periods that I have spent in my career.

"The challenge of opening a theatre is one that is not often given to many people. I have considered it a distinct honor to have been allowed this opportunity."

The resignation brings closer the anticipated unification of all civic entertainment and major sports facilities under Mr. Morgan as manager of community recreation and sports facilities.

$8,816 DEFICIT AT ARENA

Victoria Memorial Arena commission today reported an $8,816 deficit for operations ending eight months as at Jan. 31.

Assets totalled $44,500 and liabilities came to $53,316.

Professional hockey reservation was reckoned at $10,175.

Total revenue for the period was $90,054 of which $25,633 came from public skating. Budget estimate for 12 months comes to $136,200.

At the same time last year revenue amounted to $78,448, compared with $76,725 in expenditure.

Religious Department Studied by University

Establishment of a department of religious studies at the University of Victoria is under study, it was announced today.

The action follows Uvic senate's rejection Tuesday of a proposed Anglican-Roman Catholic college on the campus.

Administration Dean Robert Wallace, a member of the senate, explained this morning that a non-sectarian clause in the Universities Act ruled out the joint college.

The rejection was described as "disappointing" by Archbishop Harold Sexton who said a special meeting would be called tonight.

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo was not available for comment but the Anglican synod meeting in Christ Church Memorial Hall adopted a report of the joint college committee's activities which included the expressed hope that the senate would approve the college this year.

"We still feel there should be a Christian voice explicit on the campus," committee member Archdeacon J. W. Forth told the synod. "But if we cannot get on the campus, we should explore other ways and means of establishing such a college."

Dean Wallace said the senate decided that not only must a college fall under its direct authority but it also must meet the B.C. Universities Act's requirement that "each university shall be non-sectarian in principle and no religion, creed or dogma shall be inculcated."

He said the Anglican-Roman Catholic committee's proposal was not accepted for that reason.

But he added:

"The senate of the university has declared that it is mindful of the desirability of expanding the offerings of religious study on the campus and has therefore referred to the Faculty of Arts and Science for study and report the matter of the academic desirability of a Department of Religious Studies."

He pointed out that Uvic President Dr. Malcolm Taylor, forwarding the rejection to the Anglican and Catholic bishops, had stated "there are other possibilities for increasing the dialogue between organized religions and the university community" and these always would be open for discussion.

Botany Junket On Saturday

Victoria Natural History Society will hold a botany field trip Saturday.

The group will leave from Douglas and Hillside at 10 a.m., and will be led by Miss M. C. Melburn. Route will follow West Saanich Rd. to centennial Park and Henderson's Point, returning across Saanich Peninsula.

Two Victorians Attend Meeting

Two delegates from Victoria will attend the B.C. Nature Council meeting May 8 and 9 in Kelowna.

Freeman King, well-known naturalist and Times' columnist, will represent the Victoria Natural History Society, and E. H. Garman will represent the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association.

KILLER FROST HITS CROPS

Early strawberry crops in the Saanich Peninsula were wiped out by an overnight frost Tuesday.

Market gardeners estimate 10 per cent of the annual output has been destroyed.

The strawberry market is a $500,000 industry in the peninsula.

The frost—around 28 degrees at ground level—blackened the first lot of strawberry blossoms.

Today, gardeners were keeping their fingers crossed for warmer weather.

PICKING DELAYED

As things stand, picking will not begin until the first week in June.

Usual picking date is third week in May.

Further frosts could cause a serious shortage of strawberries throughout B.C.

Mainland and Okanagan crops were set back by the December cold spell.

The frost seriously hampered other crops throughout the area.

Tulips were nipped in the bud.

SHORTAGE?

Chief grower Geoff Vantreight said there is danger of a shortage for Mother's Day this Sunday.

Already he has had trouble fulfilling orders from eastern cities.

Thousands of blooms which were to have been ready for the weekend will now not be ripe until later.

Also affected were potato plants in lower lying areas.

TREES, TOMATOES

Although full extent of damage will not be known for some time, the cold spell could also have hit cherry and apple trees and outdoor tomatoes.

Victoria weatherman William Mackie said temperatures would be much the same tonight though possibly a little warmer.

Clouds Thursday should boost overnight temperatures above freezing point.

Drive-In Movie Sought

A movie company has applied to Saanich to build a drive-in theatre on the edge of Mount Douglas Park.

Famous Players Canadian Corp. is seeking to rezone a 13-acre triangle of property where Cedar Hill Road and Shelbourne Street merge.

The exact location is east of Cedar Hill and west of Shelbourne.

The company plans to run the drive-in itself and show first-run movies in conjunction with films showing at the Royal, Capitol and Odeon theatres downtown.

The municipal planning department hasn't completed study of the application.

When it has, a recommendation will go to the Advisory Planning Commission and then it will come to council.

Lawyer Louis Lindholm, representing Famous Players, said he knows there will be "some sensitivity" about landscaping.

"There is no question but that Famous Players is alive to this and would do proper and tasteful landscaping," he said.

TO SOLVE VIEW ROYAL BOUNDARIES

60-Day Limit: Campbell

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today gave a government-appointed committee a 60-day deadline to solve the View Royal problem.

Failure to reach a solution may mean the partition of the unorganized residential district.

The minister's instruction means the committee will seek an agreement with ratepayers for either the amalgamation of View Royal with Esquimalt or the formation of a separate municipality.

Mr. Campbell said if the committee fails to solve the problem he will be "morally bound" under the new Municipal Act to recognize the petition to extend the boundaries of Esquimalt to include the View Royal panhandle.

(Residents of the panhandle have petitioned the government to incorporate their district with Esquimalt. It was opposed by business interests.)

"The committee will act as a sort of steering committee," said the minister. "It will see if it can get ratepayers to agree to a proposal—a package deal for View Royal."

THREE MEN

The committee is composed of J. Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs; Coun. George Argyle, representing Esquimalt, and Albert E. Beasley, View Royal.

Mr. Beasley said he is not opposed to View Royal amalgamating with Esquimalt providing the municipality makes some tax concessions to the people in the area.

"I feel we should get some tax concessions until such time as Esquimalt starts to provide the View Royal district with extra services," he said.

Mr. Beasley added he was opposed to extending Esquimalt's boundary to include the Panhandle because it would mean that View Royal would lose one-third of its revenue.

"We would be better off if we amalgamate as a whole rather than piece-meal," he said.

Earlier, a government commission set up to investigate the boundary extension, recommended against partitioning View Royal.

It urged the government to solve the administrative problems of View Royal.

ONE-PUNCH MARTIN VS. GASPERS

Grudge Match Challenge Given Smokers

By TERRY IZZARD

The gloves are on.

In the red corner is health minister Eric Martin.

In the blue—oh so blue—corner, the tobacco-loving public.

The issue: Smoking.

The stakes: Better health.

Mr. Martin issued a challenge to the public Tuesday daring smokers to observe a one-day fag ban May 31.

On the face of it Mr. Martin is entering the foray at a disadvantage.

At 59 he is past his fighting best.

Even so, he can be sure the doctors are on his side.

And while he suffers a serious weight setback, his tar-free lungs should be sufficient to carry him through the first few rounds.

In preparation for the fight, Mr. Martin is sticking to a strict fresh-air diet.

Things were vastly different on the other side of the fence.

Here, at Camp No. 7, the day started as usual with a crafty pre-breakfast drag.

This was followed by a communal coughing session and a quick sprint to the nearest cigarette vending machine.

Chief trainer Joe du Maurier confidently predicted a technical knockout in the closing rounds.

Breaking into his third pack of the day, he said: "This boy Martin has got lots of guts to issue the challenge.

"But I don't think he's got the staying power of our boys. They'd rather fight than switch."

Pre-fight betting is heavily in favor of the 50-a-day boys.

But the eventual outcome is as hazy as a downtown poolroom.

Two Major Events Remain On City Festival Calendar

By AUDREY JOHNSON

As the 15th annual Greater Victoria Music Festival enters its closing phase with school choral classes which began this morning continuing tonight and all day tomorrow, two major events remain on the schedule.

Tonight, at Central Junior High School, the dance honor performance takes place.

The following schools have been invited to take part.

Margaret Jenkins, Cloverdale, Quadra and Oaklands will combine in a German dance, Man in the Hay.

Others who will perform their top-rated entries are Central Junior Secondary, Tolmie, Doncaster, Beacon Hill, Cloverdale, Oaklands, George Jay, Margaret Jenkins, Willows, Tillicum, Oak Bay Junior, Lansdowne, St. Louis College and the Adeline Duncan Dancers performing Argyle Broadswords.

At Oak Bay Junior Secondary tonight, senior and junior high school choirs will compete in several classes starting at 7:30.

OUTSTANDING

This program will feature outstanding dance groups selected by the adjudicator, Miss Rose Hill, from Monday and Tuesday sessions.

The second major event will be the only session on Friday—the schools honor performance at Central—when choral, instrumental and dance numbers will make up the program.

Major event Tuesday, was the winning by Barbara Ann Court, of the Congress of Strings Scholarship. This important award, made available through the Musicians Association, AF of M, Local 247, provides two months attendance at Michigan State University's Congress of Strings, June 21 to Aug. 15.

It is an all-expense scholarship valued at approximately $1,500, the first $300 of which is provided by Local 247.

Ajudicator Alfred Boyington—himself a Master of Music of Michigan State—was impressed with the performance of all three entrants, Barbara Ann, Velma Ko and Donna DeLong.

SCORES A 92

The three were only separated by one mark each, Barbara Ann Court's 92 and the award were based on her "tone quality and mature approach to phrasing and interpretation" in the first movement of Mozart's Concerto No. 4 in D major.

Tuesday night Greater Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra received high praise from Randall Spicer and 92 marks.

Mount View and Mount Douglas Senior Secondary bands were graded as superior; Oak Bay Senior was excellent, and Victoria, good.

Beat Scene Out Of Tune; Bar Beatles?

LONDON (AP) — A transatlantic dispute threw the beat scene into discord today and the result may be to bar the Beatles and other British groups from the United States.

The dispute operates on two levels.

First, the British Musicians Union and the American Federation of Musicians have scrapped their hard - won "treaty" governing exchanges of pop music performers.

Secondly, British agents are fighting mad because some of their up-and-coming talent has been denied an American hearing.

The big North American tour planned for the Beatles this fall still goes on because the contracts already are signed. Louis Armstrong will be coming here this summer.

NO MORE TRIPS

But the two unions, with the American side apparently taking the initiative, will allow no more exchanges once current contracts have been honored.

The British agents as distinct from the union, are angry because some British performers have been refused work visas for promotional appearances in the States because they are not sufficiently well-known there.

The agents say that completely unknown Americans can come here and make a name. Today they took their grievances to the labor ministry to urge a "visa-for-visa" policy.

Apart from the Beatles, the Dave Clark Five and the group called the Animals have contracts for U.S. appearances and these will be carried through as planned.

But unless the inter - union treaty gets working again, all transatlantic exchange of pop musicians soon will die.

"Oh! Ye gods! Unfair!" screamed 17-year-old Margaret Kurnyta, of Chicago, a Beatle fan.

"It's just like taking James Bond away from the grown-ups," said 18-year-old Larry Johnson of Indianapolis.

"Gosh, gee whiz," wailed 14-year-old Kenney Lowell of Seattle, "We oughta go over there and bump the bum that did it. What a buncha finks."

Isabella Pietluck, 18, president of the Chicago Beatles U.S.A. Limited, said, "all the kids will go out of their minds" when they hear of the ban.

But there are some teen-agers —and one young lady — who couldn't care less whether they come to the United States or not.

Lori Swartworth, a 17-year-old high school senior from Vandergift, Pa., said: "It's no great loss. We've got enough noise-makers on this side of the Atlantic without importing them."

FOR HEAVY SMOKERS

X-Rays Every 3 Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—A public health official says heavy-smoking males over the age of 40 should have chest X-rays every three months.

"Lung cancer under these conditions can develop in three months," Dr. C. C. McLean said Tuesday.

"If found in the early stages the disease can often be checked, and this makes it imperative that men over 40 who smoke heavily should be X-rayed every three months."

Dr. McLean, medical director of surveys for the Vancouver health department, said persons under 30 should have X-rays annually.

"Younger people are more susceptible to tuberculosis because they come in contact socially with people almost constantly, whereas most people over 30 settle down to home life."

He said after the age of 30 there should be X-rays every three or four years.

BONN (Reuters)—Two out of three West Germans like Queen Elizabeth, states a public opinion poll published here Monday. Six per cent dislike her and 1 per cent have never heard of her. The Queen visits West Germany later this month.

A strange play—both haunted and haunting—is Bastion Theatre's current offering at McPherson Playhouse.

It is also excellent entertainment, both gay and moving, hilarious and tragic.

With its fantastic-comic aspects it is exactly the type of show that Peter Mannering, as a director, does best.

It deals with the primitive folk and supernatural inhabitants of the Great Smokey Mountains.

TWISTED PLAYS

The settings were particularly well devised for this production. Use of two bare, twisted trees in silhouette against the lighted cyclorama and some shrouded levels that only lost their rock-like appearance when the stage was too much illuminated, constituted a basic set.

Against this, other scenes—a general store, the shanty home of the Allens, the church interior —were cleverly suggested by the use of one or two simple units.

Atmospheric impact of the play's beginning was electric and, moreover, not weakened by over-exposure to the audience with an open curtain.

IMAGINATIVE

The lighting was imaginative but not always right as to quality and intensity. There were many times when it did not give emphasis where it was needed.

My chief quarrel with the production is that it was much slower than it should have been overall, and lacked the vivid contrasts in pace that have made this play so exciting on other occasions.

A great deal more vitality throughout would have helped. Especially so in the country dance scene which needed to be about twice as energetic and boisterous.

The "sinners' repentence" scene in the church was not nearly as effective as it should have been for it was taken too lightly. This is not comedy. It is a terrifying expose of brutal superstitious fanaticism and bigotry.

VICIOUS, UGLY

It is the demoniacal frenzy of the righteous which is so much more vicious and ugly than the fantasy demoniac of the witches.

The big cast is generally competent. The dark and fair witches, Ginny Lefever and Wendy Packard, move delightfully and play with animation and a feeling for style.

Blain Fairman's Witch Boy is a compelling performance, both sinister and moving, although there are moments when it drops into too low a key and moments when it seems too restrained.

Playing her first long acting role, Sylvia Mobey has two scenes in which she meets the challenge effectively; she is emotionally convincing in the confinement scene and builds to a dramatic climax in the church "revival."

Otherwise her characterization of Barbara Allen is lacking the vividness and clear delineation the role demands.

This, best of Bastion Theatre's productions in the McPherson so far, will be repeated nightly through Saturday.

Bankruptcy Gov't File Stays Secret

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau told the Commons Tuesday he will find out whether charges are under consideration in the bankruptcy of furniture firms under brothers Max and Adolph Sefkind.

He was replying to a question by Erik Nielson (PC-Yukon). But he told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker he would not be tabling the bankruptcy file on the Sefkind brothers.

Mr. Diefenbaker, describing the brothers as men who "engaged in benevolent furniture transactions," asked that the material be made available to the House so MPs could examine the circumstances under which the brothers operated.

He mentioned the "beneficient circumstances under which furniture was furnished to two persons who are now members of the cabinet." Would the document he produced or "hidden in the way the minister has hidden other things?"

Mr. Favreau said he would not accept "the implication or insinuation that because the law does not allow me to produce a document I am placed in a situation of trying to hide something."

NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE WELL ADVANCED

Huge Sale of Uranium at Stake

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations between France and Canada for the sale of 100,000,000 pounds of Canadian uranium are reported to be drawing closer to agreement.

An official said the sale, negotiated by Denison Uranium Mines to the European atomic energy pool mainly for France, is all but completed, pending approval by the Canadian government.

External Affairs Minister Martin, now in Europe, is expected to touch on the subject when he confers with the French foreign ministry. An official here said "the matter now is in the hands of the diplomats."

But the amounts and prices involved are the concern of the private mining firm involved. Its big mine at Elliot Lake, Ont., is one of the few remaining producing mines in Canada and needs the French sale to keep operations going.

Stephen B. Roman, president of Denison, said in February negotiations with France were well advanced. At that time he said a price somewhat over $4.38 a pound could be expected. At that price, the sale would mean $438,000,000 over the life of a 25-year contract.

EXPECT PRIC RISE

The stickler in the price negotiations is the fact that the market for Canadian uranium is expected to grow rapidly from 1968 on.

A price escalator clause, it is understood, is to be written into the contract.

The point at issue among the diplomats is observance of Canada'd international commitment to sell uranium only for peaceful purposes and to see that uranium is not diverted abroad into any military use.

Normally this would be done by a system of inspection, but any suggestion that Canada should inspect France's use of Canadian uranium was believed to have raised objections in Paris.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Seek New Wage Talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives for 76 Greater Vancouver hotel operators announced Tuesday they will seek a new round of talks in a wage dispute with about 900 members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union (CLC).

The decision followed a meeting of 59 of the 76 hotelmen which gave the B.C. Hotels Association full power to negotiate a contract.

Negotiations broke off more than a week ago when the union's local 676 rejected a 25-cent hourly wage increase over three years and petitioned for a strike vote.

The union was seeking a 25-cent increase in one year, claiming hotels were doing a bonanza business and could afford the raise.

Stan Smith, representing the Hotels Association, said the B.C. Liquor Control Board will not hand down a decision on the hotelmen's request for authority to sell beer cafteria style until automated dispensing machines can be obtained.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices moved narrowly in light trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Export interest was quiet.

The only ripple of activity was in feed grains, which responded to unconfirmed reports of export business. Prices moved narrowly in both oats and barley.

Flax moved narrowly, and export interest was at a low ebb. Rapeseed moved narrowly in light trade.

The rye market was drab.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Britain 1,500,000 bushels, China 1,230,000, Japan 425,000, Venezuela 90,000, Switzerland 70,000, Belgium 60,000, Hong Kong 35,000, Guatemala 30,000, and small lots to the Philippines and Jamaica.

Suspend Trading In Webb, Knapp

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission suspended all trading today in the securities of Webb and Knapp Inc., a financially troubled real estate firm whose common stock was suspended Tuesday by the American Stock Exchange.

The commission gave no reason for the 10-day suspension.

The huge real estate firm, controlled by William Zeckendorf of New York City, has had difficulty for more than a year in raising cash to meet its obligations.

The commission order affects over the counter trading in Webb and Knapp securities and trading on the Baltimore-Philadelphia-Washington Stock Exchange.

The order also covers the stock of Roosevelt Field Inc., a subsidiary, Webb and Knapp's 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 5 per cent sinking fund debentures due in 1974.

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's aircraft industry recorded exports worth nearly $84 million in the first three months of this year. This was about $5.6 million up on last year.

The Society of British Aerospace Constructors (SBAC) announced this today and stood by their earlier forecast that total exports by the industry would hit $504 million this year.

The U.S., Canada, India and Western Germany were the top buyers of airplanes in March alone, while over the three month period the top customers were the U.S., Iraq, India and Canada in that order.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian imports from Russia, Eastern Europe and Communist China rose 44 per cent last year to $39,337,990, according to final statistics for 1964 import trade released today by the bureau of statistics.

But Canadian exports to those countries—up 96 per cent to $618,851,569, according to an earlier DBS report — left them with a whopping trade deficit of over a billion dollars in transactions with this country.

SEATTLE (AP)—Boeing Co. President William M. Allen painted a glowing profits picture for company stockholders at their annual meeting today.

But he said the company needs more military and space contracts.

Allen said first-quarter sales were $508,100,000 and net earnings $14,186,000, or $1.76 a share, compared with $479,600,000, a net of $7,900,000 and 98 cents a share in the same 1964 period.

Allen noted sales for 1965 so far have set a record at 168 jet planes and production rates are being increased on the 727 medium range tri-jet.

CHICAGO (AP) — Chairman David Sarnoff took a rosy view of the future in a talk Tuesday to Radio Corp. of America shareholders in Chicago and New York linked by a closed-circuit, color-television hookup.

Sarnoff said "that the upward earnings trend will continue through 1965 and beyond, provided that the U.S. economy maintains its firm pace."

He said color finally has come into full status. In the years ahead "color will continue to expand until everybody who is interested in television will own a color set."

BANK BILLS RE-INTRODUCED IN SENATE

OTTAWA (CP) — Two bills to incorporate chartered banks were reintroduced in the Senate Tuesday night.

The two private bills, to incorporate the Bank of Western Canada and the Laurentide Bank, were introduced in the last parliamentary session but failed to pass.

The bills for these two banks and another — the Bank of British Columbia to be operated with some provincial government financing — became deadlocked during the last parliamentary session.

The proposed banks would be the first to have head offices in Western Canada.

Bell Phone Seeking More Profit

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bell Telephone Company of Canada argued Tuesday it should be allowed a higher profit level and said it is confident this can be attained without disturbing existing telephone rates.

Bell's contention featured the opening of public hearings before the Board of Transport Commissioners into the financial operations of the big private utility.

The hearings, initiated by the board, will review the permissive level of Bell earnings, set at $2.43 a share in 1958 when the company last won a rate increase.

HIT PEAK

Bell has exceeded the $2.43 level in every year since, hitting a peak of $2.71 last year on a record profit of $77,738,615.

John L. O'Brien of Montreal, leading a team of six Bell lawyers at the hearings, said there have been "recurring reports" that if the board sets a higher permissive level for Bell profit "such a finding would be followed by a request for an increase in the general level of rates."

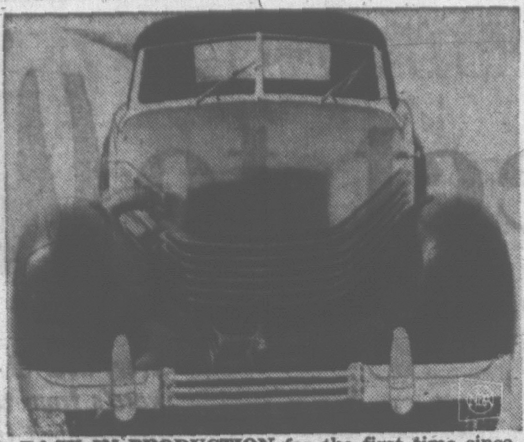
"May I say as clearly as I can on behalf of my client that nothing is further from its intention."

Bell has already served notice that it will seek to scrap the per-share permissive profit formula and substitute one based on a percentage return on total invested capital. It suggests seven per cent.

Two Bell executives gave testimony on the company's finances and telephone work in the 1958-64 period.

Ernest G. Digby, assistant comptroller-general, said revenues had risen on an annual average of 7.6 per cent while expenses gained an average of six per cent.

Robert C. Scrivener, vice-president for operations, said Bell had 4,300,000 telephones in use at the end of 1964 compared to 3,100,000 at the start of 1959.



BACK IN PRODUCTION for the first time since 1937 is the Cord. This is the sportsman model. Glenn Pray of Broken Arrow, Okla., decided to revive the classic front-wheel-drive car and hopes to sell 2,000 of them in the next year. One liberty was taken: the body is plastic. (NEA Photo.)

Big Claim-Staking Rush Around Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The local mining district is gripped in its biggest claim staking rush since the Elliot Lake uranium rush of the 1950s.

During April 1,227 claims were recorded in the Sault district.

"This is the best since July, 1955," mining recorder Dan Jodouin said.

Mr. Jodouin said the companies staking the claims wish to remain anonymous and will not say what mineral they are hoping to find. Several copper mines are scheduled to open in the area in the next few months.

At that time, 1,320 claims in the Elliot Lake area, 80 miles east of here, were recorded.

The activity is concentrated in three areas with Elliot Lake one of them. The others are near Hearst, 300 miles north of here, and in the vicinity of Batchawana, 40 miles to the north.

During all of 1964 there were 3,270 claims staked in the Sault mining area. This total was the best locally since 1957.

Pan-American Suffers Major Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Shareholders of Pan American World Airways were told Tuesday the airline suffered a $6,914,000 loss during the first three months of 1965.

Juan Trippe, chairman of the board, said the loss came despite a seven-per-cent increase in total revenue.

He said the airline was hurt by reduced returns from passenger travel, an 18-per-cent reduction in U.S. mail payments, and the April pilots' strike, which caused cancellation of many March bookings.

Total revenue for the quarter was $130,809,000, compared with $122,229,000 in the first three months of 1964.

ROBICHAUD WARNS FISHING CONVENTION

'Well-Managed Operations Needed'

WASHINGTON (CP) — The world faces an "explosive situation in which the expanding fishing effort may seriously damage the resource if not tempered with sound management," Fisheries Minister Robichaud said today.

"The future may well lie with well-managed operations based close to the fishing grounds," Robichaud told the first North American fishing convention.

But at present, the growth of far-ranging national fleets on the high seas "poses a serious challenge to the world's yet inadequate organization for international fisheries research and regulation."

Robichaud said a first step nationally and internationally must be intensive research on the existing fish stocks and the impact of both fishing and natural factors controlling yield and growth.

Then regulations must be fashioned to reconcile the scientific and economic spheres. Then must come enforcement of these regulations.

Internationally, the fishing industry is at an early stage in this whole process, said Robichaud.

He spoke to a luncheon meeting at the third and final day of discussions organized by the Fisheries Council of Canada and the comparable commercial associations from the United States and Mexico.

He said the mobility and fishing power of some national fleets means that newly-discovered stocks "may be reduced in abundance very rapidly, sometimes before there has been an opportunity to make a scientific assessment of their potential."

Thus, economic loss is suffered by the fleets themselves "and by the countries which may watch the resources at their doorstep dwindle before their eyes, sometimes before they can reach a level of development which would enable them to take part in the exploitation."

Robichaud mentioned no countries, but obviously had Soviet and Japanese fleets in mind as deep-sea powers.

He urged that the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization broaden its role in fisheries to provide a basis for broad regulatory action internationally.

Price Index Rises

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose two-fifths of a point to 137.7 at the beginning of April with increases in six of its seven components, the bureau of statistics reported today. Leading the index advance were the prices of clothing and of health and personal care items.

Mr. Jodouin said the companies staking the claims wish to remain anonymous and will not say what mineral they are hoping to find. Several copper mines are scheduled to open in the area in the next few months.

At that time, 1,320 claims in the Elliot Lake area, 80 miles east of here, were recorded.

The activity is concentrated in three areas with Elliot Lake one of them. The others are near Hearst, 300 miles north of here, and in the vicinity of Batchawana, 40 miles to the north.

During all of 1964 there were 3,270 claims staked in the Sault mining area. This total was the best locally since 1957.

Pan-American Suffers Major Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Shareholders of Pan American World Airways were told Tuesday the airline suffered a $6,914,000 loss during the first three months of 1965.

Juan Trippe, chairman of the board, said the loss came despite a seven-per-cent increase in total revenue.

He said the airline was hurt by reduced returns from passenger travel, an 18-per-cent reduction in U.S. mail payments, and the April pilots' strike, which caused cancellation of many March bookings.

Total revenue for the quarter was $130,809,000, compared with $122,229,000 in the first three months of 1964.

ROBICHAUD WARNS FISHING CONVENTION

'Well-Managed Operations Needed'

WASHINGTON (CP) — The world faces an "explosive situation in which the expanding fishing effort may seriously damage the resource if not tempered with sound management," Fisheries Minister Robichaud said today.

"The future may well lie with well-managed operations based close to the fishing grounds," Robichaud told the first North American fishing convention.

But at present, the growth of far-ranging national fleets on the high seas "poses a serious challenge to the world's yet inadequate organization for international fisheries research and regulation."

Robichaud said a first step nationally and internationally must be intensive research on the existing fish stocks and the impact of both fishing and natural factors controlling yield and growth.

Then regulations must be fashioned to reconcile the scientific and economic spheres. Then must come enforcement of these regulations.

Internationally, the fishing industry is at an early stage in this whole process, said Robichaud.

He spoke to a luncheon meeting at the third and final day of discussions organized by the Fisheries Council of Canada and the comparable commercial associations from the United States and Mexico.

He said the mobility and fishing power of some national fleets means that newly-discovered stocks "may be reduced in abundance very rapidly, sometimes before there has been an opportunity to make a scientific assessment of their potential."

Thus, economic loss is suffered by the fleets themselves "and by the countries which may watch the resources at their doorstep dwindle before their eyes, sometimes before they can reach a level of development which would enable them to take part in the exploitation."

Robichaud mentioned no countries, but obviously had Soviet and Japanese fleets in mind as deep-sea powers.

He urged that the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization broaden its role in fisheries to provide a basis for broad regulatory action internationally.

Price Index Rises

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose two-fifths of a point to 137.7 at the beginning of April with increases in six of its seven components, the bureau of statistics reported today. Leading the index advance were the prices of clothing and of health and personal care items.

ROMANS STONE BUSES IN FARE HIKE PROTEST

ROME (AP)—Hundreds of workers blocked buses and streetcars, stoning their windows, at a big square on the edge of the city Tuesday in protest against new fare increases.

Police moved in as the number of demonstrators swelled.

More than 30 persons were reported injured and an equal number taken into custody.

HUGE B.C. FARM

Americans Here 'To Make Money'

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — "We're not up here to show off . . . we're here to make money," says Glen Power, a husky Oklahoman who is directing work at a 20,000-acre farm in the heart of the rich grain-growing Peace River country of northeastern British Columbia.

"We bought the 21 sections comprising the South Peace stock farm last fall. Since then we've picked up 11 adjoining sections."

The farm, large even by Canadian standards where grain farms average about one section (640 acres), is financed by Morrison Grain Company of Hastings, Neb.

The company also is developing a 55,000-acre tract in Louisiana for grain production.

Mr. Power arrived at the site at Mile 26 on the Alaska Highway last fall. He estimates it will be three years before the entire acreage is brought under cultivation.

WHEAT MAIN CROP

The company hopes to have 5,000 acres seeded to wheat and barley this spring. These will be the main crops, but livestock production is a future possibility, too.

The company set out last fall to clear 10,000 acres by spring and has almost reached this target. Windrows of brush and fallen trees stretch almost six miles in places.

Crews have worked seven days a week since mid-November and only 1½ days have been lost because of cold weather.

Five 2,000-bushel granaries have been built at the farm headquarters and a grain elevator is planned at Taylor, B.C., seven miles north of the farm and on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Foundations now are being laid for homes which will be used by the manager and foreman. Behind them bunkhouses for 30 men will be built.

EMPLOYED 20

The farm has employed about 20 men throughout the winter. "I don't know how many we'll need her steady, but when we're running 24-hour shifts at seedtime and harvest we'll probably have a crew of 50 or more."

Mr. Power was reluctant to reveal long-term plans for the farm. "We'll get it all cleared and worked down before we decide what the operation will be.

"We've got a good line of registered Aberdeen Angus back in the U.S. now.

"I've got a lot of ideas, but I'm keeping them to myself for the moment. If they work out that'll be fine. If they don't, some fellow won't be saying, 'I told you so.'

"The old timers look at what I'm doing and tell me I'm a fool, but I think this country needs some fools."

Register Next Week For Kindergartens

It's kindergarten registration time for the Victoria tricycle set.

An expected 1,600 tots will be registered by their parents next week for kindergarten classes in the next school year.

Registration will take place May 10 to May 14 from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. at most city elementary schools.

To be registered, children must be five years of age by Dec. 31, 1965, and birth certificates or other proof of birth must be shown. Arrangements will be made at registration time for medical and dental examinations by school health officials.

The number of elementary schools in Victoria holding kindergarten classes has been reduced from 15 to 14 this year, with four classes at each school.

SWING SHIFT

A swing shift system will be in operation as usual at the kindergarten level. Classes will go on a morning shift (9 to 11:30) and an afternoon shift (12:45 to 3:15) on alternate weeks.

The shift system is necessary to accommodate as many children as possible, a school board official said.

Schools where registration will be held and the districts they serve are:

Tillicum (Tillicum, Hampton, Craigflower, Tolmie west of Douglas Burnside); Uplands (Uplands, Shelbourne, Gordon Head); Willows (Willows, Frank Hobbs, Richmond east of Richmond); George Jay (George Jay, Quadra); Lake Hill (Lake Hill, Cedar Hill west of Maplewood, Blenkinsop Road, Glanford east of Douglas).

AIR CANADA STEWARDESSES

Bilingualism on Higher 'Plane' in Quebec

By JUDY CREIGHTON

"Bonjour, mesdames et messieurs, bien venue a bord due vol d'Air Canada numero 448 a destination de Quebec" . . . or if you like . . . "Good day ladies and gentlemen, welcome aboard Air Canada flight number 448 now departing for Quebec."

The latter sounds more familiar to aircraft travellers in this part of the country, but to Miss Barbara Emery and Miss Lucille Carriere, two vivacious Air Canada stewardesses, these "take-off" announcements are both as familiar as "Good morning."

Recently visiting in Victoria from their home base in Montreal, Barbara and Lucille explained their views on the latest in qualifications for the position of stewardess with the airlines.

"If a stewardess is based in Quebec, whether she is French or English-speaking, she must be bilingual."

LOVES FRENCH

How do they react to this? Says Barbara, "It's great for me because I love the French language and have also a working knowledge from my schooling."

To Lucille, French Canadian by birth, the opportunity to converse in the English tongue has opened the door to a new world for her.

"Three years ago, I couldn't understand a word of your language. But with the help of my good friend Barbara and the fact that to keep my job I had to be bilingual, I am really getting along with my English."

The two young women feel that the change to compulsory bilingualism has been a marvellous success. But Barbara laughingly says, "Of course there are always the complainers, those French-speaking travellers who feel our pronounciation is not as good as it should be." "Or," chides Lucille, "the English-speaking who can't understand a word I'm saying in their language!"

Seriously, though, the young women are quite confident that the majority of their passengers are happier about the meeting of the English and French on "this plane."

For Barbara, who was raised and educated in Victoria, the past two years living in Quebec has been a real eye-opener.

"The French-Canadian culture is absolutely marvellous," she says. "Why they have so many wonderful writers, artists and actors."

Also, she has found that sharing an apartment with Lucille has helped her understand not only the language but to appreciate the way of life in Quebec.

Lucille boasts proudly, "It is rare to find a French Canadian girl living with someone from another part of the country. Barbara and I are proving that it works—why we even go so far as to have English-speaking days and times when we converse only in my native language!"

Naturally their friends are from both cultures. "How kind the French-Canadians are," says Barbara, "they never tease me if I make a mistake when I am speaking French. Just as long as we English-speaking Canadians make an effort, the Quebecois are willing to give a helping hand."

Lucille says coyly, "My boy-friend is English-speaking. We are teaching each other the two languages."

Asked about the strength of the separatist movement in Quebec both Barbara and Lucille are confident that the differences and petty prejudices are diminishing rapidly. "It is so quiet in Quebec now in contrast to a year ago," says Lucille, "We do believe that with concessions on both Quebec and the other provinces' part, the problem will be solved in a mature manner."

Barbara stressed that a great deal of the difficulties in Montreal alone seemed to be ironed out.

"So many English-speaking people are really making an effort to learn the French language, understand the history and how to live in a province bearing a different culture—it is just wonderful to see!"

After their brief stay in the city, the girls returned to Montreal.

"There is just one problem," said Lucille, "now that I've seen your beautiful Victoria, I'm not so sure I want to leave."

It's highly likely that after seeing this lovely French girl, Victoria was also sorry to see her go!

Brightening the local scene recently were attractive Air-Canada stewardesses Miss Lucille Carriere and Miss Barbara Emery from Montreal. The visitors stayed with Miss Emery's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Emery, at their McNeill Avenue home. This was the first trip home for Barbara in 11 months.

Year-Old Auxiliary Plans Sidney Tea

The year-old Women's Auxiliary to Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney will hold a tea and open house at the hospital on Wednesday, May 12, from 2 to 5 p.m. The affair will be opened by Mrs. George R. Pearkes.

Although the hospital is run by the Seventh-Day Adventists, the auxiliary is non-denominational. Its purpose is to provide extra comforts for the patients.

During its year of operation, the auxiliary has installed a gift shop and library, with a trolly being taken around the wards twice a week. Members are on duty each afternoon and evening. They also do the necessary sewing and mending of hospital linen.

Bunny bags have been made, dressing gowns supplied and more are on order. A Hoyer lift and wax bath have also been bought. The group plans to donate other equipment when needed. Proceeds from the tea will be used for this work.

The tea's co-conveners are Mrs. A. A. Cormack and Mrs. H. R. Evans. Other conveners are: Tea, Mrs. A. B. Cross; home cooking, Mrs. S. E. Clark; gift table, Mrs. J. P. Ellis; guides for the tour, Mrs. T. J. Bradley and Mrs. C. Turner.

IODE TO MEET IN WINNIPEG

IODE members from all parts of Canada will gather in Winnipeg, May 29, for the four-day annual meeting of the National Chapter of Canada. Fort Garry Hotel will be the scene of the 65th meeting which will include a church service, business meetings and election of national officers.

WINGED WOMEN

PARIS (Reuters)—Surrealist painter Salvador Dali launched himself into the world of fashion design Tuesday night with a move to entirely suppress the bosom, replace it with cloth wings and present women as angels.

Dali has signed a 10-year contract with a United States manufacturer to create sports wear and design printed fabrics. He showed his first bikini bathing suits on three models Tuesday night.

The father of surrealism views women as angels and says most of them have wings instead of bosoms. Fashion critics gathered to find Dali had tied a tight cloth across the bosom and let it blossom into stiffened wings behind.

He sketches his most fanciful version of a bathing costume for the future with helium-inflated wings suspended at the back, permitting a woman to fly about in the air. Other bikini bathing suits have giant eyes printed on flat-chested brassieres.

Attack Pesky Weeds At Root of Problem

By Penny Saver

There ought to be a law against weeds. For weeks I've been struggling in one little flower bed—trying my hardest to keep ahead of the pests. But if I slacken my vigilance for a day, there they are back again. Gr-r-r! However, here's a new weapon for the war being waged against weeds — a repellent which "nips 'em in the bud", but which won't harm permanent plants.

When you're preparing a flower border or bed for spring or early summer planting, dust this repellent powder over the soil. It dives deep to remove weeds where they begin—at the root of the matter.

Priced at $1.98 for a large, large can, this powder does not damage soil or plants already growing. However, don't use it on places where seedlings have just been planted. Also, this product is toxic and should be kept out of the reach of children.

Another problem I have is with the garden hose. When I put the hose away after watering the lawn or flower beds, I never have the patience to coil it neatly. Usually it lies in a tangled heap until I use it again. And believe me, it's a horrible job, and sometimes a wet one, trying to untangle 100 feet of garden hose which sometimes has a residue of water left in it.

Here's a perfect storage answer for the garden hose. It is a huge cylindrical reel, designed to hold the full 100 feet. Even while using, there is no need to remove the hose from the wheel. For watering, it has an attached nozzle. Stand it on the lawn and you have a sprinkler.

This is ideal for winter storage of the garden hose. Compact, it will fit almost anywhere. There's less danger of the rubber cracking or splitting, too. Price is $10.50.

(Here's a tip for lazy people like me. The youngsters will have a wonderful time winding the hose on the reel. I know, I've tried it.)

Here's another helpful item for reluctant gardeners. It is a four-way rake, selling for $5.65. What does it do? It rakes, weeds, cleans and combs out moss from the lawn. The steel blades of this are bent slightly at the end so that grass or weeds do not clog but allow it to move freely. This rake takes care of all the chores I hate to do—all by itself!

Four Alteration Problems Readers Asked for Most

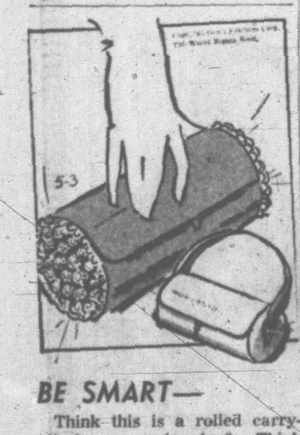
The following four alterations are those you have asked for the most often in your letters. I shall include many more so write me about your fitting problems and we'll try to solve them.

1. LARGE, FULL BUST, but hollow in the chest: Take a ¼ inch fold at centre front of bodice (4 inches below shoulder). This fold tapers to nothing at the armhole. You will probably need extra length on the bodice front. Darts below bust and at the underarm should be made deeper.

2. ROUND SHOULDERS: Cut bodice back about 3 inches below shoulders and spread ½ inch at centre back to nothing at armhole. Also, add a small dart at each side of the centre back on the neckline.

3. SWAYBACK: There is too much fabric just below the waistband of your skirt because you are extremely flat at this place. Take a ¼ inch fold at the centre back three inches below the waistline, tapering to nothing at the side seams. This will make more of a curve at the waistline and a shaped facing for the skirt will be more satisfactory than the ordinary waistband which is cut straight.

4. EXTREMELY FLAT CHESTED: Take a ¼ inch fold at centre front of bodice, four inches below shoulders, tapering to nothing at armhole. Decrease the size of both the underarm dart and the dart under the bust.



BE SMART—

BELONGING TO GRANDMOTHER

Heirloom Bible 'Something Old' Carried By Miss Margaret Akins

An heirloom Bible originally carried by the bride's grandmother at her own wedding was "something old" for Margaret Jean Akins when she exchanged marriage vows with Denis Antony Cliff recently. The Bible was topped with white gardenias and roses.

The bride wore an empire-line gown of appliqued brocade, styled slightly en train. The bodice featured a jewel neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her three-tier chapel-length veil of illusion net misted from a coronet of pearls.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. John W. Akins, 2535 Shelbourne Street, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cliff, 953 Wollaston Street. Mr. Akins gave his daughter in marriage.

Baskets of white stocks and snapdragons decorated St. Aidan's United Church for the ceremony at which Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated.

Identical bell-skirted gowns of coral embroidered brocade, topped by loose-fitting short jackets, and wedding ring headpieces en tone, were the choice of matron of honor Mrs. A. E. Jacobson, New Westminster, and bridesmaids, the Misses Evelyn Bean, Donna Cliff, the groom's sister, and Margo Akins, cousin of the bride. White carnations with coral centres formed their cascade bouquets.

An empire-line frock of white lace was worn by flower girl Kelly MacGee. Her headpiece was a coronet of white carnations and she carried a basket of blue and white flowers.

Robert Humphries was best man. Guests were ushered to pews marked with white freesia and white satin bows by the bride's brothers, John and Norman Akins, and Stephen Cliff, brother of the groom.

A three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by white tulle, candles and roses, centred the bride's table for the reception which followed in the War Amputations Hall. Bowls of daffodils and tulips decorated guests' tables.

Robert C. Akins proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to Cranbrook, B.C., where the newlyweds will make their home, the bride donned a blue boucle suit, complemented with a white floral hat and black accessories. White roses en corsage completed the ensemble.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CHEESE-APPLE CRISP PIE

Makes one nine-inch pie.

One unbaked nine-inch pie shell, 4 cups peeled sliced apples, ½ to ¾ cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ cup soft butter, ¼ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, ⅓ cup all-purpose flour, ½ cup shredded cheddar cheese and ¼ cup chopped pecans.

For the Filling: Preheat oven to 400 degs. F. Prepare apples. Sprinkle with granulated sugar, two tablespoons of flour, nutmeg and cinnamon; combine thoroughly. Turn into prepared pie shell.

For the Topping: Cream butter; beat in brown sugar and the ⅓ cup flour. Lightly mix in cheese and pecans. Crumble this mixture over apples. Bake in preheated oven 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 375 degs. F. and continue to bake until topping is crisp and apples are tender, about 20 minutes longer.

Warm squares of spicy gingerbread crowned with apple rings and topped with a whipped, cream cheese mixture add up to a delicious dessert that's made to order for busy cooks. For the gingerbread, use a mix, top with the apple slices and bake as usual, sprinkling with brown sugar after it's been in the oven 20 minutes. While it's baking or just before serving, whip up the topping from a package of cream cheese, sugar and orange juice. Spoon over top of each square and sprinkle with nuts.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Low Carbohydrate Diet!

Lowman

Most of you know that starches and sugars are the high carbohydrate foods. The reducing plan which is currently so popular limits your carbohydrate intake to 60 grams a day. If you stick to that you can eat anything else you want, and lose pounds, that is, unless you simply stuff yourself on everything else.

If you are going to follow this plan you will have to forget, or drastically cut, your intake of such favorites as cakes and desserts, candy and cookies and many grain products. When studying the carbohydrate content of foods you will be surprised to discover that some of the fruits and vegetables you have been accustomed to have a comparatively heavy carbohydrate content. You will learn to choose between different fruits and vegetables in order to stay within the 60 allowable carbohydrate grams.

For instance, six spears of asparagus give you only three carbohydrate grams while a half cup of lima beans has 16 grams. One whole cup of cauliflower has only five grams while one ear of corn has 16 grams. A half cup of spinach gives you three grams while a half cup of beets gives you six. A half of a medium avocado gives you six carbohydrate grams while one small banana gives you 23!

I think that there are two reasons which make this diet so intriguing. In the first place you can have items you longed for before when reducing. Such things as lobster newburg, roquefort dressing on your salads, fried eggs and bacon, cream, mayonnaise, Hollandaise sauce, meats of all kinds, and other dishes which were prohibited are now allowed.

Then too, it is a well known fact that proteins and fats take longer to digest, remain in the stomach longer, and therefore delay the moment when you are hungry again. They are satisfying. As the old saying goes, "They stick to your ribs." Evidently, not to your hips.

I am receiving many letters from readers asking about the idea of reducing by cutting the daily carbohydrate intake. Also many write to ask what number of grams a certain food has.

So far as I can discover this is a gay, pleasant, and effective way to lose a few pounds quickly. However, if you plan to pursue this for a long time or have any physical disability you should talk to your doctor about it.

In order to give those of you who are carbohydrate watching an assist, I have compiled a long list of foods giving you the number of carbohydrate grams in each plus planned meals. It's a handy pocket-sized book which will really help you.

If you would like to have my booklet "Carbohydrate Gram Counter" send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

St. Philip's Church Scene of Wedding

Lilies and spring flowers were at the altar of St. Philip's Church when Rev. R. O. Wilkes heard marriage vows exchanged between Sylvia Carole Sainsbury and Brian Lester Stilling.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Sainsbury, 3231 Orillia Street, and the groom's parents are Mrs. L. Stilling, 3528 Henderson Road and the late Mr. Stilling.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ribbon crochet pink wool suit, styled with a V neckline and highlighted with an apricot-pink satin bow and collar edged with toning robbon. A pink tulle hat and white accessories complemented the outfit. Pink sweetheart roses, pink hyacinths, stephanotis and streamers were in her bouquet.

Her only attendant, Miss Sylvia Lowe, chose a navy blue wool suit, featuring a V neckline and white collar. Her hat was of navy blue glossy straw and she wore white gladioli and roses en corsage.

Best man was Geoffrey Potter. Ushering guests to their pews was the bride's brother, David Sainsbury.

Ralph Moore proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in the Union Centre. A three-tier wedding cake, flanked by vases of spring flowers, centred the bride's table.

Following a honeymoon trip to Washington state, the couple will make their home at 2502 Shelbourne Street.

For travelling, the bride wore her wedding suit, accented with navy accessories and topped with light blue wool coat. A corsage of white gardenias completed her costume.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Stubborn Pride!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son won a speech contest at school. He was to go on to the provincial speech contest, but this is what happened. My husband and I were asked to sign sworn statements saying that we did not help our son with the writing of his speech as it was supposed to have been an original composition. I signed it willingly as we had given our son no help. In fact, we did not even hear the speech until he gave it in competition.

My husband refused to sign the statement, saying that the boy's word alone should be sufficient, and he resented the school authorities taking such measures to insure the truth from a student. I said if we did not sign the statement they would think that we helped our boy with his speech. Well, my husband refused to sign it, and our son was disqualified from the contest. I would like your opinion because my husband and I are still at odds because of this.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I agree with with you. Since you gave your son no help, you should have signed the statement. I think your husband did his son an injustice.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for a little over a year. It has been a wonderfully happy marriage. Neither of us ever dreamed such happiness was possible. Before we met, while my husband was working in Europe, he had an affair with a European woman 20 years his senior. This lasted five years. He was transferred out of the country and their relationship ended. Then he met me. It's been three years since he has seen her. They have exchanged Christmas cards. That is all.

Yesterday he received a letter from her telling him that she intends to visit the States (and our city) this summer. My husband wants me to meet her and says we should have her out for dinner. This has caused our first major disagreement. He says they are only friends now and she is no threat to our marriage. I say I don't want to meet her, and I would rather that he didn't either. Am I being unreasonable?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No! While the lady may be no threat to your marriage, knowing of her past relationship with your husband would make you uneasy in her company. If your husband insists on seeing her, go with him. But try to persuade him to skip it.

DEAR ABBY: You recently ran three letters in your column. Two were from women boasting that they had each given birth to 16 children. And one was from the woman whom you congratulated on being the youngest great-grandmother — a woman whose mother had her at 15, who had her first child at age 15, and whose daughter bore her child at age 15, and whose granddaughter bore her first child at the ripe old age of 16. The average female can bear a child at age 13, and can produce approximately 30 children in the span of her fertile years. Breeding for most people is the easiest thing in the world. The congratulations should go to those who don't.

The next time you run an informal contest, why don't you try to find the mother who has produced the most college graduates in her family? Or the mother who has had the most children in the Canadian Overseas Volunteers, or accomplished something equally worthwhile?

Sincerely, MARRIED AT 27
MOTHER OF ONE

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest and best fertilizer for your lawn and shrubs. One dollar buys over 600 pounds of topsoil which, if applied as topdressing (one yard for every 600 sq. ft.) will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made. Top-dressed lawns, moreover, are far less vulnerable to weeds, and most important of all, require less watering. On the other hand, one dollar of chemical fertilizer will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer which at best contains only 20% of plant food. It will, therefore, only act as a short-lived stimulant without any lasting value.

REPAIR WORK BEGINS

Flood Battle All But Over

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—The worst of the Mississippi River floods—the roughest in history — appeared beyond the danger point today, but the long, costly task of repair and recovery is just beginning.

Many homes were ruined. Thousands of acres of flooded land meant a disastrous year for farmers.

One example was the town of Gulfport, Ill. Only the tops of roofs and trees protruded from the swirling waters. The 250 residents evacuated before the flood struck the community.

In Quincy, the Red Cross distributed the first of thousands of cleanup kits to residents who weathered a 24.3-foot crest Tuesday. The kits include mops, brooms, hoses, soap and disinfectant.

In Hannibal, Mo., the Mississippi began slowly receding after cresting at 24.4 feet Tuesday. Readings of 24.3 in Hannibal and 24.1 in Quincy were reported late Tuesday night. Army engineers predicted the drop would be slow and would depend in a large decree on any rain.

More than 2,500 persons have been sheltered by the Red Cross in six states since the floods began. Thousands of others moved in with friends and relatives.

ARCHBISHOP COMING HERE

The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England, will visit Canada in 1966.

Archbishop Harold Sexton announced the visit at the 63rd Synod of the diocese of Anglican synod of the diocese of British Columbia Tuesday afternoon.

"If present plans are followed he will be in our diocese on Saturday, Oct. 1, and Sunday, Oct. 2," the archbishop said.

FOOD COMES FIRST for these bear cubs who are just a few days out of an incubator at the Fox Game Farm at West Sand Lake, New York. They are more interested in Patty Fox, who feeds them, than their mother, a 450-pound black bear. Papa is a 650-pound cinnamon bear. When they were born, Teddy, Terry and Tina weighed four ounces each and were about four inches long. (AP Wirephoto.)

Alderman to Defy Rathie Order To Explain Police Crime Ring

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ald. Tom Campbell was ordered Tuesday to appear before a special meeting of the Vancouver Police Commission Friday to explain his charges that city policemen have been involved in criminal activities.

The order was signed by Police Commissioner John I. Bird.

Mayor Bill Rathie said later he regretted that the alderman had to be ordered to appear before the committee. He said he hoped the order could be cancelled and Ald. Campbell would appear voluntarily.

Ald. Campbell said he will obey the order but added that he will not testify unless the commission sets up a proper inquiry.

He said he cannot give names in an open commission meeting. But he can give information and give the names connected with it privately to commissioners.

MAKES CHARGES

Ald. Campbell made three specific charges before city council Tuesday:

That there was substantiation to a former call-girl madame's charge that she paid police and civic officials protection.

That seven policemen were involved in a series of breakins and enterings in 1962.

And that a "bail bond racket" was operating in the city jail right up to the time that Const. Leonard Hogue shot himself, his wife and six children two weeks ago.

The alderman, who offered to give names, places and dates at an in-camera meeting of city council, was renewing his demands for an independent inquiry into the police department.

POLICEMAN SUSPECT

The department has been under close investigation by senior officials since the Hogue death. He was suspected in the theft of $1,250,000 in mutilated money from a Vancouver warehouse in February.

At least one other policeman was also under suspicion.

Ald. Campbell said Attorney-General Robert Bonner should conduct a personal investigation into the department.

He claims to have information to substantiate charges of police protection made in the Exchequer Court of Canada in Ottawa last December by a call-girl madame.

Of the alleged breakins and enterings, Ald. Campbell said: "The investigation concerned stolen TV sets and no criminal charges were laid. The officers were transferred around and the team was split up. I don't think the public had any knowledge of that. If this is the sort of probe we are going to have now, we need an independent probe."

Smallwood, Lesage Again At Odds Over Power Sale

QUEBEC (CP)—A new basis for negotiating sale of Churchill (formerly Hamilton) Falls power has placed Premier Lesage of Quebec and Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland at loggerheads again.

Premier Smallwood discussed the matter with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Tuesday and disclosed the new basis for negotiations in a Montreal interview while he was en route to Newfoundland.

The new proposal by the British Newfoundland Corp. (Brinco) drops sale of the falls' estimated 7,000,000 horsepower potential at the Quebec-Labrador border to Hydro-Quebec. Instead, construction of a direct current line through Quebec enabling Brinco to deliver power to Ontario Hydro, the Maritimes and possibly Hydro-Quebec has been proposed.

Premier Lesage said Tuesday night he would have nothing to do with the new proposal.

He told reporters in the Quebec legislature he is awaiting "new price figures" from Brinco which "could serve as the basis of new negotiations" on Churchill Falls power.

Brinco - Hydro - Quebec negotiations broke down last summer when Quebec demanded a lower price for power it would buy from Brinco.

However, Premier Lesage said the "absolute condition" for negotiations between Quebec and Brinco is that Quebec buy all Churchill Falls power.

Is Double Indemnity a good buy for you?

It may be. It certainly costs very little to add Double Indemnity benefits to your basic Manufacturers Life insurance policy. And, in the event of death by accident, as defined in the contract, your policy will pay the amount of the double indemnity benefit plus the amount it would normally pay. You can see why Double Indemnity is particularly appealing to some people. Frequent travellers, for example.

But Double Indemnity is rather like an optional extra on your new car—one of several from which you can choose to suit your particular needs. You may well find that one of the other "optional extras" is more valuable to you. A Disability Waiver, for example, which pays your premium should you be disabled. Or, if you're young, it might make more sense to insure your insurability—make it possible to take out more life insurance in the future even if ill health makes you otherwise "uninsurable."

Is Double Indemnity the best buy for you? It depends on your needs—and you know those best. But it also depends on the alternatives available—and there Manufacturers Life can help you. Just call your Man from Manufacturers, any time.

Budget Geared to Meet Economic Council Goals

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Lamontagne said Tuesday the Liberal government's new budget has incorporated for the first time a system of national economic planning.

Speaking in the budget debate, he told the Commons the Economic Council of Canada must be considered in any serious economic discussions and the budget must be considered in connection with the council's first report.

The report had given the government targets to aim at and recommendations on how to reach these goals. The budget was a major step in reaching the goals.

The council report on Canada's economic future said 1,500,000 new jobs have to be provided by 1970 to ensure continued prosperity. The Liberal government had helped to create 500,000 jobs in the last two years and if it continued at this rate, it would achieve the job goal by 1968, Mr. Lamontagne said.

Income tax reductions announced in the budget would stimulate economic growth. The government's manpower policies provided new opportunities for depressed areas and pockets of unemployment, working together with the government's planned war on poverty.

SAYS IGNORES PROBLEM

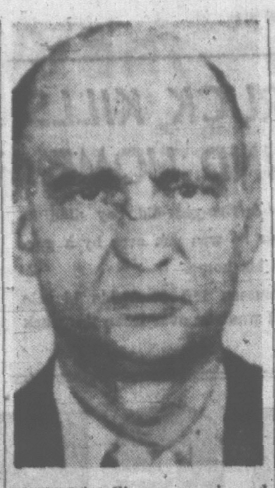
Heward Graftey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) said the government's "wait-and-see" budget ignored the serious problems of price stability, integrity in government and rural and metropolitan poverty. Most of the recommendations of the Economic Council of Canada had either been ignored, misinterpreted or put on the shelf.

He called for a national constitutional conference to improve federal-provincial relations and "renew and modernize" Canada's constitution.

Murdo Martin (NDP—Timmins) said the government's intention to place the Crown-owned Polymer Corporation under the proposed Canada Development Corporation—a body set up to boost Canadian investment in Canadian industry—is a "sellout" of assets owned by the Canadian people.

Jack Davis (L—Coast-Capilano) said applied research is the key to long-term development.

"In this country we must specialize" to get maximum production from a small population. The government had provided general tax relief and specific measures for research and must take "a good, hard look" at present research to see whether it should be continued, expanded or dropped.



SOVIET intelligence service admitted for the first time publicly Tuesday night that Col. Rudolf Abel was one of its top agents when arrested in New York in 1957 and later freed in exchange for U-2 pilot Gary Powers. Admission was made in a Moscow TV documentary.

Secret Medal Awarded To U-2 Pilot Powers?

NEW YORK (AP)—The Central Intelligence Agency in a secret ceremony has awarded a medal to Francis Gary Powers, the U-2 pilot whose crash deep inside the Soviet Union shook the world—and caused a good deal of anguish to the CIA, the New York Herald Tribune says.

The crash five years ago last Saturday chilled East-West relations and ended any meaningful contact between President Eisenhower and then Soviet Premier Khrushchev. The summit meeting in Paris collapsed in the wake of the U-2 uproar. Eisenhower said at the Paris conference that photo reconnaissance flights over Russia had been stopped and would not be resumed.

The copyright story says in part:

Powers, who ostensibly was a test pilot for the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, manufacturer of the U-2, received the medal in a ceremony about two weeks ago at the CIA's headquarters in Langley, Va. He actually had been a $30,000-a-year pilot for the CIA.

AWARD IS SECRET

Powers, now 35, is not supposed to wear the medal and is not supposed to tell anybody about it.

When The Herald Tribune asked a spokesman for CIA to confirm the award, he replied: "No comment at all. He's a former employee. We don't comment on former employees."

It was reliably learned, however, that the secret medal was awarded at a ceremony attended by several top officials.

There were at least two mysteries surrounding the medal: First, why the CIA wanted to bestow an award on its most famous employee — one who brought the agency under the public scrutiny which it always tries to avoid; second, why the CIA waited five years.

Powers, captured by the Russians, was traded to the U.S. in 1962 for the Soviet master spy, Col. Rudolf Abel, who had been sentenced in federal court in New York City to 30 years in prison.

FEE STANDS FIRM

The United States patent office reports that the fee for filing a patent, $30, has remained unchanged since 1793.

UN FORCE GETS MORE AUTHORITY

NICOSIA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada said Tuesday night the arms buildup in Cyprus is still going on.

Despite this, he told reporters, he would strike a note of optimism in the Cyprus situation and of unreserved confidence in the United Nations force.

The minister said the force that includes 1,100 Canadians now has more authority than ever before and that some of this increased authority is less than 24 hours old. He declined to elaborate on this point.

Martin spent nine hours Tuesday conferring with Greek—and Turkish—Cypriot leaders and UN officials and looking at fire-and-bullet-damaged buildings along the ceasefire line in Nicosia.

Water Witch Wanted

By AB KENT

A water witch with finely-tuned willow wand might sell his services in Centennial Square these days.

Technical people at city hall are having a harder time than they bargained for in divining an 807-gallons-per-day leak in Centennial Fountain pool.

City engineer James Garnett said last week about 1.5 inches of water a day was lost out of the 40-foot pool and an examination of the bottom showed no fault in construction.

Architectural consultant Roderick Clack suspects the chink is in a plastic pipe connected to the fountain's recirculating pump system and is possibly buried under tons of concrete masonry between the pumping vault and the pool.

If the leak is found to be there, a solution may be to thread a smaller diameter plastic pipe through the broken one, instead of tearing up the square.

Meanwhile, the fountain remains silent — at a saving of 33 gallons of water an hour, or a half-gallon a minute, or three tablespoonsful per second . . .

GARBAGE TRUCK KILLS BOY, 5, BEHIND HOME

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A five-year-old boy died in hospital Tuesday, an hour after he was run over by a garbage truck in the lane behind his home.

RCMP said Robert Rasmussen fell from his bicycle between the truck's wheels and was run over when the truck moved forward a few feet.

Bomb Becomes Ornament

Lightning may not strike in the same place twice, but apparently aerial practice bombs do.

A 250-pound bomb was discovered Sunday by a group of boys hiking in the Becher Bay area of Metchosin.

They are members of the Metchosin Adventures and Exploration Club, headed by Christopher Pike, 4590 Rocky Point Road.

The group found a similar bomb there last year no more than 100 yards from Sunday's discovery.

Naval diving and demolition experts Lt. Douglas Hinchcliffe and PO "Ike" Shaw were called in by the group to dismantle the missile which measures four and a half feet in length and a foot in diameter.

They found it to be harmless as it had expended its smoke flare.

The navy has presented the bomb to the hiking club as an ornament for its headquarters.

SASK. SOON 'AN EQUAL'

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatchewan is quickly losing its "have not" image, Mineral Resources Minister Alex Cameron told the annual meeting Tuesday of the Canadian Council of 4-H Clubs. He said mineral, potash and oil development would earn it a position equal to other provinces.

Uvic Students Want Finances Out in Open

University of Victoria students' council has asked their board of governors to make public its financial requests to the provincial government.

In a resolution presented to the board April 30 the students asked that both the requested university operating grant for 1965-66 and the amount received be published.

The amount of the operating grant is usually announced by the board when it is received from the government, but the requested amount is not made public.

The students also requested that the board disclose the implications of a reduced operating grant in relation to equipment purchases, faculty salaries and the faculty-student ratio.

The board was also asked to comment on an earlier suggestion by the students' council that the university community—board of governors, faculty and students—make a joint effort to bring the financial needs of the university to the attention of the provincial government and the public.

In its resolution the students' council charged that the provincial government, by failing to provide the necessary operating funds, is forcing provincial universities to consider fee increases.

The three universities capital fund drive is also being endangered by the government, the students said, since without sufficient operating money B.C. universities cannot make maximum use of their expanding facilities.

"The public and the students are being asked to pay for the operation of provincial universities and yet are not being told how much it costs," said students council president Paul Williamson.

In a letter to Uvic president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor opposing any further fee increases, Mr. Williamson stated that "scholarships and loans do not compensate for high tuition."

He also said that a tuition increase two years in a row would encourage "a public outcry."

Viet Cong Wins 'Political War'

Sheer U.S. Military Might Only Answer In Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWN

SAIGON (AP)—One year ago U.S. officials here were saying that the war in South Viet Nam must remain a South Vietnamese war—Americans would lend all necessary material and advisory support but not combat troops.

Since then U.S. official thinking has undergone an almost complete change.

Nearly 10,000 U.S. marines are in Viet Nam and paratroopers began arriving today. No one is willing to say just how many more American combat troops are headed this way, but it is clear that no mere token forces are involved.

What has changed American thinking?

The reason usually given is increased infiltration of guerrillas and arms from North Viet Nam. In recent months the discovery of Communist arms caches along the South Viet Nam seacoast has underscored the infiltration problem.

There are fears the Viet Cong is braced for a monsoon season offensive dwarfing any of the Communist efforts of the last five years.

LIMIT OPERATIONS

For the first time in months U.S. fighter-bomber and helicopter operations will be seriously curtailed by rain squalls, low overcast and fog. This can be especially dangerous in the jungle-covered mountains that make up about two-thirds of South Viet Nam's land area.

But underlying the new American push is a factor that lies close to the roots of the war itself. Most U.S. officials have become convinced that South Vietnamese forces cannot defeat the Viet Cong no matter how long they try.

Many believe that a Viet Cong victory would come in a matter of weeks or even days without the gigantic support now coming from Washington.

The implications of this conclusion are grim. It means in effect that the Viet Cong already have come near to winning the political war for South Viet Nam. To hold back the Communist tide now will be a question of sheer military force.

A year ago U.S. officials feared that the use of American combat troops here could be a big propaganda setback.

"We don't want to be saddled with charges of gunboat diplomacy," one official said.

CAN LINE BE HELD?

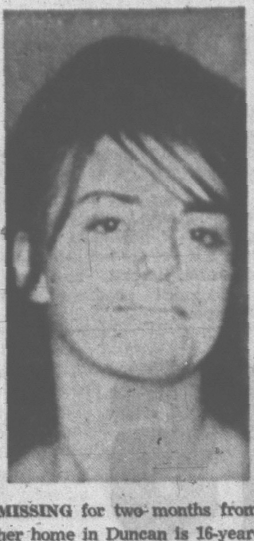
Now things have gone too far to worry about the niceties of propaganda. The hope is that U.S. troops will be able to hold the sagging line in central Viet Nam and that a second front can be opened toward North Viet Nam.

South Vietnamese generals have been urging for years a frontal assault on North Viet Nam. The arrival of massive numbers of American troops here could make that a possibility. There seems a strong likelihood that Saigon ground forces will soon be operating to some degree north of the 17th parallel.

Meanwhile, U.S. forces in the northern part of central Viet Nam are likely to look more and more like occupation troops.

As the marines fan out into the countryside the Viet Cong is expected to make maximum propaganda capital out of the theme that the war now is white men fighting yellow men. Already Radio Hanoi is drawing its parallels between the French army of 1945-54 and the new U.S. ground forces.

It now is a direct test of strength between the Pentagon and the men who have perfected Communist political military warfare.



MISSING for two months from her home in Duncan is 16-year-old Judy Cox. She is five feet, seven inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds and has dark hair and brown eyes. Anyone knowing her whereabouts should contact police.

New College May Locate At Pr. George

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—This north-central city may be the site of a degree-granting college within 10 years, Dr. John Macdonald, president of the University of British Columbia, said Tuesday.

He said in a telephone interview from Vancouver that it would be a toss-up whether Prince George or the Okanagan would have the province's fifth degree-granting college.

There are three degree granting colleges at present—the University of Victoria, UBC and Notre Dame at Nelson. Simon Fraser University in Burnaby will be the fourth when it opens this fall.

Dr. Macdonald said he thought Prince George had greater growth potential than the Okanagan, but that the Okanagan had already set the wheels in motion for construction of a two-year college.

Clerics Help Settle Gravediggers Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—A month-long strike by gravediggers at two of Greater Vancouver's major cemeteries was settled Tuesday.

An interdenominational group of clergymen was credited with playing a key role in the settlement.

The strike, called April 3 by the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (CLC), delayed an estimated 140 burials at Forest Lawn and Ocean View cemeteries in neighboring Burnaby.

The dispute was basically over a demand for a closed shop, meaning the two companies would employ only union members.

The settlement provides that any new employee must join the union 90 days after he is hired. The union originally asked for a 30-day limit.

Joseph Desaultnier, union business agent, said the 26 workers would be back at work today.

He said the ministers, headed by Rev. Art Griffin of the United Church, "were of great assistance in bringing both sides into agreement."

The ministers met with the union and Gilbert Arnold, president of both companies, for two days.

The ministers said they offered to mediate the strike because the clergy could have been put in an embarrassing position if they had to cross picket lines—"which many of us are opposed to doing."

Wages were not an issue in the strike. Workers were earning $2.15 an hour at the time of the walkout and were to return to work at the same rate.

Canadian Joined Sect To Hide Illegal Entry

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Canadian who allegedly dressed as an Amishman and lived among members of the sect in Lancaster, Pa., to hide his illegal entry into the United States, was slated for a hearing today before federal authorities.

The U.S. immigration service said the man posed as Daniel A. Fisher but that his real identity is Calvin A. Laskey, 53, of St. John, New Brunswick.

Immigration officials said the suspect wore a beard and adopted some of the Amish customs since his entry into the country last fall. They said Laskey was deported previously in 1963 but returned.

Residents of Intercourse, near Lancaster, told authorities they recalled that Laskey showed up there, said he had an Amish background and was thinking of "going back to Amish."

They said that while Laskey adopted some customs of the sect, he drove a 1930-vintage model A Ford, frequently pulling a small camp-type trailer. The Amish shun modern contrivances.

Subway Car Topples

NEW YORK (AP)—One car of a subway work train toppled from elevated tracks at 2 a.m. today, hurling the work gang foreman to death in the street 30 feet below and knocking out service on a major subway line for the morning rush hour. The 10 other workmen on the train were injured, one seriously.

India Asks Guarantee In Lieu of Atom Arms

CHAKRAVARTY
. . . raps China

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India proposed Tuesday that any agreement on banning a further spread of nuclear weapons contain a United Nations guarantee to safeguard the security of countries which may be threatened by a nuclear power.

With Communist China obviously in mind Ambassador B. N. Chakravarty made the proposal in a speech to the 114-country UN disarmament commission. He said it represented an "integrated" approach to the problem.

The United States has endorsed the idea of seeking agreement to halt the proliferation of nuclear weapons and has suggested that countries not possessing them be given some guarantee of security.

Chakravarty made clear India's preference for a UN guarantee in offering five main points he said should be considered by the 17-country disarmament committee in Geneva when it resumes detailed negotiations. The points are:

- An undertaking by the nuclear powers not to transfer nuclear weapons or nuclear weapons technology to another.
- An undertaking not to use nuclear weapons against countries who do not possess them.
- An undertaking through the UN to safeguard the security of countries who may be threatened by powers having a nuclear weapons capability or embarking on a nuclear weapons capability.
- Tangible progress toward disarmament, including a comprehensive test-ban treaty, a complete freeze on production of nuclear weapons and means of delivery, as well as a substantial reduction in the existing stocks.
- An undertaking by non-nuclear powers not to acquire or manufacture nuclear weapons.

Chakravarty assailed Communist China for exploding a nuclear device in what he said was defiance of the limited test-ban treaty.

He said China's actions "need to be countered and we trust the international community will take note of the affront given to it and the damage" caused by the test explosion.

Joint Project For Centennial Still City Hope

Mayor R. B. Wilson said Tuesday the city of Victoria has not closed the door on a joint Greater Victoria centennial project.

He said recent press reports of city council committee discussion are "premature because these matters were not discussed by the full council.

"No decision has yet been reached on this question," the mayor said.

"We are still exploring the possibilities of a joint centennial project on a area basis."

Council's finance and parks committee last week talked of making restoration of Royal Athletic Park the city's centennial project.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY

Committee members, including the mayor, agreed that Athletic Park must be replaced and that there will not be enough money to do this and to contribute to a joint centennial project as well.

The city's centennial committee representative was asked to invite the other Greater Victoria municipalities to join the city on its estimated $300,000 Athletic Park project for the Canadian centennial.

After a secret meeting of council the mayor spoke again:

"The problem that does face us is where to get the money to do both," Mayor Wilson said. "We haven't been given a hope of where the money might be found.

"City council has not closed the door on any project. It is just that we are having difficulty in analysing our financial position.

"We still believe in the principle of a joint project if we can find a way to finance it as well as reconstruct Royal Athletic Park stands," the mayor said.

New Captain For 'Sag' Next Week

Commander H. H. W. Plant, 36, of Montreal will take command of HMCS Saguenay when the Esquimalt-based destroyer escort is recommissioned here May 14.

The 366-foot warship has recently undergone an extensive refit to variable-depth sonar and helicopter hangar and flight deck.

The conversion was started at Burrard Dry Dock Co., North Vancouver, and completed at HMC Dockyard.

Cmdr. Plant executive officer of the Yukon, also based at Esquimalt, and has also served in the DE Margaree.

SHAWNIGAN BEACH HOTEL
Shawnigan Lake

Make plans to get away from sea level for a while.
Come up to the well-known change of air at Shawnigan — warmer — softer.
Good, too, for tensions — good for nerves — or just if you are a bit run down.
Try a day or two, or stay longer. You will notice the difference and feel great.
A very comfortable family hotel with a beautiful setting in 30 acres of grounds. Owned and operated for many years by the Hurleys.
Peaceful surroundings. Plenty to do if you want to, or just sit.
Home of "The Fire That is Never Out." Fine library, bridge, "socializing," pitch and putt golf, tennis, boats, fishing, woodland walks and many other things.

PRICES AND INFORMATION?
Just phone collect, 743-9303 or 743-2312. Write Denis Mason Hurley, P.O. Box 3, Shawnigan Lake.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

Here is a father-son discussion on luck in duplicate. The hand is taken from the Spring National charity game and normal bidding would find South playing a three-club contract reached as shown in the box.

NORTH 5
♠ Q J
♥ K 8 4
♦ J 8 3
♣ J 10 9 8 6

WEST
♠ 7 5 4
♥ A 10 3

EAST

♦ Q 10 9
♣ 4 2

SOUTH (D)
♠ K 9 8 3 2
♥ 7 5
♦ K 7
♣ A K 7 3

East and West vulnerable

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥ A.

Oswald: "South can make four spades because trumps and clubs break perfectly. How would you feel if you sat East-West and watched South romp away with that contract.

Jim: "Just about the same way you would feel. Like a man who had just run head-on into a brick wall. I would feel just as badly about the whole thing if my opponents played any spade contract at all. Even if declarer made three odd for a score of 140 I would know that I had a bad result because a sensible club contract would only be 110 or 130."

Oswald: "Somebody might play three clubs and make five. Assume that West opens the ace of hearts and continues the suit. South wins, in dummy takes his ace and king of clubs, carefully retaining the six spot in dummy. Then he goes after spades. East wins the first spade and leads another heart. Declarer ruffs, leads a spade to dummy, gets back to his hand with the seven of trumps and discards all dummy's diamonds on his spades."

Jim: "Right! Here's a question about the bidding. North might go from two clubs to two spades to try for a spade partial. That would land them in spades. How would someone get to four spades?"

Oswald: "After North's three-club bid as shown in the box South might bid an unsound three spades. North would expect South to have a better hand and raise him to four."

EQUITY
CAN MEAN
CASH IN YOUR HAND

That investment you have in your home is an asset in more ways than one. You qualify for the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan. Under this plan you may borrow from $2,000 to $20,000 on the equity you've built up. The interest rate is reasonable. There are no hidden charges or obscure clauses. You completely repay the loan in equal monthly instalments over a period of up to ten years. There are no "balance" or "balloon" payments. Interest is computed monthly on the unpaid balance. This means that each payment you make reduces the amount of interest you pay.

There are 101 reasons why you might need cash—financing a university education, buying a second car, remodeling your home. Keep the Associates' Home Owner's Plan in mind. The Associates is one of Canada's largest financing firms with branch offices in principal cities across the country.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

There's still a country-bumpkin-in-a-big-city awe about this viewer following the success of the new communications satellite, Early Bird.

Stephen

The performance on Sunday was just a sample of what the mechanism can do in the field of television communication. Monday night it demonstrated its unique capability for simultaneous trans-Atlantic conversation and further potential in the field of news.

NBC's Chet Huntley was in London, while BBC's Richard Dimbleby was in New York for the special telecast, "Panorama," utilizing Early Bird.

The two newsmen talked to each other about their own news programs and stories they have covered. It was smoothly efficient when one considers there are still many areas to be ironed out before the satellite can be used as easily as equipment in TV studios.

Lorne Greene rode high, wide and handsome Monday with his one-hour special on the American West.

He looked completely at ease as if he had grown up on the wide-open plains of that section of North America rather than the sidewalk jungles of Ottawa and Toronto.

The program depicted in song the fact, fantasy and free spirit of America's westward development.

It was a lively hour and one which gave Greene an opportunity to shake the Ponderosa dust for a demonstration of his, now popular, narrative singing style.

And if you timed the program you will have noticed it took exactly 27 minutes before he got around to "narringing" (narrative-singing) his hit song, Ringo.

Greene is being featured more and more of late in this role of entertainer rather than Bonanza actor. It is almost as if there are plans in the wind to prepare for his eventual departure from the popular western TV series.

After all, all good things must come to an end some day.

TIDBITS: A color broadcast of Queen Elizabeth's dedication of a British memorial to the late President Kennedy will be aired on NBC-TV May 14. The program, which will run 30 to 45 minutes, will be taped the same day at historic Runnymede, where the Magna Carta was signed in 1215, and will be flown back to America.

CBS-TV is reported planning on a lengthy documentary about Frank Sinatra for next season . . . Raymond (Perry Mason) Burr is visiting servicemen in Viet Nam for the fifth time in three years . . . The "ABC Scope" subject for May 12 is the Ku Klux Klan . . . 156 "New Three Stooges" cartoons are being readied for television. They will be five-minute color jobs.

Franchot Tone has been signed for a regular role in the "Ben Casey" series for next season. He'll replace Sam Jaffe, who has left the series after four years as co-star with Vincent Edwards . . . Eddie Albert will star next year in a new CBS-TV half-hour comedy series as a lawyer who, with his wife, moves from the city to a rural community.

Langford Makes War On Dog-Killer Algae

(And Other Island News)

LANGFORD—Langford Lake residents are forming an improvement district to battle a killer algae.

Overwhelming support for the move has come from residents affected by the algae which in the past has been responsible for the death of several dogs.

The algae forms in the summer months when the lake level is low.

The improvement district hopes to arrange for government aid in building a flood control gate at the lake's outlet.

Island Bottling Plant Foreman Ordered Rehired

A Nanaimo bottling company has been ordered by the Labour Relations Board in Victoria to rehire a plant foreman it dismissed two months ago.

In addition, Island Bottling Limited must pay back wages to Siegfreed Adam.

At the same time, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 464 was certified as bargaining agent for the company's employees.

Teamster president Ed Lawson said the plant foreman was allegedly fired for not having a satisfactory command of the English language. He was fired the day the Teamsters applied for certification.

Mr. Lawson said the foreman had held his job for three years and had been with the company for eight years.

The back pay Island Bottling must provide amounts to only $52 because the union found him a job as a laborer paying $2.17 an hour—52 cents more than he received as a foreman.

DAN CAMPBELL
. . . parochialism

Model Towns Campbell Aim

NANAIMO—Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell elaborated Tuesday on the provincial government's three-stage plan for banding small B.C. areas together under local governments.

He told a Nanaimo service club meeting the three-stage decentralization plan takes land from forest management licence areas to develop model towns which are not administered from Victoria.

Examples of model towns springing up through mining or forest industries are Port Alice, Port McNeil and Port Hardy, Mr. Campbell said.

He said the plan's first stage is developing the idea that the first people in an area should make decisions regarding ownership and position of property.

SECOND STAGE

The second stage was breaking down what Mr. Campbell called the "tragic disease of parochialism." He said many political boundaries set up years ago are useless today because they don't permit proper planning.

"Stage three encourages B.C.'s smaller areas to take decentralization upon themselves and organize the 99½ per cent of the province which is unorganized," Mr. Campbell said.

WHALE HUNT FLOUNDERS

Not a Killer to Be Seen

SOINTULA — A bring-em-back-alive hunt for a killer whale by a team from "Marineland" near Los Angeles has been dogged by bad luck, it was reported today.

Frank Brocato of Marineland said the operations base at this remote community on an island off the northeast coast of Vancouver Island has not even sighted a whale in three weeks' hunting.

He said his three-man crew will nose their 39-foot seiner north in an attempt to net, lasso or shoot with a tranquillizer gun a wily killer whale.

The team is trying to duplicate the capture last year of Moby Doll by Dr. Murray Newman of the Vancouver Public Aquarium.

Moby Doll died several months after the capture off Saturna Island.

Mr. Brocato said time is running out for his team, now en route to the Queen Charlotte Strait off the north coast of British Columbia.

"The spring salmon run, which attracts the whales out into the Pacific will begin soon. But other people say we are too early for the killers."

Whalers See End Coming

PORT HARDY—Russian and Japanese fleets are driving the whale population of the Northwest Pacific toward extinction, says the manager of a whaling plant near here.

Their disregard of conservation techniques indicates that in five years the B.C. Packers-Tayio Fish Company will have to drop its operation, said manager Lorne Hume.

The plant, 12 miles from here on the northern shore of Vancouver Island, has operated at a loss for the last three years. Mr. Hume said in an interview Tuesday that high North American wages and equipment costs have kept the business in the red.

He said Russian factory ships and whalers come into the area and kill almost everything in sight—whales under the size limit, pregnant cows and cows with calves.

"They just have no regard for the international rules followed by other nations," he said.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Elvis Presley's intimates fear that his six-year romance with Priscilla Bieleou, daughter of one of his officers when he was in the army in Germany, is over—although ever since she came to the U.S. she's been regarded as the only one he ever cared for. She'll soon be rejoining her parents in Europe. Of course, that move might indicate a more optimistic plot line than the boys suspect: suppose she was just returning to her family so her parents could announce the engagement in proper fashion? . . . Despite warnings by Charles Chaplin to "stay away from my daughter," sleek Omar Sharif continues to take more than a fatherly interest in lovely Geraldine Chaplin and she seems fascinated by him.

The New York authorities are about to launch a dramatic drive against narcotics pushers and users. It should make headlines—big ones—within a month . . . Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, cabled Irina Demick in Paris, inviting her to attend the benefit premiere of "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" in London on June 3. HRH is official host for the charity event . . .

Gina Lollobrigida certainly didn't have many compliments for the Yankee Doodle Internal Revenue Service when she returned to the old country last time. She told European reporters: "Even the Mafia gives you some sort of warning, but not the American tax men!" (Mafia—heavens! How does a sweet thing like Gina Lollo get to know about the Mafia?) . . . Yule Brynner is sighing with relief. His most recent medical examination showed that his worst fears—and they were shuddery—were groundless . . . Ethel Merman may have meant it when she announced she was forsaking Broadway for good. She turned down the lead in the musical version of "All About Eve"—and that's a plum role, made memorable in the movies by Bette Davis.

* * * *

The fan magazines can brace themselves for a series of cover stories if the newest international romance, so far secret, becomes public domain. The lovers are a famous Scandinavian actress and a titled Britisher.

ACHTUNG!—literally—Cary, Rock, Peter, Marcello, et al.: It's very likely the screen's newest dreamboat will be sailing into port when "Ship of Fools" has its premiere. He's Oskar Werner of Germany, and it was clear from the audience reaction of this week's first New York preview that he steals the picture from the all-star cast. He's not just fascinating to look at, he can act well enough to impress the most jaded men while the females are swooning. Most of the chic preview crowd—Judy, Sir John, Noel, Ethel and Lucen among them—had come to root for Vivien Leigh, but they, too, went away raving about the newcomer . . . The pop-art three-dimensional window at Cinema I is getting more laughs than any other display in town . . . "Half a Sixpence" is this kind of a hit: During intermission, patrons dash out to the box office and buy tickets for their children . . . Arlene Dahl's heart is going pitty-pat-pat again. The lucky fellow is Matt Kelly, a wealthy San Franciscan.

* * *

Washington insiders say there's a good chance that COMSAT will be the subject of a new investigation by a Senate sub-committee usually described as a "buzzsaw group" . . . Producer Joseph Beach, currently preparing the film version of "3 Lives for Mississippi," has been in touch with a former FBI undercover man who may work as technical advisor on the picture. Burt Lancaster is wanted for the starring role in this story of Ku Klux Klan terror.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert Minihan, age 9, of West Roxbury, Mass., for his question:

What starts the wind?

Wild winds huff and puff, tear up the trees and rip off the roofs. But the warm winds of spring thaw the frozen ground. Summer winds strew pollen for the plants and sweep gently through the stiffling cities. Most of the blowing breezes are kind to us and the world needs them.

We can hear a howling wind and feel it blowing on us outdoors. We can watch a flag flapping in the breeze. But we cannot see the wind itself because it is made of air, and we cannot see the air around us. Wind is air moving from one place to another. We can feel whether it is warm or cool, fast or slow. But because we cannot see it, the air can hide secrets from us.

Sometimes the air is thicker or thinner, lighter or heavier. But our prying eyes cannot tell whether today's air is thick and heavy or light and thin. There are gadgets, however, that tell these airy secrets. The barometer tells the weight of the air and exactly how heavy it is. The weatherman calls this a measure of air pressure, and it tells him where the wind my start. The thermometer tells how warm or cool the air is. This is the air's measure of temperature, and it tells the weatherman even more about where and why the wind will start.

Starts From Cool Air

Air is made of tiny fragments of gas. High pressure air is thick and heavy with crowded fragments. Low pressure air is light and thin with fewer particles. And as a rule the air is light or heavy because of temperature. Warm air tends to expand and spread out its gassy particles. Cool air tends to shrink and crowd its particles together.

The world is warmed by the sun which shines on half the globe at a time. It gives more heat to the tropics and less to the poles. The earth is a changing patchwork of warm spots and cool spots. The air is warmed or cooled as it touches the land and sea, and it also is a changing patchwork of warm and cool spots. As a rule the winds start from patches of cool and heavy air and blow toward patches of warm and light air. Most winds that blow over our heads start because the sun forgot to warm some faraway spot on the face of the earth.

The mountains may warm or cool patches of air and start the breezes blowing. The sea makes the air warmer or cooler than the air above the land, and the morning and evening sea breezes blow from different directions. There are other reasons why the breezes blow fast or slow, this way or that. But most winds start from masses of cool, thick air and blow or flow toward masses of warm, thin air.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Debra Tognett, age 12, of Casmalia, Calif., for her question:

Is it true that peat turns into coal?

Peat is a mossy plant that likes to grow in swamps where it tangles with the marshy mud. New generations of greenery form on the top, and the peat moss of older generations below may be many feet thick. This plant material does not decay in stagnant, marshy water, and in time it becomes buried deeper and deeper in the ground.

Our layers of coal were formed from forests that failed to decay and became buried in the ground. It took millions of years to change this crushed and heated plant material into coal. But the first stages of coal-making were very much like those of a peat swamp. After perhaps 100 million years or so some of our peat swamps may be buried layers of coal.

Is it true that peat turns into coal?

Peat is a mossy plant that likes to grow in swamps where it tangles with the marshy mud. New generations of greenery form on the top, and the peat moss of older generations below may be many feet thick. This plant material does not decay in stagnant, marshy water, and in time it becomes buried deeper and deeper in the ground.

Our layers of coal were formed from forests that failed to decay and became buried in the ground. It took millions of years to change this crushed and heated plant material into coal. But the first stages of coal-making were very much like those of a peat swamp. After perhaps 100 million years or so some of our peat swamps may be buried layers of coal.

Two Sides Sign 'Firm Truce' To Halt Dominican Civil War

52 Climbers Killed In Japan Blizzards

TOKYO (Reuters)—The death toll of holiday mountaineers soared to a record 52 today as blizzards battered Japanese mountain areas.

Police said the mountain death toll was Japan's worst for its annual Golden Week holiday period which began with Emperor Hirohito's birthday April 29. The previous high toll was 20 in 1962.

It was estimated that 3,000 persons had mountaineered during the holiday period despite warnings of rough weather.

Police reported many climbers were rescued after having been stranded by fierce snowstorms caused by unusual atmospheric depressions.

Eighteen climbers were badly injured in falls.

KLANSMAN COLLIE WILKINS JR. hurries past photographers as he enters court for third day of his trial at Hayneville. An FBI undercover agent testified Wilkins fired the shots that killed a white civil rights worker.

'WILKINS' KILLER'

Klansman Shot Rights Worker Says FBI Spy

(Times News Services)

HAYNEVILLE, Ala.—A defence lawyer sought today to portray an FBI undercover man as a troublemaker and a member of the Ku Klux Klan who violated a sworn oath against betraying secrets of the white- supremist order.

Matt H. Murphy Jr., general counsel for United Klans of America Inc., dug into the background of Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., the FBI informer, in an attempt to discredit the undercover man's testimony.

Rowe testified Tuesday that Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, was the killer of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, following a Negro - organized civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery March 25.

Rowe, answering Murphy's questions in a calm, deliberate voice, admitted receiving periodic payments from the FBI in return for information about Klan activities.

He said he had been paid $800 in one month, last January, but that most months the figure was much smaller.

Murphy drew a rebuke from circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard when the lawyer asked Rowe whether he had been paid any money by "Castro or the Communist government."

"Mr. Murphy," the judge said, "I think you know better than to ask a question like that."

Wilkins, of Fairfield, Ala., is the first of three Klansmen brought to trial on first-degree murder indictments.

After Rowe left the stand Tuesday, Murphy commented angrily to reporters that Rowe had "told a G—d— lie and I'll prove it tomorrow."

Mrs. Liuzzo, 39-year-old mother of fivve and the wife of a Teamsters' Union official, was shot to death while shuttling other marchers back to Selma following the civil rights march to Montgomery in which she, too, had taken part. A young Negro, Leroy Moton, riding in the front seat with her escaped injury.

Rowe told the all-white 12-man jury Eugene Thomas, 42, of Bessemer, drove the Klan car and that seated next to Thomas was 41-year-old William Orville Eaton, also of Bessemer. Thomas and Eaton are the other Klansmen under murder indictment and awaiting trial.

Undercover Agent for 5 Years

Rowe said he had been a paid undercover agent for the FBI for five years.

Rowe told the court Tuesday he was riding with the accused trio the night Mrs. Liuzzo was killed.

He said the car in which he was riding followed the Liuzzo vehicle on U.S. Highway 80. He said Thomas, the driver, pulled out and drove parallel to the Liuzzo automobile.

Rowe told the court Wilkins leaned out of the car window and fired two bullets almost point blank at the woman just as she turned and "looked straight at us."

Rowe said Wilkins exclaimed "they're dead now and in hell."

After the killing, Rowe testified "Gene Thomas said, 'Let's go by the dragon's house,' — that's Robert Creel, the Grand Dragon of the state of Alabama —'and tell him what a good job we did'."

Moton testified Mrs. Liuzzo was humming "We Shall Overcome," the anthem of the civil rights movement, when the shots rang out.

"Did you smell whisky on her breath before the car went off the road?" Murphy asked.

Moton said he did not.

Murphy asked: "Did you do anything to her?"

"No I didn't," Moton replied.

"Did you fire those shots in the window?" Murphy roared at Moton.

"Wasn't there lots of money in her pocketbook and you took it?"

Moton denied both questions.

"You're trying to pin something on me, that's what," Moton said.

Murphy asked Moton if he had relations with Mrs. Liuzzo but the question was ordered struck by the judge.

"You don't know where those shots came from, do you?" Murphy asked.

"I don't know where they came from," Moton replied.

4 Provisions In Agreement

(Times News Services)

SANTO DOMINGO—The Organization of American States announced today that both sides had signed a "firm truce" in the civil war that cost more than 1,000 dead and brought U.S. armed intervention.

Before the announcement, troops of the U.S. 92nd Airborne Division opened fire on a 350-foot rebel trawler in the Ozama River touching off a tremendous ammunition explosion that cast a black pall over the city.

The trawler apparently was bringing in rebel arms from abroad.

Several hundred more American troops landed today as the OAS officials met at the loyalist stronghold of San Isidro Airbase.

The U.S. defence department announced there now are 18,363 U.S. troops in the Dominican.

Junta leaders and rebel provisional "president" Francisco Caamano Deno signed the truce.

The agreement called the "Act of Santo Domingo" had four provisions:

- Formalizes the ceasefire already shakily in effect.
- Demarcates an enlargement of the security zone carved out by U.S. marines and paratroopers to include all foreign embassies.
- Provides for evacuation of persons who have taken asylum in various embassies and of refugees caught up in the fighting.
- Provides for distribution of food, medicine and medical equipment to both sides regardless of political beliefs.

OPENED FIRE

The trawler of unknown nationality first opened fire on the U.S. paratroopers who returned the fire and the explosion followed.

The ship did not sink but was lying disabled in the river which bisects Santo Domingo. Fate of its crew was not known.

The rebels have announced the election of Caamano as "provisional president" but so far the Americans have shown little interest in him.

Though officially neutral they have worked through junta leader Col. Pedro B. Benoit whose forces hold the airport where American troops and supplies have landed.

Military sources said eight American servicemen have been killed.

Some public services resumed operation in Santo Domingo today and emergency food and medical supplies poured in. The revolt broke out 11 days ago.

U.S. REFUSES TO GRANT RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today withheld recognition of the rebel Dominican "provisional government" former under Col. Francisco Caamano Deno.

A department spokesman said "in our view there is no effective government at the present time" in the Dominican Republic.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey also said that the United States had "no candidate" to head a Dominican regime.

McCloskey said an effective Dominican government "would have to demonstrate that it was in control of the country, and that has yet to be demonstrated."

U.S. RESISTS ATTACKS

Pressure Grows To Leave Island

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States toady faced growing pressure in the United Nations for a speedy withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to reply in the Security Council this afternoon to a sharp attack by Uruguay and to a French call for a rapid end to U.S. military intervention in the Latin American country.

But Stevenson made clear Tuesday that the United States intends to maintain its forces there until the Organization of American States has worked out plans to guarantee order under a constitutional government.

Cuban delegate Fernando Alavarez Tabio commented that this was a formula for indefinite U.S. intervention.

One of the hardest blows for the U.S. was the toughness of a denunciation by Uruguay delegate Carlos Maria Valazquez, who declared that what he called the new "Johnson doctrine" was contrary to the traditional inter-American policy of non-intervention.

BOLIVIA BACKS U.S.

Uruguay is one of the two Latin American members of the 11-nation council. The other is Bolivia, which backed the U.S. view that the Dominican problem should be handled by the OAS and not by the UN.

Bolivian delegate Fernando Ortiz Sanz, suggested, however, that Security Council President Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia be authorized to appeal to the Dominican factions to take all possible measures to obtain a ceasefire.

The British lined up solidly behind the United States and the OAS.

"It is to the Organization of American States that we should look to find a settlement," Lord Caradon told the council, "and then to facilitate a rapid return to normal conditions, and then to leave the way open to the establishment of a free government based on the wishes of the Dominican people."

DR. SAMUEL SHEPPARD
. . . back to jail.

Wife Killer's Freedom Ends

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today set aside a lower court order freeing Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard and ordered him returned to prison for the bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife.

There was no immediate indication when Sheppard might be returned to Ohio penitentiary in Columbus but it was expected his attorneys would ask the court to leave Dr. Sam free on bond while an appeal is taken to the supreme court.

The court's decision overturned an order issued last July by federal district Judge Carl Weinman at Dayton who said Sheppard did not receive a fair trial at Cleveland and ordered him released.

Protest Rejected

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China has formally protested to Russia against the Soviet expulsion of four Chinese students from Russian Universities, the New China Agency said tonight. The Kremlin rejected the protest by returning the note, the agency said.

Labor Group Rebuffs Tri-U Fund

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The Alberni and District Labour Council has refused to support the Three Universities Capital Fund.

The council Tuesday night rejected a request by Victoria representatives of the fund for a campaign covering union members.

Council president Dan Connell said financing for the universities should be derived from the same source at that for general education—the general tax structure. He added: "It should not be collected through tin cup methods."

The fund is currently attempting to raise $28,000,000 for capital projects at the University of B.C., the University of Victoria, and Simon Fraser University.

The Chamber of Commerce, business and other groups in the Albernis last week gave their support to fund representatives.

Johnson Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives overwhelmingly backed up President Johnson's Viet Nam and Dominican Republic policies today by sending to the Senate an emergency $700,000,000.

SEATO MINISTERS:

Defensive Action 'Must Continue'

LONDON (Reuters) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization ministerial council in a communique issued here tonight said that until Communist aggression in South Viet Nam was brought to an end resolute defensive action must be continued.

The council also expressed grave concern at the situation arising from Indonesia's confrontation of Malaysia as constituting a serious threat to peace in the Southeast Asia area.

The Pakistani delegation made a special observation in the communique on the passages dealing with the Viet Nam conflict.

It expressed to the council its special concern over the consequences of the continuance of armed conflict in Viet Nam and expressed the hope that determined efforts would also be made to restore peace in that area through negotiations on the basis of the existing Geneva agreements.

The council—at the end of its three-day meeting — expressed the hope that "an honorable and secure settlement would be arrived at on a basis acceptable

36,000 U.S. TROOPS IN VIET NAM

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines killed eight Viet Cong guerrillas south of Da Nang Tuesday in their most successful combat patrol of the war. Two marines were wounded.

Transport planes landed 1,200 U.S. paratroopers today, bringing army ground combat units to Viet Nam for the first time. About 2,300 more men of tse 173rd Airborne Brigade, based in Okinawa, were expected soon, probably this week.

The movement of the paratroop brigade will bring U.S. armed forces in Viet Nam to about 36,000.

Police Charge Crowd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police on foot and on motorcycles charged a crowd of civil rights demonstrators and bystanders Tuesday night at all-white Gerard College. They were reported to have injured two girls. Six persons, all Negroes, were arrested in the action, which took place after the anti-segregation picketing of the school.

French Press, Radio Silenced by Saigon

SAIGON (Reuters)—South Viet Nam today ordered the expulsion of the chief correspondent of Agence Fance-Presse, halted all French broadcasts and warned that further diplomatic measures might be taken against France.

The government announced it had taken these steps because of the French government's stand at the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference in London.

Tuesday France said it would officially dissociate itself from any joint action by SEATO and any of its conclusions on the Viet Nam crisis.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the nightly two-hour broadcasts over Saigon radio of programs supplied by the French cultural mission to South Viet Nam would cease as from tonight.

The expelled correspondent was Jean Ageorges, chief of AFP's Saigon bureau.

German Capitulation Marked by Canadians

DEVENTER (Reuters)—Canadian troops again marched through The Netherlands today, 20 years after their fighting led to the German capitulation in Holland at Wageningen May 5, 1945.

A march-past in this Dutch town of Canadian NATO troops stationed in West Germany was reviewed this afternoon by Gen. Charles Foulkes, who commanded the Canadian 1st Army Corps in Holland during the war and Canadian Ambassador W. F. Bull.

Prior to the parade the Canadian party, including Brig. T. Graeme Gibson, wartime commander of the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, was scheduled to attend a commemoration service at the Canadian Military Cemetery at Holten in Overijssel province.

About 200 relatives of soldiers buried there came here for the commemoration.

Flags were out all over Holland today, a national holiday, and church bells rang to celebrate the liberation.

In the morning Queen Juliana reviewed a large military parade at Amesfoort.

From 47 Dutch municipalities nearly 400 relay - race-runners early today lighted their Liberty Torches in front of the Wageningen Hotel De Wereld where the capitulation was signed 20 years ago in the presence of Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands.

The village of Zwartsluis in Overijssel celebrated liberation day in its own special way: A public meal was served consisting of Meat and Vegetables.

This was served by the cooks of the Canadian troops in the first days after Holland was liberated. Nearly the whole village took part in the meal.

TRAFFIC NOISE WILL BE CUT BY BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new transport minister announced plans today to muffle motorcycles, scooters, automobiles and trucks.

In a letter to the Noise Abatement Society, Tom Fraser said motor vehicles will be limited to 85 decibells before the end of the year.

The minister said vehicles exceeding the decibel limit will be ordered off the streets and roads. He said enforcement details would be announced later.

Provisional Cease-Fire

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri today announced a provisional cease-fire for Indian troops facing Pakistani forces in the disputed Rann of Kutch.

Shastri told a House debate that Indian armed forces had been ordered not to shoot in the disputed area as long as diplomatic efforts are underway for a peaceful settlement.

REBELS CONTROL TEEMING DOWNTOWN SECTION

Barbed Wire, Marines Separate Armed Camps

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Eleven days of rebellion have divided the Dominican Republic's ancient capital into two armed camps separated by U.S. marine barricades and barbed wire.

The marines occupy most of the well-to-do residential area while rebels hold the teeming downtown section.

People pass freely through the barricades, but marines frisk them for arms.

Marine headquarters is the luxury hotel El Embajador, where families waiting to be evacuated sleep on the Victorian furniture in the lobby.

The marines have turned a polo field into a supply depot and helicopter landing strip. The tropical shrubbery and lawns have been scarred by tanks, amphibious trucks and foxholes.

Water is a luxury, available for only two or three hours each day, usually in the morning. Electricity is beginning to be restored, but food is scarce. Many Dominicans gratefully accept rations from the marines.

In the residential area, few venture far from their homes. Virtually none of the well-to-do go to their offices.

A rebel army is in control of the downtown section. Thousands of men and women, most of them armed, support the rebels. Estimates of their number vary from 15,000 to 47,000.

Some people have come from the countryside to support the rebels in the city, moving in with relatives and friends.

In a garage, 40 officers of the riot police, taken prisoner when the rebels seized their headquarters, share food and beer with their guards. At night they sleep in cars. The garage door is not locked.

During an interview, they got into a discussion with the guards over details of a battle in which 13 were killed and 400 taken prisoner.

The garage owner had the last word. Leaning on the hood of a car, he declared: "The Yankees are responsible for this entire crisis."

Armed rebels are everywhere downtown, lounging in doorways on the streets and leaning out of windows.

There are occasional skirmishes, but firing a block away usually does not halt the flow of people through the checkpoints.

There is no official death toll of Dominicans, but doctors in two downtown hospitals estimate that more than 1,000 have died since the fighting started April 24. Many were women and children, struck by shrapnel, bomb fragments and stray bullets.

Arson Threat Sent to Nuns At Shelter

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Security patrols have been stepped up at the Good Shepherd Shelter following threats of arson.

Mother Cecilia Mary, the shelter's founder, said she heard from three or four persons there have been threats of fire.

"They told me they heard the place would be burned down if it was not closed," she said.

For the last few months, a security patrol company has made twice-nightly checks of the 24-acre property in Metchosin.

Tuesday, for the first time, there were patrols during the daytime and throughout the night.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the first peace talks were held between Mother Cecilia, Mother Superior Ursula of St. Mary's Priory, Bishop Remi de Roo of Victoria and church investigator Rev. Andrew Keber of Mission City.

The meeting agreed to a cooling-off period of a few days until negotiations for a satisfactory settlement have progressed further.

Said Mother Cecilia this morning:

"I have a feeling we have won the battle. We won't know for a few months.

"The bishop said the order to close the shelter (effective Tuesday) would be held in abeyance and in the interim he would appeal to Rome on our behalf if necessary."

She said if the bishop doesn't appeal the closure to Rome, she will do so.

★ ★ ★

"I'm relieved and a little tired after it all," said the 75-year-old nun who has declared she will never close the shelter which cares for more than 100 abandoned cats, dogs and goats.

"But I'm not quite satisfied yet, not until everything is completely in order. I think it will be. Public reaction has been so strong."

Bishop de Roo said Father Keber has been assigned "an extremely difficult task" and this was why a period of calm for a few days was agreed to.

He declined to comment on Tuesday's meeting except to reiterate the church's position:

"The church favors human concern for animals but not at the expense of the immortal souls of men or the destruction of man's human character."

Individual meetings between the principals in the controversy are expected to be held today and Thursday before Father Keber returns home.

Man Offers Double Fine To Court

Bill Scott, Victoria's lighthouse philosopher, offered to make a deal with magistrate William Ostler in court today.

Charged with failing to file a '63 income tax return, Scott said: "I'm willing to pay double the fine if the money will be used for education and not national defence.

But Magistrate Ostler was having none of it.

Fining Scott $25, he said: "This is not a proper forum to air your views.

"How this money is applied on the national scene has nothing to do with me."

So ended a verbal tit-for-tat which began with Scott stating: "How sweet are the uses of adversity."

To which the magistrate replied: "That may very well be but I want to hear your plea to the charge."

The plea was guilty.

Theatre System Under Fire After Manager Resignation

Official Reason: Clash of Opinion

By AB KENT
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria city council's handling of McPherson Playhouse operation was criticized today following the resignation of its first manager Robert Ellison.

ROBERT ELLISON
. . . he quits

ALLAN PURDY
. . . system wrong

Critics Allan Purdy, Festival Theatre Society administrator and Carl Hare, Uvic drama division director let fly after a secret meeting of council accepted Mr. Ellison's resignation late Tuesday.

They expressed surprise and called the move a fatal error.

Reasons for the resignation of the 31-year-old theatre manager were officially "differences of opinion."

Council also advised that Jack Morgan, Memorial Arena manager, would become responsible for the theatre as well, on June 1.

Allan Purdy was surprised the theatre will be put under direction of the arena manager.

Mr. Purdy said:

"I had always considered it an error that the city considered Mr. Ellison as a business manager. The city can do the books and the dollars and cents of the operation.

"What was needed was a director to operate the theatre and promote some of the work within the framework of the theatre, such as how to fill the theatre.

Mr. Purdy said a directorate, "principally and solely responsible to see that it truly becomes a community theatre" may be the best way to operate McPherson Playhouse.

Carl Hare called the resignation acceptance a "fatal error."

Mr. Hare said there should be a theatre manager "given as much freedom as permissible." He should have "full power to run the theatre" without having to deal with other operations.

There's a Fault In Operation

"There's a fault in the operation," Mr. Hare said. "We have no knowledge of how far he (Mr. Ellison) has been supported at the policy level.

"The city is running a theatre for the first time and Mr. Ellison has had to learn about the town in a very short time. There have been growing pains.

"I would have liked to see how he would have modified the situation. Anyone would burn their fingers in the first few months of operation.

Recreation and community services committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone said a major difference of opinion occured between Mr. Ellison's and the committee's concept of performance guarantees.

Ald. Toone said the theatre manager "came through a very trying period. But the total picture today is not gloomy by any means."

He pointed to gross box office receipts in the nine weeks Feb. 26-April 30 of $42,858 or $4,726 per week excluding ticket sales by sponsoring groups;

Gross attendance of about 19,000 or 441 persons per day of theatre use;

Occupancy on 43 of 56 available days;

Future bookings on 165 of a total 210 available days excluding Sundays up to Dec. 31;

Successful attendance (50 per cent or larger audiences) for 14 of 18 productions.

Touring Shows Are Expensive

Bringing touring companies to the playhouse cost the city more than $8,000, not counting opening week events.

"We regret this has to take place," said Ald. Toone, "but in the total circumstances the committee accepts the theatre manager's resignation in the best interests of the citizens of the city of Victoria.

John Graeme, president of Victoria School of Music, said, "Anything that can be done to improve the operation of McPherson Playhouse is a step for the good."

There has been comment to the effect that city hall interferes with the theatre operation and that there are "too many cooks stirring the pot."

Mayor Wilson said the theatre had gone through a "growing pain period, but the future looks bright."

One of the few professional theatre managers in Canada Mr. Ellison was selected for the $8,400 post by city council recreation and community services committee as best of 37 applicants from across the country.

He was assistant business manager of the Manitoba Theatre Centre and sales and promotion manager for Crest Theatre Foundation, Toronto, before coming here June 1, 1964.

Mr. Ellison said, "Certainly there were differences, good honest differences that occur between different people.

"I have honest respect for Ald. Toone. My relations with most of the committee were always on a good, friendly plane."

A prepared statement from Mr. Ellison said he regretted leaving, but his decision was based "on a number of factors, the most important one being the opportunity of self advancement.

"The past 11 months in Victoria will undoubtedly be one of the most valuable periods that I have spent in my career.

"The challenge of opening a theatre is one that is not often given to many people. I have considered it a distinct honor to have been allowed this opportunity."

The resignation brings closer the anticipated unification of all civic entertainment and major sports facilities under Mr. Morgan as manager of community recreation and sports facilities.

Drive-In Movie Sought

A movie company has applied to Saanich to build a drive-in theatre on the edge of Mount Douglas Park.

Famous Players Canadian Corp. is seeking to rezone a 13-acre triangle of property where Cedar Hill Road and Shelbourne Street merge.

The exact location is east of Cedar Hill and west of Shelbourne.

The company plans to run the drive-in itself and show first-run movies in conjunction with films showing at the Royal, Capitol and Odeon theatres downtown.

The municipal planning department hasn't completed study of the application.

When it has, a recommendation will go to the Advisory Planning Commission and then it will come to council.

Lawyer Louis Lindholm, representing Famous Players, said he knows there will be "some sensitivity" about landscaping.

"There is no question but that Famous Players is alive to this and would do proper and tasteful landscaping," he said.

$8,816 DEFICIT AT ARENA

Victoria Memorial Arena commission today reported an $8,816 deficit for operations ending eight months as at Jan. 31.

Assets totalled $44,500 and liabilities came to $53,316.

Professional hockey reservation was reckoned at $10,175.

Total revenue for the period was $90,054 of which $25,633 came from public skating. Budget estimate for 12 months comes to $136,200.

At the same time last year revenue amounted to $78,448, compared with $76,725 in expenditure.

Religious Department Studied by University

Establishment of a department of religious studies at the University of Victoria is under study, it was announced today.

The action follows Uvic senate's rejection Tuesday of a proposed Anglican-Roman Catholic college on the campus.

Administration Dean Robert Wallace, a member of the senate, explained this morning that a non-sectarian clause in the Universities Act ruled out the joint college.

The rejection was described as "disappointing" by Archbishop Harold Sexton who said a special meeting would be called tonight.

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo was not available for comment but the Anglican synod meeting in Christ Church Memorial Hall adopted a report of the joint college committee's activities which included the expressed hope that the senate would approve the college this year.

"We still feel there should be a Christian voice explicit on the campus," committee member Archdeacon J. W. Forth told the synod. "But if we cannot get on the campus, we should explore other ways and means of establishing such a college."

Dean Wallace said the senate decided that not only must a college fall under its direct authority but it also must meet the B.C. Universities Act's requirement that "each university shall be non-sectarian in principle and no religion, creed or dogma shall be inculcated."

He said the Anglican-Roman Catholic committee's proposal was not accepted for that reason.

But he added:

"The senate of the university has declared that it is mindful of the desirability of expanding the offerings of religious study on the campus and has therefore referred to the Faculty of Arts and Science for study and report the matter of the academic desireability of a Department of Religious Studies."

He pointed out that Uvic President Dr. Malcolm Taylor, forwarding the rejection to the Anglican and Catholic bishops, had stated "there are no other possibilities for increasing the dialogue between organized religions and the university community" and these always would be open for discussion.

Botany Junket On Saturday

Victoria Natural History Society will hold a botany field trip Saturday.

The group will leave from Douglas and Hillside at 10 a.m., and will be led by Miss M. C. Melburn. Route will follow West Saanich Rd. to centennial Park and Henderson's Point, returning across Saanich Peninsula.

Two Victorians Attend Meeting

Two delegates from Victoria will attend the B.C. Nature Council meeting May 8 and 9 in Kelowna.

Freeman King, well-known naturalist and Times' columnist, will represent the Victoria Natural History Society, and E. H. Garman will represent the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association.

KILLER FROST HITS CROP

Early strawberry crops in the Saanich Peninsula were wiped out by an overnight frost Tuesday.

Market gardeners estimate 10 per cent of the annual output has been destroyed.

The strawberry market is a $500,000 industry in the peninsula.

The frost—around 28 degrees at ground level—blackened the first lot of strawberry blossoms.

Today, gardeners were keeping their fingers crossed for warmer weather.

PICKING DELAYED

As things stand, picking will not begin until the first week in June.

Usual picking date is third week in May.

Further frosts could cause a serious shortage of strawberries throughout B.C.

Mainland and Okanagan crops were set back by the December cold spell.

The frost seriously hampered other crops throughout the area.

Tulips were nipped in the bud.

SHORTAGE?

Chief grower Geoff Vantreight said there is danger of a shortage for Mother's Day this Sunday.

Already he has had trouble fulfilling orders from eastern cities.

Thousands of blooms which were to have been ready for the weekend will now not be ripe until later.

Also affected were potato plants in lower lying areas.

TREES, TOMATOES

Although full extent of damage will not be known for some time, the cold spell could also have hit cherry and apple trees and outdoor tomatoes.

Victoria weatherman William Mackie said temperatures would be much the same tonight though possibly a little warmer.

Clouds Thursday should boost overnight temperatures above freezing point,

TO SOLVE VIEW ROYAL BOUNDARIES

60-Day Limit: Campbell

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today gave a government-appointed committee a 60-day deadline to solve the View Royal problem.

Failure to reach a solution may mean the partition of the unorganized residential district.

The minister's instruction means the committee will seek an agreement with ratepayers for either the amalgamation of View Royal with Esquimalt or the formation of a separate municipality.

Mr. Campbell said if the committee fails to solve the problem he will be "morally bound" under the new Municipal Act to recognize the petition to extend the boundaries of Esquimalt to include the View Royal panhandle.

(Residents of the Panhandle have petitioned the government to incorporate their district with Esquimalt. It was opposed by business interests.)

"The committee will act as a sort of steering committee," said the minister. "It will see if it can get ratepayers to agree to a proposal—a package deal for View Royal."

THREE MEN

The committee is composed of J. Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs; Coun. George Argyle, representing Esquimalt, and Albert E. Beasley, View Royal.

Mr. Beasley said he is not opposed to View Royal amalgamating with Esquimalt providing the municipality makes some tax concessions to the people in the area.

"I feel we should get some tax concessions until such time as Esquimalt starts to provide the View Royal district with extra services," he said.

Mr. Beasley added he was opposed to extending Esquimalt's boundary to include the Panhandle because it would mean that View Royal would lose one-third of its revenue.

"We would be better off if we amalgamate as a whole rather than piece-meal," he said.

Earlier, a government commission set up to investigate the boundary extension, recommended against partitioning View Royal.

It urged the government to solve the administrative problems of View Royal.

ONE-PUNCH MARTIN VS. GASPERS

Grudge Match Challenge Given Smokers

By TERRY IZZARD

The gloves are on.

In the red corner is health minister Eric Martin.

In the blue—oh so blue—corner, the tobacco-loving public.

The issue: Smoking.

The stakes: Better health.

Mr. Martin issued a challenge to the public Tuesday daring smokers to observe a one-day fag ban May 31.

On the face of it Mr. Martin is entering the foray at a disadvantage.

At 59 he is past his fighting best.

Even so, he can be sure the doctors are on his side.

And while he suffers a serious weight setback, his tar-free lungs should be sufficient to carry him through the first few rounds.

In preparation for the fight, Mr. Martin is sticking to a strict fresh-air diet.

Things were vastly different on the other side of the fence.

Here, at Camp No. 7, the day started as usual with a crafty pre-breakfast drag.

This was followed by a communal coughing session and a quick sprint to the nearest cigarette vending machine.

Chief trainer Joe du Maurier confidently predicted a technical knockout in the closing rounds.

Breaking into his third pack of the day, he said: "This boy Martin has got lots of guts to issue the challenge.

"But I don't think he's got the staying power of our boys. They'd rather fight than switch."

Pre-fight betting is heavily in favor of the 50-a-day boys.

But the eventual outcome is as hazy as a downtown poolroom.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE WELL ADVANCED

Huge Sale of Uranium at Stake

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations between France and Canada for the sale of 100,000,000 pounds of Canadian uranium are reported to be drawing closer to agreement.

An official said the sale, negotiated by Denison Uranium Mines to the European atomic energy pool mainly for France, is all but completed, pending approval by the Canadian government.

External Affairs Minister Martin, now in Europe, is expected to touch on the subject when he confers with the French foreign ministry. An official here said "the matter now is in the hands of the diplomats."

But the amounts and prices involved are the concern of the private mining firm involved. Its big mine at Elliot Lake, Ont., is one of the few remaining producing mines in Canada and needs the French sale to keep operations going.

Stephen B. Roman, president of Denison, said in February negotiations with France were well advanced. At that time he said a price somewhat over $4.38 a pound could be expected. At that price, the sale would mean $438,000,000 over the life of a 25-year contract.

EXPECT PRIC RISE

The stickler in the price negotiations is the fact that the market for Canadian uranium is expected to grow rapidly from 1968 on.

A price escalator clause, it is understood, is to be written into the contract.

The point at issue among the diplomats is observance of Canada'd international commitment to sell uranium only for peaceful purposes and to see that uranium is not diverted abroad into any military use.

Normally this would be done by a system of inspection, but any suggestion that Canada should inspect France's use of Canadian uranium was believed to have raised objections in Paris.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH FRANCE WELL ADVANCED

Huge Sale of Uranium at Stake

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations between France and Canada for the sale of 100,000,000 pounds of Canadian uranium are reported to be drawing closer to agreement.

An official said the sale, negotiated by Denison Uranium Mines to the European atomic energy pool mainly for France, is all but completed, pending approval by the Canadian government.

External Affairs Minister Martin, now in Europe, is expected to touch on the subject when he confers with the French foreign ministry. An official here said "the matter now is in the hands of the diplomats."

But the amounts and prices involved are the concern of the private mining firm involved. Its big mine at Elliot Lake, Ont., is one of the few remaining producing mines in Canada and needs the French sale to keep operations going.

Stephen B. Roman, president of Denison, said in February negotiations with France were well advanced. At that time he said a price somewhat over $4.38 a pound could be expected. At that price, the sale would mean $438,000,000 over the life of a 25-year contract.

EXPECT PRIC RISE

The stickler in the price negotiations is the fact that the market for Canadian uranium is expected to grow rapidly from 1968 on.

A price escalator clause, it is understood, is to be written into the contract.

The point at issue among the diplomats is observance of Canada'd international commitment to sell uranium only for peaceful purposes and to see that uranium is not diverted abroad into any military use.

Normally this would be done by a system of inspection, but any suggestion that Canada should inspect France's use of Canadian uranium was believed to have raised objections in Paris.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Denison Advances On Sale Report

On the strength of reports that negotiations are nearly completed for the sale of uranium to France, Denison gained 2¼ to a high of 31½ in trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Industrials continued higher in moderate trading.

Speculative oils were dull. Banff gained 10 cents to $8.10 and Asamera fell 10 cents to $1.40. Gridoil lost a penny at $1.10.

In the main list, banks provided the impetus for an advance. Bank of Montreal rose a point 67½ and Bank of Nova Scotia gained 1¾ to 81½. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce advanced ⅜ to 71.

Canadian Breweries added ¼ at 10⅛ on volume of 19,842 shares and Algoma Steel and Bell Telephone each rose ⅜ to 77¼ and 62.

AT NEW YORK the market made bigger gains as it advanced further into record territory late today. Trading was heavy.

Radio Corp., up nearly a point, looked like a repeater as the most active stock.

Gains exceeding two were made by Johnson and Johnson, Frito-Lay, Pepsi-Cola, Atlantic Refining and Dresser Industries.

AT MONTREAL stocks were up with the exception of papers today. Trading was moderately active. Industrials rose with Chemcell up ⅛. Utilities were higher, with CPR up ⅛.

AT LONDON the market continued its subdued tone and business was light. On the whole, losses slightly outnumbered gains.

Gilt-edged often recovered from earlier dullness and one or two improvements were seen. Dollar stocks were firm.

International Nickel was an Canadian issues outstandingly good spot among Canadian issues and others to go ahead included Algoma, Aluminium, B.A. Oil, Consolidated Paper, Consolidated Mining, Imperial Oil and Trans-Canada Pipe.

Small falls were seen in Hollinger and Brazil Traction while other Canadians held steady. Canadian Pacific was more than a point better in the rail section.

AT VANCOUVER Texmont gained six cents to $1.91 in moderate trading on the mining section at noon today.

Kamloops, the morning's busiest stock, lost one to 66 cents on 121,300 shares.

In the oils, Share gained three to 75 cents and Futurity dropped eight to 57 cents.

Seek New Wage Talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives for 76 Greater Vancouver hotel operators announced Tuesday they will seek a new round of talks in a wage dispute with about 900 members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union (CLC).

The decision followed a meeting of 59 of the 76 hotelmen which gave the B.C. Hotels Association full power to negotiate a contract.

Negotiations broke off more than a week ago when the union's local 676 rejected a 25-cent hourly wage increase over three years and petitioned for a strike vote.

The union was seeking a 25-cent increase in one year, claiming hotels were doing a bonanza business and could afford the raise.

Stan Smith, representing the Hotels Association, said the B.C. Liquor Control Board will not hand down a decision on the hotelmen's request for authority to sell beer cafteria style until automated dispensing machines can be obtained.

NEW YORK (AP)—Elston Howard, New York Yankees catcher, underwent a successful operation today for removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

CFL Meets Next Week on Import Issue

CALGARY (CP)—Canadain Football League officials will hold a special meeting in Calgary May 14 to reconsider the CFL's player roster amendment limiting teams to three naturalized Canadians.

SEATO MINISTERS:

Defensive Action 'Must Continue'

LONDON (Reuters) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization ministerial council in a communique issued here tonight said that until Communist aggression in South Viet Nam was brought to an end resolute defensive action must be continued.

The council also expressed grave concern at the situation arising from Indonesia's confrontation of Malaysia as constituting a serious threat to peace in the Southeast Asia area.

The Pakistani delegation made a special observation in the communique on the passages dealing with the Viet Nam conflict.

It expressed to the council its special concern over the consequences of the continuance of armed conflict in Viet Nam and expressed the hope that determined efforts would also be made to restore peace in that area through negotiations on the basis of the existing Geneva agreements.

The council—at the end of its three-day meeting — expressed the hope that "an honorable and secure settlement would be arrived at on a basis acceptable

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) —The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today set aside a lower court order freeing Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard and ordered him returned to prison for the bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife.

The court's decision overturned an order issued last July by federal district Judge Carl Weinman at Dayton who said Sheppard did not receive a fair trial at Cleveland and ordered him released.

'WILKINS' KILLER'

Klansman Shot Rights Worker Says FBI Spy

(Times News Services)

HAYNEVILLE, Ala.—A defence lawyer sought today to portray an FBI undercover man as a troublemaker and a member of the Ku Klux Klan who violated a sworn oath against betraying secrets of the white- supremist order.

Matt H. Murphy Jr., general counsel for United Klans of America Inc., dug into the background of Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., the FBI informer, in an attempt to discredit the undercover man's testimony.

Rowe testified Tuesday that Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, was the killer of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, following a Negro - organized civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery March 25.

Rowe, answering Murphy's questions in a calm, deliberate voice, admitted receiving periodic payments from the FBI in return for information about Klan activities.

He said he had been paid $800 in one month, last January, but that most months the figure was much smaller.

Murphy drew a rebuke from circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard when the lawyer asked Rowe whether he had been paid any money by "Castro or the Communist government."

"Mr. Murphy," the judge said, "I think you know better than to ask a question like that."

Wilkins, of Fairfield, Ala., is the first of three Klansmen brought to trial on first-degree murder indictments.

After Rowe left the stand Tuesday, Murphy commented angrily to reporters that Rowe had "told a G—d— lie and I'll prove it tomorrow."

Mrs. Liuzzo, 39-year-old mother of five and the wfie of a Teamsters' Union official, was shot to death while shuttling other marchers back to Selma following the civil rights march to Montgomery in which she, too, had taken part. A young Negro, Leroy Moton, riding in the front seat with her escaped injury.

Rowe told the all-white 12-man jury Eugene Thomas, 42, of Bessemer, drove the Klan car and that seated next to Thomas was 41-year-old William Orville Eaton, also of Bessemer. Thomas and Eaton are the other Klansmen under murder indictment and awaiting trial.

Undercover Agent for 5 Years

Rowe said he had been a paid undercover agent for the FBI for five years.

Rowe told the court Tuesday he was riding with the accused trio the night Mrs. Liuzzo was killed.

He said the car in which he was riding followed the Liuzzo vehicle on U.S. Highway 80. He said Thomas, the driver, pulled out and drove parallel to the Liuzzo automobile.

Rowe told the court Wilkins leaned out of the car window and fired two bullets almost point blank at the woman just as she turned and "looked straight at us."

Rowe said Wilkins exclaimed "they're dead now and in hell."

After the killing, Rowe testified "Gene Thomas said, 'Let's go by the dragon's house,' — that's Robert Creel, the Grand Dragon of the state of Alabama —'and tell him what a good job we did'."

Moton testified Mrs. Liuzzo was humming "We Shall Overcome," the anthem of the civil rights movement, when the shots rang out.

"Did you smell whisky on her breath before the car went off the road?" Murphy asked.

Moton said he did not.

Murphy asked: "Did you do anything to her?"

"No I didn't," Moton replied.

"Did you fire those shots in the window?" Murphy roared at Moton.

"Wasn't there lots of money in her pocketbook and you took it?"

Moton denied both questions.

"You're trying to pin something on me, that's what," Moton said.

Murphy asked Moton if he had relations with Mrs. Liuzzo but the question was ordered struck by the judge.

"You don't know where those shots came from, do you?" Murphy asked.

"I don't know where they came from," Moton replied.

Police Charge Crowd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police on foot and on motorcycles charged a crowd of civil rights demonstrators and bystanders Tuesday night at all-white Gerard College. They were reported to have injured two girls. Six persons, all Negroes, were arrested in the action, which took place after the anti-segregation picketing of the school.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD, Gary Thomas Rowe Jr. (centre) walks to court room in Hayneville, Ala., where he testified he saw Klansman Collie Wilkins Jr. shoot white civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Luizzo.

KLANSMAN COLLIE WILKINS JR. hurries past photographers as he enters court for third day of his trial at Hayneville. An FBI undercover agent testified Wilkins fired the shots that killed a white civil rights worker.

OAS Negotiates Civil War Pact

(Times News Services)

SANTO DOMINGO—The Organization of American States announced today that both sides had signed a "firm truce" in the civil war that cost more than 1,000 dead and brought U.S. armed intervention.

Before the announcement, troops of the U.S. 92nd Airborne Division opened fire on a 350-foot rebel trawler in the Ozama River touching off a tremendous ammunition explosion that cast a black pall over the city.

The trawler apparently was bringing in rebel arms from abroad.

Several hundred more American troops landed today as the OAS officials met at the loyalist stronghold of San Isidro Airbase.

The U.S. defence department announced there now are 18,363 U.S. troops in the Dominican.

Junta leaders and rebel provisional "president" Francisco Caamano Deno signed the truce.

The agreement called the "Act of Santo Domingo" had four provisions:

● Formalizes the ceasefire already shakily in effect.

● Demarcates an enlargement of the security zone carved out by U.S. marines and paratroopers to include all foreign embassies.

● Provides for evacuation of persons who have taken asylum in various embassies and of refugees caught up in the fighting.

● Provides for distribution of food, medicine and medical equipment to both sides regardless of political beliefs.

OPENED FIRE

The trawler of unknown nationality first opened fire on the U.S. paratroopers who returned the fire and the explosion followed.

The ship did not sink but was lying disabled in the river which bisects Santo Domingo. Fate of its crew was not known.

The rebels have announced the election of Caamano as "provisional president" but so far the Americans have shown little interest in him.

Though officially neutral they have worked through junta leader Col. Pedro B. Benoit whose forces hold the airport where American troops and supplies have landed.

Military sources said eight American servicemen have been killed.

Some public services resumed operation in Santo Domingo today and emergency food and medical supplies poured in. The revolt broke out 11 days ago.

U.S. REFUSES TO GRANT RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today withheld recognition of the rebel Dominican "provisional government" former under Col. Francisco Caamano Deno.

A department spokesman said "in our view there is no effective government at the present time" in the Dominican Republic.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey also said that the United States had "no candidate" to head a Dominican regime.

McCloskey said an effective Dominican government "would have to demonstrate that it was in control of the country, and that has yet to be demonstrated."

Labor Group Rebuffs Tri-U Fund

(See story page 2)

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The Alberni and District Labour Council has refused to support the Three Universities Capital Fund.

The council Tuesday night rejected a request by Victoria representatives of the fund for a campaign covering union members.

Council president Dan Connell said financing for the universities should be derived from the same source at that for general education—the general tax structure. He added: "It should not be collected through tin cup methods."

The fund is currently attempting to raise $28,000,000 for capital projects at the University of B.C., the University of Victoria, and Simon Fraser University.

The Chamber of Commerce, business and other groups in the Albernis last week gave their support to fund representatives.

Protest Rejected

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China has formally protested to Russia against the Soviet expulsion of four Chinese students from Russian Universities, the New China Agency said tonight. The Kremlin rejected the protest by returning the note, the agency said.

REBELS CONTROL TEEMING DOWNTOWN SECTION

Barbed Wire, Marines Separate Armed Camps

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Eleven days of rebellion have divided the Dominican Republic's ancient capital into two armed camps separated by U.S. marine barricades and barbed wire.

The marines occupy most of the well-to-do residential area while rebels hold the teeming downtown section.

People pass freely through the barricades, but marines frisk them for arms.

Marine headquarters is the luxury hotel El Embajador, where families waiting to be evacuated sleep on the Victorian furniture in the lobby.

The marines have turned a polo field into a supply depot and helicopter landing strip. The tropical shrubbery and lawns have been scarred by tanks, amphibious trucks and foxholes.

Water is a luxury, available for only two or three hours each day, usually in the morning. Electricity is beginning to be restored, but food is scarce. Many Dominicans gratefully accept rations from the marines.

In the residential area, few venture far from their homes. Virtually none of the well-to-do go to their offices.

A rebel army is in control of the downtown section. Thousands of men and women, most of them armed, support the rebels. Estimates of their number vary from 15,000 to 47,000.

Some people have come from the countryside to support the rebels in the city, moving in with relatives and friends.

In a garage, 40 officers of the riot police, taken prisoner when the rebels seized their headquarters, share food and beer with their guards. At night they sleep in cars. The garage door is not locked.

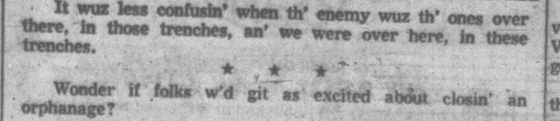
During an interview, they got into a discussion with the guards over details of a battle in which 13 were killed and 400 taken prisoner.

The garage owner had the last word. Leaning on the hood of a car, he declared: "The Yankees are responsible for this entire crisis."

Armed rebels are everywhere downtown, lounging in doorways on the streets and leaning out of windows.

There are occasional skirmishes, but firing a block away usually does not halt the flow of people through the checkpoints.

There is no official death toll of Dominicans, but doctors in two downtown hospitals estimate that more than 1,000 have died since the fighting started April 24. Many were women and children, struck by shrapnel, bomb fragments and stray bullets.



It wuz less confusin' when th' enemy wuz th' ones over there, in those trenches, an' we were over here, in these trenches.

REPAIR WORK BEGINS

Flood Battle All But Over

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—The worst of the Mississippi River floods—the roughest in history — appeared beyond the danger point today, but the long, costly task of repair and recovery is just beginning.

Many homes were ruined. Thousands of acres of flooded land meant a disastrous year for farmers.

One example was the town of Gulfport, Ill. Only the tops of roofs and trees protruded from the swirling waters. The 250 residents evacuated before the flood struck the community.

In Quincy, the Red Cross distributed the first of thousands of cleanup kits to residents who weathered a 24.3-foot crest Tuesday. The kits include mops, brooms, hoses, soap and disinfectant.

In Hannibal, Mo., the Mississippi began slowly receding after cresting at 24.4 feet Tuesday. Readings of 24.3 in Hannibal and 24.1 in Quincy were reported late Tuesday night. Army engineers predicted the drop would be slow and would depend in a large decree on any rain.

More than 2,500 persons have been sheltered by the Red Cross in six states since the floods began. Thousands of others moved in with friends and relatives.

ARCHBISHOP COMING HERE

The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England, will visit Canada in 1966.

Archbishop Harold Sexton announced the visit at the 63rd Synod of the diocese of Anglican synod of the diocese of British Columbia Tuesday afternoon.

"If present plans are followed he will be in our diocese on Saturday, Oct. 1, and Sunday, Oct. 2," the archbishop said.

Smallwood, Lesage Again At Odds Over Power Sale

QUEBEC (CP)—A new basis for negotiating sale of Churchill (formerly Hamilton) Falls power has placed Premier Lesage of Quebec and Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland at loggerheads again.

Premier Smallwood discussed the matter with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Tuesday and disclosed the new basis for negotiations in a Montreal interview while he was en route to Newfoundland.

The new proposal by the British Newfoundland Corp. (Brinco) drops sale of the falls' estimated 7,000,000 horsepower potential at the Quebec-Labrador border to Hydro-Quebec. Instead, construction of a direct current line through Quebec enabling Brinco to deliver power to Ontario Hydro, the Maritimes and possibly Hydro-Quebec has been proposed.

Premier Lesage said Tuesday night he would have nothing to do with the new proposal.

He told reporters in the Quebec legislature he is awaiting "new price figures" from Brinco which "could serve as the basis of new negotiations" on Churchill Falls power.

Brinco - Hydro - Quebec negotiations broke down last summer when Quebec demanded a lower price for power it would buy from Brinco.

However, Premier Lesage said the "absolute condition" for negotiations between Quebec and Brinco is that Quebec buy all Churchill Falls power.

Alderman Will Obey Order To Explain Police Crime Ring

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ald. Tom Campbell was ordered Tuesday to appear before a special meeting of the Vancouver Police Commission Friday to explain his charges that city policemen have been involved in criminal activities.

The order was signed by Police Commissioner John I. Bird.

Mayor Bill Rathie said later he regretted that the alderman had to be ordered to appear before the committee. He said he hoped the order could be cancelled and Ald. Campbell would appear voluntarily.

Ald. Campbell said he will obey the order but added that he will not testify unless the commission sets up a proper inquiry.

He said he cannot give names in an open commission meeting. But he can give information and give the names connected with it privately to commissioners.

MAKES CHARGES

Ald. Campbell made three specific charges before city council Tuesday:

That there was substantiation to a former call-girl madame's charge that she paid police and civic officials protection.

That seven policemen were involved in a series of breakins and enterings in 1962.

And that a "bail bond racket" was operating in the city jail right up to the time that Const. Leonard Hogue shot himself, his wife and six children two weeks ago.

The alderman, who offered to give names, places and dates at an in-camera meeting of city council, was renewing his demands for an independent inquiry into the police department.

POLICEMAN SUSPECT

The department has been under close investigation by senior officials since the Hogue death. He was suspected in the theft of $1,250,000 in mutilated money from a Vancouver warehouse in February.

At least one other policeman was also under suspicion.

Ald. Campbell said Attorney-General Robert Bonner should conduct a personal investigation into the department.

He claims to have information to substantiate charges of police protection made in the Exchequer Court of Canada in Ottawa last December by a call-girl madame.

Of the alleged breakins and enterings, Ald. Campbell said: "The investigation concerned stolen TV sets and no criminal charges were laid. The officers were transferred around and the team was split up. I don't think the public had any knowledge of that. If this is the sort of probe we are going to have now, we need an independent probe."

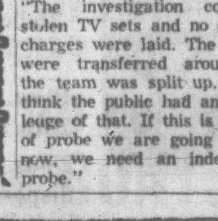
Is Double Indemnity a good buy for you?



J. F. Moody
Representative
VICTORIA
Tel: EV. 5-5751

It may be. It certainly costs very little to add Double Indemnity benefits to your basic Manufacturers Life insurance policy. And, in the event of death by accident, as defined in the contract, your policy will pay the amount of the double indemnity benefit plus the amount it would normally pay. You can see why Double Indemnity is particularly appealing to some people. Frequent travellers, for example.

But Double Indemnity is rather like an optional extra on your new car—one of several from which you can choose to suit your particular needs. You may well find that one of the other "optional extras" is more valuable to you. A Disability Waiver, for example, which pays your premium should you be disabled. Or, if you're young, it might make more sense to insure your insurability—make it possible to take out more life insurance in the future even if ill health makes you otherwise "uninsurable."

Is Double Indemnity the best buy for you? It depends on your needs—and you know those best. But it also depends on the alternatives available—and there Manufacturers Life can help you. Just call your Man from Manufacturers, any time.

36,000 U.S. TROOPS IN VIET NAM

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines killed eight Viet Cong guerrillas south of Da Nang Tuesday in their most successful combat patrol of the war. Two marines were wounded.

Transport planes landed 1,200 U.S. paratroopers today, bringing army ground combat units to Viet Nam for the first time. About 2,300 more men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, based in Okinawa, were expected soon, probably this week.

The movement of the paratroop brigade will bring U.S. armed forces in Viet Nam to about 36,000.

52 Climbers Killed In Japan Blizzards

TOKYO (Reuters)—The death toll of holiday mountaineers soared to a record 52 today as blizzards battered Japanese mountain areas.

Police said the mountain death toll was Japan's worst for its annual Golden Week holiday period which began with Emperor Hirohito's birthday April 29. The previous high toll was 20 in 1962.

It was estimated that 3,000 persons had mountaineered during the holiday period despite warnings of rough weather.

Police reported many climbers were rescued after having been stranded by fierce snowstorms caused by unusual atmospheric depressions.

Eighteen climbers were badly injured in falls.

Pressure Grows To Leave Island

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States today faced growing pressure in the United Nations for a speedy withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to reply in the Security Council this afternoon to a sharp attack by Uruguay and to a French call for a rapid end to U.S. military intervention in the Latin American country.

But Stevenson made clear Tuesday that the United States intends to maintain its forces there until the Organization of American States has worked out plans to guarantee order under a constitutional government.

Cuban delegate Fernando Alavarez Tabio commented that this was a formula for indefinite U.S. intervention.

One of the hardest blows for the U.S. was the toughness of a denunciation by Uruguay delegate Carlos Maria Valazquez, who declared that what he called the new "Johnson doctrine" was contrary to the traditional inter-American policy of non-intervention.

BOLIVIA BACKS U.S.

Uruguay is one of the two Latin American members of the 11-nation council. The other is Bolivia, which backed the U.S. view that the Dominican problem should be handled by the OAS and not by the UN.

Bolivian delegate Fernando Ortiz Sanz, suggested, however, that Security Council President Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia be authorized to appeal to the Dominican factions to take all possible measures to obtain a ceasefire.

The British lined up solidly behind the United States and the OAS.

"It is to the Organization of American States that we should look to find a settlement," Lord Caradon told the council, "and then to facilitate a rapid return to normal conditions, and then to leave the way open to the establishment of a free government based on the wishes of the Dominican people."

German Capitulation Marked by Canadians

DEVENTER (Reuters)—Canadian troops again marched through The Netherlands today, 20 years after their fighting led to the German capitulation in Holland at Wageningen May 5, 1945.

A march-past in this Dutch town of Canadian NATO troops stationed in West Germany was reviewed this afternoon by Gen. Charles Foulkes, who commanded the Canadian 1st Army Corps in Holland during the war and Canadian Ambassador W. F. Bull.

Prior to the parade the Canadian party, including Brig. T. Gracme Gibson, wartime commander of the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, was scheduled to attend a commemoration service at the Canadian Military Cemetery at Holten in Overijssei province.

About 200 relatives of soldiers buried there came here for the commemoration.

Flags were out all over Holland today, a national holiday, and church bells rang to celebrate the liberation.

In the morning Queen Juliana reviewed a large military parade at Amesfoort.

From 47 Dutch municipalities nearly 400 relay-race-runners early today lighted their Liberty Torches in front of the Wageninger. Hotel De Wereld where the capitulation was signed 20 years ago in the presence of Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands

The village of Zwartsluis in Overijssel celebrated liberation day in its own special way: A public meal was served consisting of meat and vegetables.

This was served by the cooks of the Canadian troops in the first days after Holland was liberated. Nearly the whole village took part in the meal.

WHALE HUNT FLOUNDERS

Not a Killer to Be Seen

SOINTULA — A bring-em-back-alive hunt for a killer whale by a team from "Marineland" near Los Angeles has been dogged by bad luck, it was reported today.

Frank Brocato of Marineland said the operations base at this remote community on an island off the northeast coast of Vancouver Island has not even sighted a whale in three weeks' hunting.

He said his three-man crew will nose their 39-foot seiner north in an attempt to net, lasso or shoot with a tranquillizer gun a wily killer whale.

The team is trying to duplicate the capture last year of Moby Doll by Dr. Murray Newman of the Vancouver Public Aquarium.

Moby Doll died several months after the capture off Saturna Island.

Mr. Brocato said time is running out for his team, now en route to the Queen Charlotte Strait off the north coast of British Columbia.

"The spring salmon run, which attracts the whales out into the Pacific will begin soon. But other people say we are too early for the killers."

Whalers See End Coming

PORT HARDY—Russian and Japanese fleets are driving the whale population of the Northwest Pacific toward extinction, says the manager of a whaling plant near here.

Their disregard of conservation techniques indicates that in five years the B.C. Packers-Tayio Fish Company will have to drop its operation, said manager Lorne Hume.

The plant, 12 miles from here on the northern shore of Vancouver Island, has operated at a loss for the last three years. Mr. Hume said in an interview Tuesday that high North American wages and equipment costs have kept the business in the red.

He said Russian factory ships and whalers come into the area and kill almost everything in sight—whales under the size limit, pregnant cows and cows with calves.

"They just have no regard for the international rules followed by other nations," he said.
